50 MILLIONS ASSURED STATE'S JOBLESS

GOV. PINCHOT AND STATE LEADERS AGREE

Fund to Be Voted At Once, But Tax Still Uncertain

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, April 10.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot and political leaders representing all major parties and factions in the Assembly agreed today to raise $23,000,000 immediately for the care of Pennsylvania's poor and jobless.

This, together with $2,000,000 already appropriated, will make a total of $50,000,000 available, as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is understood to have agreed to match any appropriation made by the state.

At a two-hour conference, the conferees unanimously decided that that amount would be raised immediately, but reached no decision on the methods by which it would be realized. Chairmen of the Senate Finance, House Ways and Means and Appropriations committees were to confer later in the day with the Governor.

It was definitely decided that a beer tax would be one of the revenue-raising schemes to be adopted. The conferees discussed the beer control situation at length and decided upon a $1.24 per barrel tax. No estimate of the money that would result from this levy was announced.

The legalization of horse racing in Pennsylvania was another subject considered as a money-raising means. Conferees declined to say whether this was satisfactory but it was generally understood the proposal, brought up by Senator Andrew J. Cordoni, Luzerne, was voted down.

Although the R. F. C. has refused to grant Pennsylvania a loan for April, directors last week informed a committee from Pennsylvania they would match any appropriations made by the state.

In addition to the appropriation agreed upon today, the state will acquire $25,000,000 providing theh voters approve a bond issue in the November election. This likewise could be appropriated for relief purposes and would bring forth a similar amount from the R. F. C.

Dusts Old Portrait, 'Finds' Lord Byron

CHICAGO, April 10.—(AP.)—When Miss Gerda Ahlm wiped away the film deposited on a canvass by Father Time she brought to light a portrait of Lord Byron by George Henry Harlow, missing for more than a century, she said today.

The picture was brought to Miss Ahlm, who is engaged in the business of restoring time-dimmed paintings, by a client who bought it in an old furniture shop.

Italian Race Plane Breaks Speed Mark

DESENZANO, Italy, April 10.—(AP.)—A Macchi monoplane built to compete for the Schneider cup was reported to have broken the world's speed record today with Marshal Francesco Agello piloting.

Knife Victim

MRS. MILDRED DAWSON

Mrs. Dawson, 39, slain with a large carving knife in her home, Manhattan street, North Side.

BREWERS TAKE NO ORDERS

The big American thirst had the brewery industry on the ropes with its tongue hanging out today.

After a dearth of busness for 13 years, the three breweries here had so much on their hands they didn't know what to do with it.

There not only was a shortage of beer, but a shortage of information from the brew houses. Telephone calls (if you were able to get one through) brought this reply from harassed employes:

"No, we're not taking any orders. No, we don't know when when we will. Maybe by the end of the week. I said maybe."

So maybe, if you are lucky, you will get a chance soon to confirm that first opinion that the new 3.2 beer is pretty good. Or maybe you will have to wait.

Sowers Bill Fate Still in Doubt

HARRISBURG, April 10.—Maybe the Senate will pass the Sowers beer regulation and license bill tonight.

Automobile Brakes Wet, Mrs. Roosevelt Late

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—A bit breathless, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt received the press in riding habit today, explaining she had been delayed in returning from her ride through Rock Creek Park by getting her car brakes wet in a ford across the stream.

After she got through the ford, her brakes wouldn't work at all and she thought it would be better to go home slowly without accident than to meet appointments on time.

It was necessary for her to rush through the questions in order to change her clothes and catch an afternoon plane for New York, where she will attend a Consumers League conference on how to cope with the "sweatshop dress problem."

She took time, however, to tell several humorous stories of the rushed and informal life now going on at the White House.

One came in response to a question as to whether she plans to entertain Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter, Ishbel, at Camp Rapidan, as the Hoovers did.

She answered that all she knew about it was that her husband had suggested if she had house guests a week from Sunday, maybe she'd better write and tell them that perhaps they couldn't come.

She said that when she asked why, his reply was that they might be entertaining "a few prime ministers a week from Sunday."

Mrs. Roosevelt had answered that nobody had told her about that.

SUITOR KILLS WOMAN, SELF

Manchester District Tragedy Laid to Jealousy

Climaxing a series of jealous quarrels, Jonathan H. Woods, 57, slashed the throat of Mrs. Mildred Dawson, 39, and his own with a large carving knife at Mrs. Dawson's home at 818 Manhattan street early today, according to a police report.

Both are dead.

Both bodies were partially clad.

Woods, a former roomer at the home of Scott Hull, father of Mrs. Dawson, had been a suitor of Mrs. Dawson, police learned, since her separation from her husband.

FORCED TO LEAVE

Several months ago Woods was forced to leave the Dawson home because of his quarrels, according to police, and had been making his home at the Woods Run Settlement. He was unemployed.

Saturday he visited Mrs. Dawson. They spent Sunday together and retired at midnight, Mrs. Dawson sleeping with her mother, Mrs. Emma Hull, 79; a grandson, Arthur Ford, retiring with Scott Hull, 71. Woods was assigned a room on the second floor.

Early today when the grandson went to the first floor to prepare his breakfast he found the bodies. They lay side by side, according to police.

Mrs. Dawson's head apparently had been crushed with a hammer and then, to make more certain, a large carving knife was plunged into her throat.

KNIFE UNDER BODY

The knife was found under Woods' body.

Ford told police Mrs. Dawson and Woods had had a number of minor quarrels during the day, but they were not regarded as serious. Woods, he said, was trying to effect a reconciliation.

Mrs. Dawson had been employed in the Allegheny General Hospital laundry.

Police found a note among Mrs. Dawson's effects, couched in terms of endearment and telling her "she was the only girl in the world for him." The note was signed "Bert." Police said they believed the couple quarreled over "Bert."

U. S. Awaits Report On Vote Frauds Here

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The Department of Justice expects shortly a report from a group of its agents who have been investigating alleged irregularities at the November elections in Pittsburgh.

The agents have been at work there for weeks. It was said today at the department that a report has not been received, but that since the grand jury convenes next month the information would be laid before officials here before that time.

POWER-JOB PLAN GIVEN CONGRESS

F. R. Spurs Gigantic Tennessee Valley Project

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt put his Tennessee Valley program before Congress today in a message asking rehabilitation of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., power and nitrate plant.

He asked creation of a Tennessee Valley authority to supervise the development of power, flood control, forest conservation and improvement of agriculture.

GREAT PROJECT

The President wrote:

"It is time to extend planning to a wider field, in this instance comprehending in one great project many states directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers.

"If we are successful here we can march on, step by step, in a like development of other great natural territorial units within our borders."

Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, told reporters he would introduce a bill to carry out the presidential recommendations either late today or tomorrow.

Informing inquirers that the bill will reach the House also tomorrow, Chairman McSwain, of the Military Committee there, said the measure would not be the same as to be presented to the Senate.

ROXIE ORDERED TO SERVE YEAR

Pleas for leniency for Roxie Long today failed to win him a parole in the liquor conspiracy case in which he was the chief government witness.

Long, also known as Rocco Di-Pippa, was sentenced by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to serve a year and a day in a federal penitentiary. He had pleaded guilty last fall at the opening of the trial of more than two score defendants.

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay asked leniency for Long, saying he had been requested to do so by Father James R. Cox. Long also pleaded in his own behalf, citing his service to the government in turning state's evidence.

Judge Schoonmaker replied:

"While you undoubtedly aided the government you have been a consistent law violator."

Other defendants in the case were sentenced, some to jail terms, others fined, while a few were paroled.

Pittsburgher Held In Woman's Slaying

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(AP.)—Interest in the two-year-old slaying of Doris Whittemore 30, formerly of Cleveland, has been revived with the detention of four men for questioning concerning the case.

James M. Maxwell, 30-year-old Negro of Harrisburg, informed investigators he saw four men carrying the woman's body into her home in September, 1931. Police said Maxwell had identified four other men who were detained. They included James M. O'Hara 26, of Pittsburgh.

Girl Unconscious In Park; Youths Held

Found on a park bench in West Park early today with two youthful companions, Florence Langsdale, 18, of 107 Fountain street, was unconscious in Allegheny General Hospital today.

Her companions, unable to explain the girl's illness, were arrested. They said they were Edward Otterson, 23, of 1201 Wolfran street, and Peter Laut, 21, of Cleveland, O.

Death of Leslie Closes Colorful, Stormy Career Of Master Politician

Funeral Tomorrow For City's 'Maker Of Mayors'

Funeral services for Malachi Grant (Max) Leslie, for many years one of the most powerful leaders in the Republican party in Pennsylvania, will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. from the Butler Street Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mr. Leslie, former head of the Republican organization in Allegheny County and Western Pennsylvania and known as a "maker of mayors," died in his home at 243 Fisk street, shortly before last midnight after a lingering illness. He was 69.

The body of Mr. Leslie will lie in state at the family home from 5 p. m. today until noon tomorrow and again at the church from 2 until 3 o'clock.

Burial, which will be private, will be in Allegheny Cemetery.

The State Senate tonight will adopt resolutions on the death of the former political leader and will adjourn in respect to his memory, according to word from Harrisburg.

POLITICAL LIFE

A man of magnetic personality and a master strategist, Leslie was regarded as one of the most skilful political craftsmen Pittsburgh has produced.

Hewing a place for himself in the old Republican organization, jointly dominated by Christopher L. Magee and William Flinn, the urbane Leslie rose to a place of power. Usually he remained in the background, throwing his political strength to a favored candidate, and only in later years aspiring to political office himself.

For years a close friend of the late United States Senator Boies

Herron's Ax To Hit Police Captains

The word went about today that Senior Police Capts. Harry Mellon and Charles Cahill will be among the first to fall when Mayor John S. Herron swings a brand new ax on the Public Safety Department this week.

Herron is slated for election by Council as Mayor Wednesday. Although he is known to be opposed to an immediate shakeup, the ax is expected to fall soon after he takes office, because that is the wish of Senator James J. Coyne.

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh is expected to be put on the skids at once, and former City Detective Franklin T. McQuade is regarded as having the inside track in the selection of his successor.

Herron denied anyone had been selected for any post, and added:

"I am not Mayor yet. If they do select me, I will make such changes then as I deem necessary, not before."

English Returns; Will Back Herron

Councilman W. Y. English was back at his desk today after four months' health-seeking in Texas. Asked whether he'd vote for Acting Mayor John S. Herron Wednesday, he replied emphatically:

"Sure!"

Imitator, 65, Dies As Audience Laughs

MARSHFIELD, Ore., April 10.—(AP.)—Laughter greeted the antics of Charles Hagquist, 65, as he imitated Charles Chaplin in a home talent show here. Then Hagquist suddenly toppled to the floor. More laughter, for patrons believed it part of the act. But it wasn't. He was dead.

HERRON ACTS ON EVICTIONS

Acting Mayor John S. Herron, two councilmen and representatives of the Allegheny County Emergency Association met today with Father James M. Delaney, local head of the Holy Name Society, to discuss evictions.

The outcome was an agreement that welfare workers should communicate with both tenants threatened with eviction and their landlords, and try to arrange an amicable settlement, and avoid neighborhood trouble.

If the landlord has a paying tenant in view, the family should be elsewhere provided for it was decided by the conference. Otherwise an attempt should be made to arrange terms on which the family might stay, it was agreed.

Father Delaney told the conference, at which Councilmen George S. Oliver and Clifford B. Connelley, and Maj. Phillip Mathews were present:

"There is no question of law. But since we are in a national emergency, landlord and tenant must reach some agreement."

Mercury Soars Near Record for April 10

The mercury soared to near a record high for April 10 today when the Weather Bureau recorded a temperature of 75 degrees this afternoon.

EX-BANKER ROLLED INTO COURT

Attorney Doubts He Will Live to Go On Trial

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Joseph W. Harriman, former head of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, was taken to court in a wheel chair today and pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging the making of false entries in the books of the bank.

Harriman, who was ill at his home with heart disease at the time of his arrest on a federal warrant last month, was carried from his home on a stretcher and taken to the Federal Building in a private ambulance. There he was placed in the wheel chair which was rolled into the court room. His wife and a physician were on either side of the chair.

EFFORT DEFEATED

Counsel for Harriman last week made an unsuccessful effort to arrange bail without the necessity of Harriman's appearance in court, on the ground that the ordeal of a trip to the court room might bring about a relapse.

The banker was covered with a sheet and a blanket, and a derby hat was held over his face. Mrs. Harriman walked with the stretcher bearers. The physician walked close to the head of the stretcher, looking constantly at his patient.

While deputy marshals pushed the crowd back, Harriman was placed in a wheel chair and rolled into the courtroom, where the indictment was read and the defendant told to plead.

Judge Coleman informed Harriman:

"You need not rise."

The banker, however, pushed himself to a semi-erect posture, both hands resting on the arms of the chair, and answered firmly:

"Not guilty."

BAIL CONTINUED

Then he sank back into the chair. Judge Coleman continued bail at $25,000 and a new bond was posted. The court fixed April 24 as the date for the trial.

George S. Leisure, of defense counsel, said:

"I do not know whether the defendant will be alive on April 24 or not. I think it is quite apparent from his appearance that he will not go on trial on that date."

Within a few minutes, Harriman was rolled from the room in the chair for the ambulance trip back to his home.

Earlier today, plans for the liquidation of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, with payment in full to all depositors, was announced by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, following a surprise night conference here.

The bank will be liquidated by the Manufacturers Trust Company, acting for the federal Treasury, Woodin announced. He affirmed his belief that the assets of the closed bank would be adequate to cover its liabilities.

Baby Forgotten in Crash Found Safe Under Car

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., April 10.—An ambulance carrying six persons to a hospital, all seriously injured in an automobile collision, returned to the accident scene last night and found a 4-month-old baby, forgotten in the excitement, safe under an overturned machine.

Amos Gonge, 34; Mrs. Gonge, 27; Cadon Barron, 54; Mrs. Barron, 53; Ralph Barron, 22, and George Barron, 4, are in a serious condition in the Ohio Valley Hospital at Steubenville, O., with head injuries suffered when their machine plunged over a 20-foot embankment after colliding with a machine driven by James Brown, Negro, of Westland, police said.

Four-month-old Helen Barron was missed after the ambulance nearly reached the hospital. Returning, they found the child under the hood of the machine.

Brown was held on a reckless driving charge, according to Constable Andrew Robb, of Burgettstown.

ADMIRAL MOFFETT'S BODY RECOVERED FAR AT SEA

AKRON'S CHIEFS WARNED, NAVY PROBE TOLD

Weather Conditions Not Favorable for Aims, Says Wiley

LAKEHURST, N. J., April 10.—(AP.)—The Navy inquiry into the Akron disaster opened today just as word was received that the body of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett had been recovered from the ocean.

The body of Moffett, highest ranking officer of the Aeronautics Division of the Navy and enthusiastic supporter of the dirigible building program, was picked up 35 miles off the New Jersey coast, the cruiser Portland reported. Meanwhile 30 Coast Guard and Navy boats and 19 planes were searching for wreckage and bodies as far south as Cape May, and 100 miles to sea.

The Admiral's body was the fifth to be recovered from the sea since the Akron crashed off the Jersey coast line last Tuesday morning.

One member of the crew taken alive from the sea shortly after the crash died on the rescue ship. There are only three survivors of the 76 men who sailed on the airship's last voyage.

WARNED OF WEATHER

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett and Commander Frank C. McCord both were informed a few hours before the Akron took off on her last flight that weather conditions were likely to be unfavorable for the object of the flight, Lieut. Com. Herbert V. Wiley, sole surviving officer, testified as the Navy inquiry into the crash opened today.

Wiley said, however, there was no indication that weather conditions would place the Akron in any peril.

Admiral Moffett telephoned the station from Washington at 11 a. m., April 3, a week ago today, asking what time the Akron was taking off and saying he wished to make the flight, Wiley said.

The grey-haired executive officer, who at his own request was made an interested party, corresponding to a defendant in a civil court, at the hearing, then testified that the aerological officer at Lakehurst informed both Moffett and McCord he doubted whether the weather would be favorable to take radio compass dimensions off the New England coast, which according to information given out by the Navy after the crash was the purpose of the flight.

SIX PILOTS SAVED

Indications that visibility would be poor at sunset the night of the takeoff probably saved the lives of six airplane pilots attached to the Akron, Wiley's testimony indicated. Study of a weather map in the late afternoon led Commander McCord, Wiley said, to order cancelled a scheduled drill of the Akron's six fighting planes, to have ended with their being taken aboard.

Commander Wiley said he and Commander McCord studied the weather map shortly before noon, the day of the takeoff, and again in the late afternoon. Wiley said:

"As I remember this partial map it showed considerable change from the 8 a. m. map.

"I met the captain again at the aerological office at 5:45. I noticed the temperature had fallen about 20 degrees since 2 o'clock.

"Fog was forming rapidly at the time of the takeoff, and the ceiling was about 300 feet."

The Akron's objective when she took off was to be over Newport, R. I., the following morning, an hour before sunrise, ready to start work on calibrating the compass.

Wiley said he had first reported for duty at Lakehurst April 11, 1923, and that he had served on the Shenandoah, the Los Angeles and the Akron.

Asked if he had not had as much experience in lighter-than-air craft as any man in the Navy, Wiley replied with a slight smile:

"Possibly."

NOTEBOOK RECOVERED

A notebook was shown Wiley, and he identified it as the property of Lieut. R. J. Dugan, one of the Akron missing. It contained notes on the navigation of the Akron on her last flight.

Wiley said the notes confirmed his own recollections. It was not stated where or when the notebook was found.

BANK GUARANTY HITS SNAG

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—Democratic leaders entrusted with the drafting of the administration bill to egect permanent banking reforms today reached a temporary deadlock with respect to the guarantee of bank deposits.

The Glass sub-committee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee decided to seek the advice of Treasury and Federal Reserve experts before completing its draft of the bill.

Senator McAdoo (Dem.), of California, a member of the subcommittee, declared "we hope to extend the widest possible benefits to state banks, under proper federal supervision."

These benefits, McAdoo explained, probably will include the protection of depositors from loss.

Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, apparently was waging a losing fight against inclusion of a 100 per cent deposit guarantee provision in the new bill. This safeguard would be provided through a $2,000,000,000 depositors' insurance fund.

JUDGES CALLED IN VOTE CASE

Two judges, a prothonotary and a county detective were to testify today before Attorney W. J. Graham, master for Congressman M. J. Muldowney in his battle to retain his seat in Congress. Judges William H. McNaugher and John P. Egan, who presided at the returning board for the November election, Prothonotary John Vogt, and County Detective David Drexler, who had charge of the county's investigation of alleged illegal voting, were to testify. Judge W. H. Dithrich, who presided over the recount board, is scheduled to testify at a session on Wednesday. Muldowney's right to office is being contested by Mrs. Anne E. Felix, Democrat, candidate in the Thirty-second district, who has presented her evidence before a master of her choosing.

OHIO SPEEDS UP BANK AID

COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—(AP.)—Sixty-two unlicensed state banks, with combined deposits of $48,980,401, were taken over today by conservators appointed by State Supt. of Banks Ira J. Fulton.

The appointments were made under provisions of new banking laws intended to speed reorganization or liquidation of banks which were unable to qualify for normal business after the general banking holiday. Fulton said additional conservators would be selected from time to time for some of the 75 other unlicensed state institutions.

Three hundred and forty-three state banks and approximately 240 Federal Reserve member banks, some of the latter state-chartered, have been reopened for normal business. There were 799 banks operating in the state before the holiday.

Illinois Challenges Court's Water Ruling

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—Authority of the Supreme Court to compel the state of Illinois to spend $35,000,000 a year to end diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago was challenged in a brief filed today by Attorney General Otto Kerner.

The brief assailed the report of a special master, Edward F. McClennen, of Boston, who recommended that the state be enjoined to provide approximately $140,000,000 to carry out sewage disposal projects undertaken by the Chicago sanitary district.

MORTGAGE AID BILL READY FOR SENATE

Action on Two Billion Home Relief Plan Seen Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The administration's bill to set up a $2,000,000,000 corporation for refinancing small city homes was completed today by a group of President Roosevelt's advisors, and probably will be introduced within a day or two.

Modeled after the agricultural refinancing bill now before the Senate, the new measure is designed to save thousands of mortgage-burdened urban homes for their owners.

The final draft was completed after the framers agreed to make the interest rate on the refinancing bonds 5 per cent instead of 5½ per cent as tentatively agreed to last week.

LIMIT ON LOANS

The bill provides for the issuance of new bonds to replace old mortgages, on which the government would guarantee interest but not principal. There would be a three-year moratorium on amortization, however.

Unlike the Farm Bill, loans would be limited to existing mortgages and would not be used for new financing.

Terms of the bill limit its scope to homes valued up to $20,000, on which refinancing would be permitted to the extent of 80 per cent of the appraised value, or a maximum of $16,000.

SENATORS CO-OPERATE

Several Democratic senators have co-operated with administration experts in drafting the bill, including Senators Robinson (Dem., Ark.), and Wagner (Dem., N. Y.).

Meanwhile, committees on both sides are revising Mr. Roosevelt's bill to give investors in securities full federal protecton. The changes will ease some of the present restrictions placed on sellers and strengthen federal control in other respects. The House Judiciary Committee was called together today to decide the immediate future of the Wagner bill, backed by the President, and passed by the Senate, for $500,000,000 for direct relief grants to the states.

Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, planned to press for a showdown today on the 30-hour work week bill which he is backing. It passed the Senate last week, but Senator Trammel (Dem.), of Florida, moved for reconsideration of the vote. Its ultimate fate probably will depend on the administration's attitude, which is expected to be made known this week.

SENATE GETS NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON April 10—(AP.)—President Roosevelt sent to the Senate today the nominations of Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit to be Governor general of the Philippines and of L. W. Robert, Jr., of Atlanta, to be assistant secretary of the treasury.

Two prominent members of the Wilson administration—James W. Gerard and Brackenridge Long—are believed in informed circles to be slated for high diplomatic positions under Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Gerard, who was ambassador to Germany when the United States entered the World War, has been offered the ambassadorship to Argentina.

Long, a former assistant secretary of state, appears to be the choice for ambassador to Italy.

It also seems probable that John Cudahy, of Milwaukee, will be the next ambassador to Cuba.

U. S. TO SHOVE DEBT ISSUE IN BACKGROUND

Parley to Center on Removal of Trade Barriers

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The thorny question of intergovernmental debts—specifically the $11,000,000,000 that Europe owes the American Treasury—has been shoved temporarily into the background as statesmen of 11 nations prepare to converge upon Washington for a series of epochal conference on the world's economic ailments.

While some of the foreign visitors, notably Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and ex-Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, may, and probably are, coming to Washington with the debt question uppermost in their minds, it is evident that other matters are engaging more of the Roosevelt administration's attention.

For the time being, at least, something of a mystery enshrouds the administration's intentions concerning the debts.

The administration has been talking of other things—of reciprocal tariff agreements, of the destruction of other artificial trade barriers between nations, of the improvement of silver through international agreement, of disarmament, of the possibility of reduced wheat production by international agreement, of governmental ship subsidies—in fact, almost everything and anything except the debts.

MacDonald Won't Sign Pledges at Parley

LONDON, April 10.—(INS.)—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald is proceeding to Washington this Saturday with a definite pledge to his cabinet members to do "no signing on the dotted line."

This was made clear to International News Service today following a long series of conferences between the Prime Minister and his cabinet.

MacDonald received full cabinet authorization to journey to Washington for the potentially far-reaching international conversations with President Roosevelt.

He will be empowered to present the "maximum and minimum" British viewpoint and inclinations on all outstanding economic problems. But he will be enjoined from putting any promises on paper.

France Announces Herriot Appointment as Delegate

PARIS, April 10.—(INS.)—Acting as a private citizen without authority to commit the government of France to any specific undertakings, former Premier Edouard Herriot will leave for Washington within a week for a conference with President Roosevelt.

Announcement of Herriot's definite appointment as French delegate to the parleys proposed by Mr. Roosevelt as a forerunner of the world economic conference was made in a communique issued this afternoon after a meeting of the Council of Ministers.

Washington Leaders Protest Short Week

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 10.—A protest meeting against the 30-hour, five-day week for industry was held here today with prominent manufacturers from the Washington County district in attendance.

Held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, the manufacturers will draft, it was said, a resolution of protest against the proposal, charging that it would add to the unemployment problem in this district.

THREATENS NEW DEATH ATTEMPT

STATE PRISON, FLORENCE, Ariz., April 10.—(INS.)—"I've still got my teeth. Before I let them hang me I'll tear the veins of my wrist open and bleed to death!"

That was the threat hurled today by Winnie Ruth Judd, condemned to die on the gallows here April 21 for the "double trunk murders."

The dismembered bodies of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson were shipped from Phoenix to Los Angeles in trunks. A jury convicted her of Mrs. Leroi's death.

Believing that the vigilance of the special matron had relaxed momentarily, Mrs. Judd hastily inserted the blade in her mouth, it was learned.

The matron cried for aid and a guard responded. Together they choked Mrs. Judd to prevent the blade from being swallowed.

Flier Dies as Plane Crashes at Airport

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 10.—(INS.)—Ray Morrison, 32, of Rochester, N. H., was killed today when his open cockpit bi-plane went into a nose dive 150 feet in the air and crashed at the South Dartmouth Airport of Col. Edward H. R. Green.

Morrison had flown there from Nantucket Island, and had taken off on the return trip when he crashed.

GIANT POWER PLAN GIVEN CONGRESS

F. R. Presses Great Tennessee Valley Project

plauded at the conclusion of the reading of the message there.

Speaker Rainey referred the message to the Military Committee.

McSwain obtained consent of the House to permit his committee to meet continuously, beginning tomorrow.

Norris would not comment on the provisions of his measure, pending introduction, but it is expected to follow closely the general outline of the legislation he has sponsored for several years.

This calls for government operation and sale of power from the Muscle Shoals project and allowing the President a year in which to lease the nitrate plant.

The McSwain bill under preparation was expected to closely approximate a shoals bill he introduced in March.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"To the Congress:

"The continued idleness of a great national investment in the Tennessee Valley leads me to ask Congress for legislation necessary to enlist this project in the service of the people.

"It is clear that the Muscle Shoals development is but a small part of the potential public usefulness of the entire Tennessee River.

"It enters the wide field of flood control, soil erosion, afforestation, elimination from agricultural use of marginal lands and distribution and diversification of industry.

"In short, this power development of war days leads logically to national planning for a complete river watershed involving many states and the future lives and welfare of millions.

"I, therefore, suggest to the Congress legislation to create a Tennessee Valley authority—a corporation clothed with the power of government but possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise.

BROAD POWERS

"It should be charged with the broadest duty of planning for the proper use, conservation and development of the natural resources of the Tennessee Rixer drainage basin and its adjoining territory for the general social and economic welfare of the nation.

"This authority should also be clothed with the necessary power to carry these plans into effect. Its duty should be the rehabilitation of the Muscle Shoals development and the coordination of it with the wider plan.

"Many hard lessons have taught us the human waste that results from lack of planning. Here and there a few wise cities and counties have looked ahead and planned. But our nation has 'just grown.'

"It is time to extend planning to a wider field, in this instance comprehending in one great project many states directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers.

"This in a true sense is a return to the spirit and vision of the pioneer. If we are successful here we can march on, step by step, in a like development of other great natural territorial units within our borders."

EASTMAN SEEN AS RAIL BOSS

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(Universal.)—President Roosevelt has virtually decided to appoint Joseph B. Eastman, Interstate Commerce commissioner, as Federal Railroad co-ordinator to direct the Administration's new railroad program, it is learned.

Eastman, who has advocated government ownership, would be vested with semi-dictatorial powers to overhaul the railroad structure bring about drastic economies, estimated at a minimum of $750,000,000 annually, and take steps to protect insurance companies and other large investors in rail securities.

Seminole Maid Exiled For Scanty Bathing Suit

MIAMI, Fla., April 10.—(INS.)—The way of the white woman is not that of the Indian maiden, Rosalie Billie, sad-eyed, 16-year-old Seminole belle, has sorrowfully learned.

For donning a one-piece swimming suit and frolicking with her white sisters in the cool waters of Miami River, Rosalie was sent alone into exile in the wilds of the big cypress swamp in the western Everglades.

Six months, the Indian maiden, prettiest daughter of the Seminole nation, lived in solitude on a small island in the glades, foraging for, preparing and cooking her own food. With water snakes, the brilliant plumed flamingo, the dreaded swamp panther and mosquitoes her only companions.

Today, Rosalie, crushed and broken by her experience, rarely stirs beyond the family cookfire.

Delighted by the strange beauties of the white women's dress and their freedom from male domination, Rosalie innocently forsook Indian custom for one daring moment. With two nieces of the Seminole camp director, she discarded her colorful, exotic tribal garb, donned a filmy one-piece bathing suit and gaily joined a swimming party.

An indignant father fetched Rosalie from the river, but tribal laws had been flouted. She was tried during the spring corn festival and a swift and stern Indian justice decreed her exile.

WAR VETERANS AT ATLANTIC CITY IN THEIR SOLEMN MEMO RIAL SERVICES FOR THE MEN WHO DIED ABOARD THE AKRON

Scorned by Father, Girl May Sue Estate

The State Supreme Court today gave Miss Theodora M. Nagle, of Erie, the right to prosecute her $300,000 damage suit against the estate of her father, Theodore M. Nagle, former Erie citizen, whom she accuses of libeling her in his will.

The decision, handed down in Philadelphia, quashed the appeal of Lawrence M. Nagle and Douglas B. Nagle, surviving executors of the Nagle estate, which was heard in Pittsburgh several weeks ago. The appeal was from an order of the court of Erie County refusing the defendant's petition challenging the jurisdiction of eth court.

Judge Thomas P. Trimble, of Allegheny County Orphans Court, set aside a fund of $150,000, pending the outcome of the litigation, after he was appointed to audit the account of the Nagle estate.

Miss Nagle started her suit after filing of her father's will, which read in part:

"I have only two children, Edith A. Nagle, and a son, Bailey B. Nagle. Should ony other person claim such relationship to me and claim right to participate in the distribution of my estate, the claim should be a fraud . . ."

Judge Trimble, in providing for the $150,000 fund, condemned the father's action, holding that the deceased would publish to the world his malice and hatred toward the plaintiff, and declaring:

"He had no respect for the young woman who was known to be his daughter. His desire seems to have been to ruin her whether she made a claim against the estate or not."

TRAP FUGITIVE AFTER OPERATION ON WOUNDED BROTHER

ONE USES RAZOR TO REMOVE BULLET

Pair Wanted Here in Connection With Shooting

Two West End brothers, sought as bandit suspects, were arrested in a Cleveland rooming house early today a few minutes after one of them, using a razor, had made an incision and removed a bullet from the back of the other.

The wounded youth, who said he was Bernard Otten, 28, of 50 Wabash avenue, West End, was shot as he and his brother, Lawrence, 30, are alleged to have engaged in a pistol battle late Saturday night with Corp. Robert Clark, of the State Highway Patrol, and Fred Kronz, 32, of 1102 Crucible street, gasoline station attendant, at the Freedom Oil Company station, 293 Corliss street.

George Otten, 21, brother of the suspects, was arrested at his home, 50 Wabash avenue, early Sunday. He was held over as a material witness at a hearing yesterday morning.

KRONZ SHOT

Kronz, shot in the back, was taken to Presbyterian Hospital. He opened fire upon the bandit suspects after one of the pair had disarmed Corp. Clark as he turned to search the other.

Clark had arrested them a short time before on suspicion they were bandits who had held up the station on March 26.

After Kronz fell the alleged bandits fled in an automobile bearing District of Columbia license plates, police said. Description of the automobile and its occupants was broadcast through the tri-state territory.

SUSPECTS TRAILED

Early today Cleveland radio police located the car and trailed the two men to a rooming house. They were found hiding in a book case.

Cleveland police said the two admitted the holdup and shooting and willingly returned to Pittsburgh. Sergt. William Kratzke and Corp. William McKee and Corp Robert Clark brought them back.

'KISS SLAYER' GETS LIFE

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., April 10.—(INS.)—As his two sisters wept bitterly, Charles Arnwine, 25-year-old "village Romeo," today was sentenced to life imprisonment in solitary confinement for the "kiss" slaying of Frances Rempfer, 15, high school sophomore and church organist.

Deciding not to gamble on the chance of another trial with a possible verdict of death in the electric chair, Arnwine's counsel, J. Leslie Kilcoyne, withdrew his formal motion for a new trial.

Arnwine heard his sentence without emotion.

The girl was found slain, her body secreted under a mattress, a few days after her father had filed charges against Arnwine. To the last, Arnwine maintained the girl killed herself as he embraced and kissed her in a suicide pact which he lacked the courage to consummate.

Sleuth's Father Kills Self in Yard

Andrew A. Adamson, Sr., 72, of 2426 Saranac avenue, Beechview, shot and killed himself in the rear yard of his home today. He was the father of Andrew A. Adamson, Jr., deputy constable of the Nineteenth Ward.

Adamson, who complained for the past two years of stomach pains, walked from the kitchen door, and fired one shot into his head as he stood beside the garage. He was a retired machinist. Besides his son, he is survived by his widow, Mary E. Adamson.

Kansas City Films Crippled by Strike

KANSAS CITY, April 10.—(AP.)—Failure of movie house owners and motion picture operators to agree on a wage scale has caused the closing of seven theaters in Kansas City, Kas., and the operation of those in Kansas City, Mo., on a day-to-day basis.

Cows Are Taught To Obey Barn Traffic Lights

PRINCETON, N. J., April 10.—(Universal.)—A herd of 1,500 cows is being trained to stop and go on red or green signal lights at the dairy laboratories at Plainsboro, N. J., it was revealed today.

At the end of the runway leading toward a rotating milking unit, each cow must be halted until the next vacant stall on the platform revolves to a point directly opposite the cow. Heretofore, a man always has been stationed to stop the cows.

FETE TO PERMIT SCANTY 'ART'

CARMEL, Cal., April 10.—Carmel is busy with a pair of snappy scissors cutting its cloth for the Quatr'z Arts at Hotel Del Monte April 29.

Mayor John Catlin, who is on the committee with Samuel G. Blythe and other notables, to preserve the civic dignities of the occasion, decrees:

"Costumes may be scanty but they must be arty."

He added:

"Costumes must be within the legal limits of 3.2 per cent."

It was explained to the Mayor that the "Quatr'z Arts" means "Four Arts," not four quarts; but the edict stands just the same.

Former Archduke Of Austria to Wed

BERLIN, April 10.—Banns have been published in Nieder-Schoeneweide, Berlin suburb, for the marriage of Leopold Woelfling, the former Austrian Archduke Leopold Salvator, and Frau Pavlovski, nee Greogor.

Leopold has been living in strict privacy here for some time after a checkered career since the renunciation of his title in 1904. Among other things he had conducted a grocery store and worked as a doorkeeper in Vienna.

Grief for Dead Suitor Brings Woman's Suicide

A tragic ending had been written today to the love story of a socially prominent young bachelor and his sweetheart, for whom life could not go on after his death.

For months, Thomas E. Shaw, 32, of 5020 Morewood place, called on Mrs. Nellie Sheehan every evening, according to her closest friend, Mildred Martin, of 3316 Dawson street.

Last March 14, Shaw was found dead from motor fumes in his garage. Clad in pajamas and slippers, he was standing on the running board of his car. The engine was still running.

Mrs. Sheehan, who lived at 4629 Bayard street, never recovered from the shock. After the first hysteria passed, she began to brood, according to Miss Martin. She died Saturday in Homeopathic Hospital after swallowing poison, and her last words were a call for "Tommy."

J. H. Henderson, 40, of 2223 Tustin street, who took a note to a drugstore for Mrs. Sheehan and unwittingly obtained the poison for her, was turned over to the Coroner as a witness today by Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court. Henderson said he did not know the significance of his errand.

QUIET FOLLOWS SCOTTSBORO'S FIRST RETRIAL

Appeal of Reconvicted Youth May Delay Other Cases

By CARTER BROOKE JONES
International News Service.

DECATUR, Ala., April 10.—Another phase of the tempestuous Scottsboro Case passed into history today with the dispersal of those concerned in the trial of Haywood Patterson, youthful Negro, who was found guilty of attack and doomed to death yesterday for the second time.

He was one of seven Negroes who were sentenced to the electric chair at Scottsboro two years ago and granted new trials by the United States Supreme Court. He was the first to be retried. His second trial attracted international attention.

The trials of the other six were severed, and the next, that of Charley Weems, set for one week from today. But the defense will make strenuous efforts to defer all the other retrials until the appeal of Patterson is settled—which may be a matter of two years.

CONDEMNED WHISKED AWAY

The conviction of Patterson was a blow to the Scottsboro case, but Samuel S. Leibowitz, the New York attorney who said he took over the defense without fee and did not represent any organization, announced after the verdict that the fight for the humble denizens of hobo jungles and freight trains would not abate one whit.

Patterson was whisked away to Birmingham immediately after the verdict was read. His companions, the six concerned in the case reversed by the highest court, and two others who are juveniles, already were held there.

The detachment of National Guardsmen who watched the courthouse closely throughout the two weeks of the trial, left for their homes at Hartselle. The attorneys, scattered, to return when the case of Weems is called, and Decatur resumed its habitual tranquility.

The jury reached an agreement while many townspeople were at church, and only a small crowd gathered at the courthouse to greet the news. There was no demonstration.

WITNESSES VANISH

Ruby Bates, the Huntsville mill girl, had vanished into the obscurity from which she emerged electrically to testify for the defense and repudiate her testimony at Scottsboro that she and Victoria Price were attacked by a group of Negroes on a freight train two years ago. And Victoria Price, who stuck to her story and testified against Patterson, had returned to her modest Huntsville home after listening to sympathy and denunciations in the summations of counsel.

ROMANTIC ROW IN MUSEUM

A boy and a girl stood in the shadow, a corner of the Carnegie Museum. Guard William Owens said he thought Joe Galluze, 19, of 69 Van Braam street, was annoying the girl.

When he accused him of it, Galluze swung his fist and struck the 65-year-old guard in the right eye. Chief Guard Wilbur Fulton and Guard John W. Griffith came to their brother officer's aid. Griffith testified before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones:

"He gave us a football rush and we all fell to the floor."

Galluze, denying undue familiarity with the young woman, whose name was not revealed, had nothing to say about the subsequent excitement. Magistrate Jones fined him $10.

Notre Dame Head On Road to Recovery

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 10.—(AP.)—The Rev. Charles Leo O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame University, today was reported by doctors to be "considerably improved and apparently recovering" after an attack of bronchial pneumonia.

He has been in a hospital here for several days and last week doctors expressed fears that Father O'Donnell would not recover.

HOPE FOR LIFE OF WOMAN IN 'IRON LUNG'

Eight Doctors Attend Patient Who 'Forgets How to Breathe'

CHICAGO, April 10.—(Universal.)—Physicians today were encouraged by the progress made in the battle for life by Mrs. Caroline La Plante, the woman who had "forgotten how to breathe."

A patient at the Frances Willard Hospita. kept most of the time in a Drinker respirator, or "iron lung," she has depended for her life on the machine for the last 10 days.

She showed progress for the first time yesterday. She was able to spend as much as 10 minutes out of every hour outside of the respirator—10 minutes in the aggregate, not consecutively. Eighty-five breaths were all she could draw, however, before her face would turn ashen, and she was compelled to return to the machine.

Eight physicians are watching the case, said to have had but three precedents in medical history.

Another favorable development was the successful administration of food, the first in 10 days, and the fact that she showed some signs of interest in life, asking after her two small children, Carol 2, and George, 6.

According to Drs. G. D. Allen, Leon Erenberg and S. O. Levinson, the woman's respiratory muscles and nerves are unharmed and her heart normal. The trouble is centered, they say, in the brain cells, where an infection is feared.

Left to herself, she "forgets" to breathe. Commanded, she breathes for a short time.

Girl Asleep 14 Months Gains in Weight, Beauty

OAK PARK, Ill., April 10.—(AP.)—The strange coma Miss Patricia Maguire has been in for 14 months because of an attack of sleeping sickness, is a beauty sleep for her. A newspaper reporter, who visited her at her home, reported that she had gained 20 pounds and that any robust outdoor girl would envy her health-looking cheeks.

Injections of a serum prepared from the blood of persons who have recovered from sleeping sickness seem to stir a slight consciousness, her relatives said.

FINDS SON DEAD IN GARAGE

A few hours after working over a jig saw puzzle, Herbert V. McCabe, 27, was found dead today from carbon monoxide poisoning in the family garage, 204 South Atlantic avenue, East End.

His body was found by his father, Sydney J. McCabe. Police worked nearly an hour with inhalators but were unable to revive him.

McCabe had spent last night in his home working a jig saw puzzle with a friend, according to members of the family. The pair left the house at a late hour for an automobile ride, they said, but did not know what time their son returned. The garage doors were closed when the father found the body. Dr. T. G. Nelan pronounced the younger McCabe dead.

Death Closes His Career

MRS. LAUGHLIN AIDS MANHUNT

A letter from Mrs. H. H. Laughlin, from her summer home in Norfolk, Conn., today provided what detectives say is the most important clue obtained in the murder of Hilda Lindberg, 43, domestic in Mrs. Laughlin's Woodlawn road residence.

Mrs. Laughlin wrote to her attorney saying that three weeks ago, two young, well dressed men visited Miss Lindberg in her home, and that she heard the three disputing about financial matters.

Mrs. Laughlin said she heard the words "stocks" and "bonds" mentioned. The men left after half an hour.

This information strengthens the detectives' theory that Miss Lindberg was slain by men who had cheated her of cash and stocks, which she had entrusted to them in reinvestment, fearing she would expose them. Her body was found near Peabody High School April 1. Her head was crushed by a blunt instrument.

Detectives said they would question members of the Laughlin household in the search for additional information concerning the slain woman's affairs.

Two 'Lost' Lads Make Beds in Store Window

OAKLAND, Cal., April 10.—(AP.)—Early morning shoppers were surprised at the sight of two small boys tucked under the covers in a department store's bedroom set display.

The boys, Edwin Miller, 7, and Albert, 4, explained to a policeman that they became lost and wandered into the store.

Locked in at closing time, they looked around. They were tired. There was a bed. They just tumbled in.

REJECTS MILLS SANITY TEST

INEZ, Ky., April 10.—(AP.)—An offer to halt the Mills "human sacrifice" murder and conspiracy trial and place John H. Mills, alleged slayer of his mother, Mrs. Lucinda Mills, on trial for insanity was made by Circuit Judge J. F. Bailey here today, but on objection of the defense counsel the court ordered the murder and conspiracy trial of John and six of his relatives to continue.

All spectators except those who had seats were cleared from the west side of the courtroom by Judge Bailey, who explained it was "possibly dangerous" to permit crowds to stand on that side of the room as it was feared their weight would crush the floor.

Harry D. Ramey, of defense counsel, stated the defense was opposed to trying John H. Mills on the question of his present sanity. He said:

"This case hinges not on his present condition, but on his condition at the time of the tragedy."

Ramey declares the defense did not desire to make a motion for a sanity hearing. He added that two physicians who examined John and declared him insane at the present time had returned to Lexington.

Opera Star Settles $34,000 Fee Suit

NEW YORK, April 10.—(Universal.)—Sudden settlement of the $34,000 suit brought against Mme. Elisabeth Rethberg, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, by Kurt Weinhold, her former manager, was announced yesterday.

Weinhold charged that Mme. Rethberg owed him that sum in commissions. Settlement was announced after the Supreme Court issued an order requiring the singer to submit to examination before trial.

SHAW'S ARMOR PIERCED BY JIBES

Abandons Harsh Pose To Explain His Darts; Timid About N. Y.

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

ABOARD S. S. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, AT SEA, April 10.—The legendary, whipsnapping George Bernard Shaw, en route to New York to deliver a lecture "settling the affairs of the world," revealed himself today as a kindly, whimsical, aged gentleman distressed by the cruel jibes his critics have hurled at him.

In an interview with International News Service he sorrowfully declared:

"I've shot my bolt. However, I expect to write 30 more volumes before I lay down my pen for good.

"I am a dentist pulling the teeth of the world. When I started preaching there was universal pyorrhea. Nobody likes to have their teeth pulled, but they feel much better afterward.

"I have put in my witticism for laughing gas, and I think I have been useful."

ADMITS HE'S TIMID

He admitted he was both curious and timorous concerning his reception in New York, but declared he was adamant in his refusal to interview ship news reporters upon his arrival. He said he feared such an ordeal would fatigue him, taking the edge off his address at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Suddenly brightening, Shaw reiterated his contention that Americans are "boobs" politically," but added:

"Americans are interesting, and other nationals are also boobs about politics.

"But it's strange how you can get a rise from Americans. If I tell them they have only two legs, they bristle up, thinking I mean Europeans have three legs.

"If they were civilized, Americans would merely ask me how many legs I have.

"Until recently, Americans have copied Europe, but they now have the beginnings of a genuine American originality in art, literature and the drama. Young Americans come to London to get away from the U. S. A., and ask me where to study. I advise them to go back to the U. S. A. and stay there.

"America contains great cultural possibilities outside its industrial supremacy. What use it makes of these opportunities depends on the future."

DOUBTS HE'LL RETURN

Asked whether he would ever return to America for a more leisurely visit, Shaw replied sadly:

"The insurance company statistics are against it. You see, I am 77 years old."

The famous critic is keeping the subject of his New York address a deep secret, and insists that he shall not be disturbed while working on his speech. He thinks he will be in excellent physical condition for the ordeal and keeps to his routine aboard ship of a swim in the pool and a round of calisthenics at 7 a. m. every day.

He also holds the deck-walking record, and for these promenades he wears a khaki ear-muff cap. A beauty parlor aboard ship supplies a protective lotion for his tender skin against sun and wind.

He usually appears collarless in the daytime, but wears formal dress in the evening, when he precedes his wife into the dining room, and insists that Americans are more conventional about dress than Britons.

Ancient War Map Found in Sweden

HEIDELBERG, April 10.—(AP.)—The atlas used by Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden in the Thirty Years War has been discovered in the library of the University of Heidelberg. Its author was Gerard Mercator of Amsterdam, and it was printed in 1607.

The Atlas is well preserved except for the maps of Germany which show signs of heavy wear. The king's campaign route is marked with red crosses, the first one on the Baltic Coast across from the Island of Ruegen.

Swanky Gambling Apartment Raided

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—In one of the most fashionable apartment houses on Park avenue, Police raided an alleged gambling hall early yesterday, took the names of a number of men and women in evening clothes and arrested three men.

The raiders reported finding roulette equipment, dice, and chips marked at denominations from $25 to $2,500.

Missing Man Found Hanging in Garage

Missing from his home at 540 Seagirt street, John Provan, 32, an electrical contractor in Wilkinsburg, was found hanging from the rafters of his garage, early today, according to a morgue report. A note, begging forgiveness and expressing a desire to no longer "be a burden upon his family" was found nearby.

REDUCED STATE APPROPRIATION BILL FOUGHT

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, April 10.—The Legislature's general appropriation bill today faced the prospect of being forced into battle on constitutional grounds.

Already faced with a great cry of protest because of the elimination of four teachers' colleges and two state hospitals, the bill is now confronted with the question of its legality and the contention that the Governor could not sign it without violating the constitution and thus laying himself open to technical charges.

CAUSE OF DISPUTE

The difficulty centers around the fact that the amounts allowed for salaries of elective officers of the commonwealth have been slashed whereas the constitution states that their compensation may not be reduced during the terms for which they have been elected.

Gov. Pinchot, for instance, was elected at a time when the law provided the salary of the office shall be $18,000 annually. Under the constitution, that salary may not be cut while he is in office. Agreeable to the provisions of the constitution, no bill has been introduced to cut the Governor's salary during the next two years. Nevertheless, the financial equivalent of it is found in the general appropriation bill, because it sets aside only $15,000 for his salary.

The reduced salary appropriations are based on the Howell resolution, which asks the officials to take the cut or turn back part of their salaries. The measure is not proposed as a law. It has passed the Senate and is now before the House.

WOULD ACCEPT CUT

What applies to the Governor, who has agreed to take a salary cut, also applies to the State Treasurer, Auditor General, Secretary of Internal Affairs and judges of the Supreme, Superior, and Common Pleas Courts.

The general appropriations bill, which is the financial set-up for the operation of the state government for the two years beginning June 1, is in a position on the calendar to be passed finally by the House tonight. Because of the impending controversy it may be put over for a special order of business at a specified hour tomorrow.

If those who plan to fight the measure on constitutional grounds win their fight, the result will be an increase in the total amount set aside in the bill to meet these technical objections, although the amount of expenditure actually will be no greater. The effect will be to reduce the aggregate economies which the Appropriations Committee, on the face of totals, appears to have made since the Governor transmitted his budget.

Legislators Invited To Hear Miss Perkins

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Legislature has been invited to hear Miss Frances Perkins, U. S. Secretary of Labor, outline unemployment problems at a public meeting in Harrisburg Wednesday night.

Miss Perkins is speaking at the request of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, the Pennsylvania Labor Standards Committee and the State Department of Labor and Industry. Gov. Pinchot also is to address the meeting.

River Yields Body Of Bridge Leaper

The body of a man believed one of those who recently leaped to death from Pittsburgh bridges, was found in the Ohio river today at McKees Rocks. It was removed to the morgue.

Lehman Signs Bill For Milk Control

ALBANY, N. Y., April 10.—(AP.)—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today signed the Pitcher bill creating a state milk control board with power to fix minmum prices to be paid to milk producers.

OBITUARY

Evans Funeral.

Funeral services for Thomas Windsor Evans were held at his home, 205 West Virginia avenue, Homestead Park, this afternoon. Mr. Evans died Friday in Homestead Hospital. He was a salesman and serviceman for the Penn-Shenango Mold Company.

Besides his widow he leaves his mother, Mrs. Thomas Evans, Sr., two brothers and a sister.

Lewis Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lula F. Lewis, who died at her home in the Fairfax Apartments, Fifth avenue and Craig street, Saturday, will be held in St. Paul's Cathedral, of which she was a member, at 10 a. m. tomorrow. She was a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh, and the widow of Col. George W. Lewis.

PLEDGE DRIES COLLEGE HILL

College Hill, of Beaver Falls, has a plan of its own to prevent the sale of beer.

A citizens' committee laid out the program, and the six churches on College Hill helped to make it effective. Union services last night in Geneva College climaxed the day's campaign.

Commercial establishments of the district first were canvassed and requested to sign a statement that beer would not be sold. Pastors and Sunday school superintendents announced that 16 business establishments had taken the pledge. This represented the majority of establishments on College Hill, according to the Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, president of the National Reform Association. The following announcement was read in each of the churches:

"In view of the strong sentiment on College Hill against the sale of beer by commercial establishments, and in view of the fact that many parents desire to know where they may safely send their children without the necessity of their coming in contact with the sale of beer, each church on College Hill is requested to announce the names of the following establishments whose managers or owners have stated that they will not permit the sale of beer in their places of business."

Two Get 10-Year Term in Killing

Clarence Dillard, 23, and Edward McBurse, 22, Negroes, were sentenced from five to 10 years each in the penitentiary today. They entered pleas of guilty to second degree murder in the death last July of Ralph P. Miller, beaten and robbed near his home, 6245 Hamilton avenue.

George Dillard, brother of Clarence, is serving life imprisonment. He was convicted of first degree murder in connection with the killing.

Destitute Mother Kills Son and Self

NEW YORK, April 10.—(Universal.)—Impoverished and despondent, Mrs. Vincent Gyftas, of Brooklyn, yesterday killed her 9-year-old son, Christian, and herself with gas. Her 7-year-old daughter, Helen, was taken to Kings County Hospital in a serious condition.

The family has been supported by charity for the last year, since the husband and father was sent to Seaview Hospital with incurable tuberculosis.

Hi-Jacking Threat Against Man Fails

The hi-jacking threat to seize 400 cases of brew stored in T. F. Jarvis' place failed to materialize, it was indicated today as a police guard was removed from his home, 3624 Evergreen road.

A half-dozen loiterers around his place and a threatening letter moved Jarvis to ask for a police guard.

75 'Drunks' Fete Beer's Return by Drinking 'Rum'

Seventy-five prisoners charged with drunkenness lined up before various magistrates in city police stations today. None blamed the new brew, and most were identified by police as old-time "moonie" drinkers. Yesterday morning 83 were arraigned.

Magistrate Ray E. Schneider, in North Side station, handled the greatest number, 24. He said:

"You fellows must have been celebrating the return of legal beer by drinking moonshine.

HIGH RATE FOES DEMAND ACTION

Burial of bills regulating public utilities in a House sub-committee was charged by the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association today. Letters were to be mailed to all members of the State House of Representatives urging them to ask discharge of the committee.

The letter says in part:

"We would advise those members of the House who have bills dealing with utility regulation in the hands of this committee to make a motion to have the committee discharged from any further consideration of them, and try to bring them on the floor of the House so as to give other members a chance to have some say."

The letter was signed by the president of the association, Albert B. Davidson, of Tarentum.

Mulrooney Offered Beer Control Post

NEW YORK, April 10.—(INS.)—Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney has been offered the post of chairman of the State Been Control Commission by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, but he has not yet decided to accept the position, he told reporters today.

ASSEMBLY END SEEN AS NEAR BY MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 10.—(AP.)—Gen. Edward Martin, Republican State chairman and State Treasurer, predicted today that the Legislature will conclude its work and adjourn this week as scheduled.

He said he believes the relief and economy measures will pass, that the appropriation for California State Teachers' College will be restored and that a "reasonable" state tax will be placed on beer.

The state chairman expressed the belief that Gov. Pinchot and the Republican organization will be able to "get together" on the major issues.

Of the relief and economy measures he said:

"The relief bill will pass, making at least $20,000,000 available. The economy bill will go through and the appropriations it will be based on will show a savings of more than $16,000,000 under the budget."

Referring to Gov. Pinchot's veto of the McClure bill providing means for prohibition repeal action, Gen. Martin said he thinks the plan to have some delegates elected at large, based on a sound principle, would give an exact referendum.

He said:

"The Governor and the Legislature should get together in order to obtain the revenue possible from beer. The tax should not be over $1 a barrel in order to avoid encouraging bootlegging. I am opposed to any increase in taxes, either direct or indirect, except on beer."

MICHIGAN HOLDS REPEAL MEET

LANSING, Mich., April 10.—(AP.)—In a House of Representatives chamber crowded with guests and spectators, Michigan's repeal convention, the first of its kind in history, opened this morning prepared to make Michigan the first state to vote for removal of prohibition from the nation's basic law.

The actual formality of voting on ratification of the Twenty-first Amendment which repeals the Eighteenth was to follow the preliminary meeting being devoted to organization, including the appointment of committees to notify Gov. William A. Comstock that the convention was ready to proceed and to invite other state officers to attend.

Following its adoption of the repeal resolution by the pledged vote of 99 to 1, a copy was to be certified by Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, and forwarded to the Secretary of State of the United States.

Pay for Troopers Omitted From Fund Bill

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(INS.)—The Pennsylvania State Police Department is cut off without a cent in the general appropriation bill before the House, an analysis showed today.

This accounts for $2,491,000 of the saving which appears to have been made since the Governor transmitted the budget. The saving, however, is proposed merely for the general fund and not for the state.

Under the Turner bill the State Police would be asked to perform some highway duties, and their appropriation would come from the motor fund.

BREWERS HERE REFUSE BEER ORDERS

ventures a prediction on what will happen next.

The Sowers bill has been amended, re-amended and re-amended. It has lost friends, gained new ones, lost the new ones and won back the old ones, and it is difficult to tell which is friend and which is foe.

The latter are those, led by Allegheny County Chairman David L. Lawrence, who wanted bi-partisan license commissions, on which Democrats would be represented. That amendment, agreed to by Sowers, was quickly knocked out by the Senate.

CERTAIN OF VETO

Whatever the Senate does with the bill, it will be no more than near-beer legislation, for it is certain of a Pinchot veto, and the votes are not present to override the Governor's disapproval.

Democratic State Chairman Warren Van Dyke bobbed up last night with criticism of the Republicans, claiming they were causing the beer chaos—though Mr. Van Dyke's party in the House is divided three ways on the subject, Mr. Van Dyke was distressed because the state was losing revenue which might come even without regulation through a barrel and bottle tax placed on brewers.

He said the Democrats had tried to put across such legislation, but had been frustrated when the Republicans refused to agree. The basis for this plaint, it developed, was a caucus between wet Democrats and wet Republicans last week. No Democratic effort followed this caucus, so far as the introduction of legislation was concerned. Sufficient support might have been raked up for a measure of this nature, but the Democrats did nothing.

To most of Capitol Hill it was even news that such a proposition had even been considered at the caucus.

EMERGENCY BILL

Representative Eugene A. Caputo, of Beaver, is preparing a beer tax bill which he will try to introduce tonight. It will have nothing to do with licensing, but deals only with an effort to get revenue under the present system of sale.

Meanwhile there seems little hope of accord on the licensing tangle. The Sowers, Democratic and Pinchot views are all clashing, and beer will continue to be sold at will, with the same old bars doing business at the same old stands.

There are forces in this Legislature which wish to make a profit out of prospective licenses. Rather than forego this anticipated income they are blocking everything, and refusing to yield at any point which might deprive them of clients—or political patronage.

So the state goes without revenue while so-called leaders hunt feverishly for money with which to feed the unemployed and save bankrupt school districts.

HOUSE TO HAVE BEER IN CAFE

WASHINGTON April 10.—(INS.)—Beer is to be sold in the restaurant on the House side of the Capitol.

The House Accounts Committee today voted to permit it, and will instruct Frank Verdi, manager of the restaurant, to take up with local authorities the matter of securing a license.

There will be no bar, however, only bottled beer being permitted.

The House restaurant has been without beer or any other alcoholic beverage for three decades.

W.Va. Revenue, Beer Session Begins

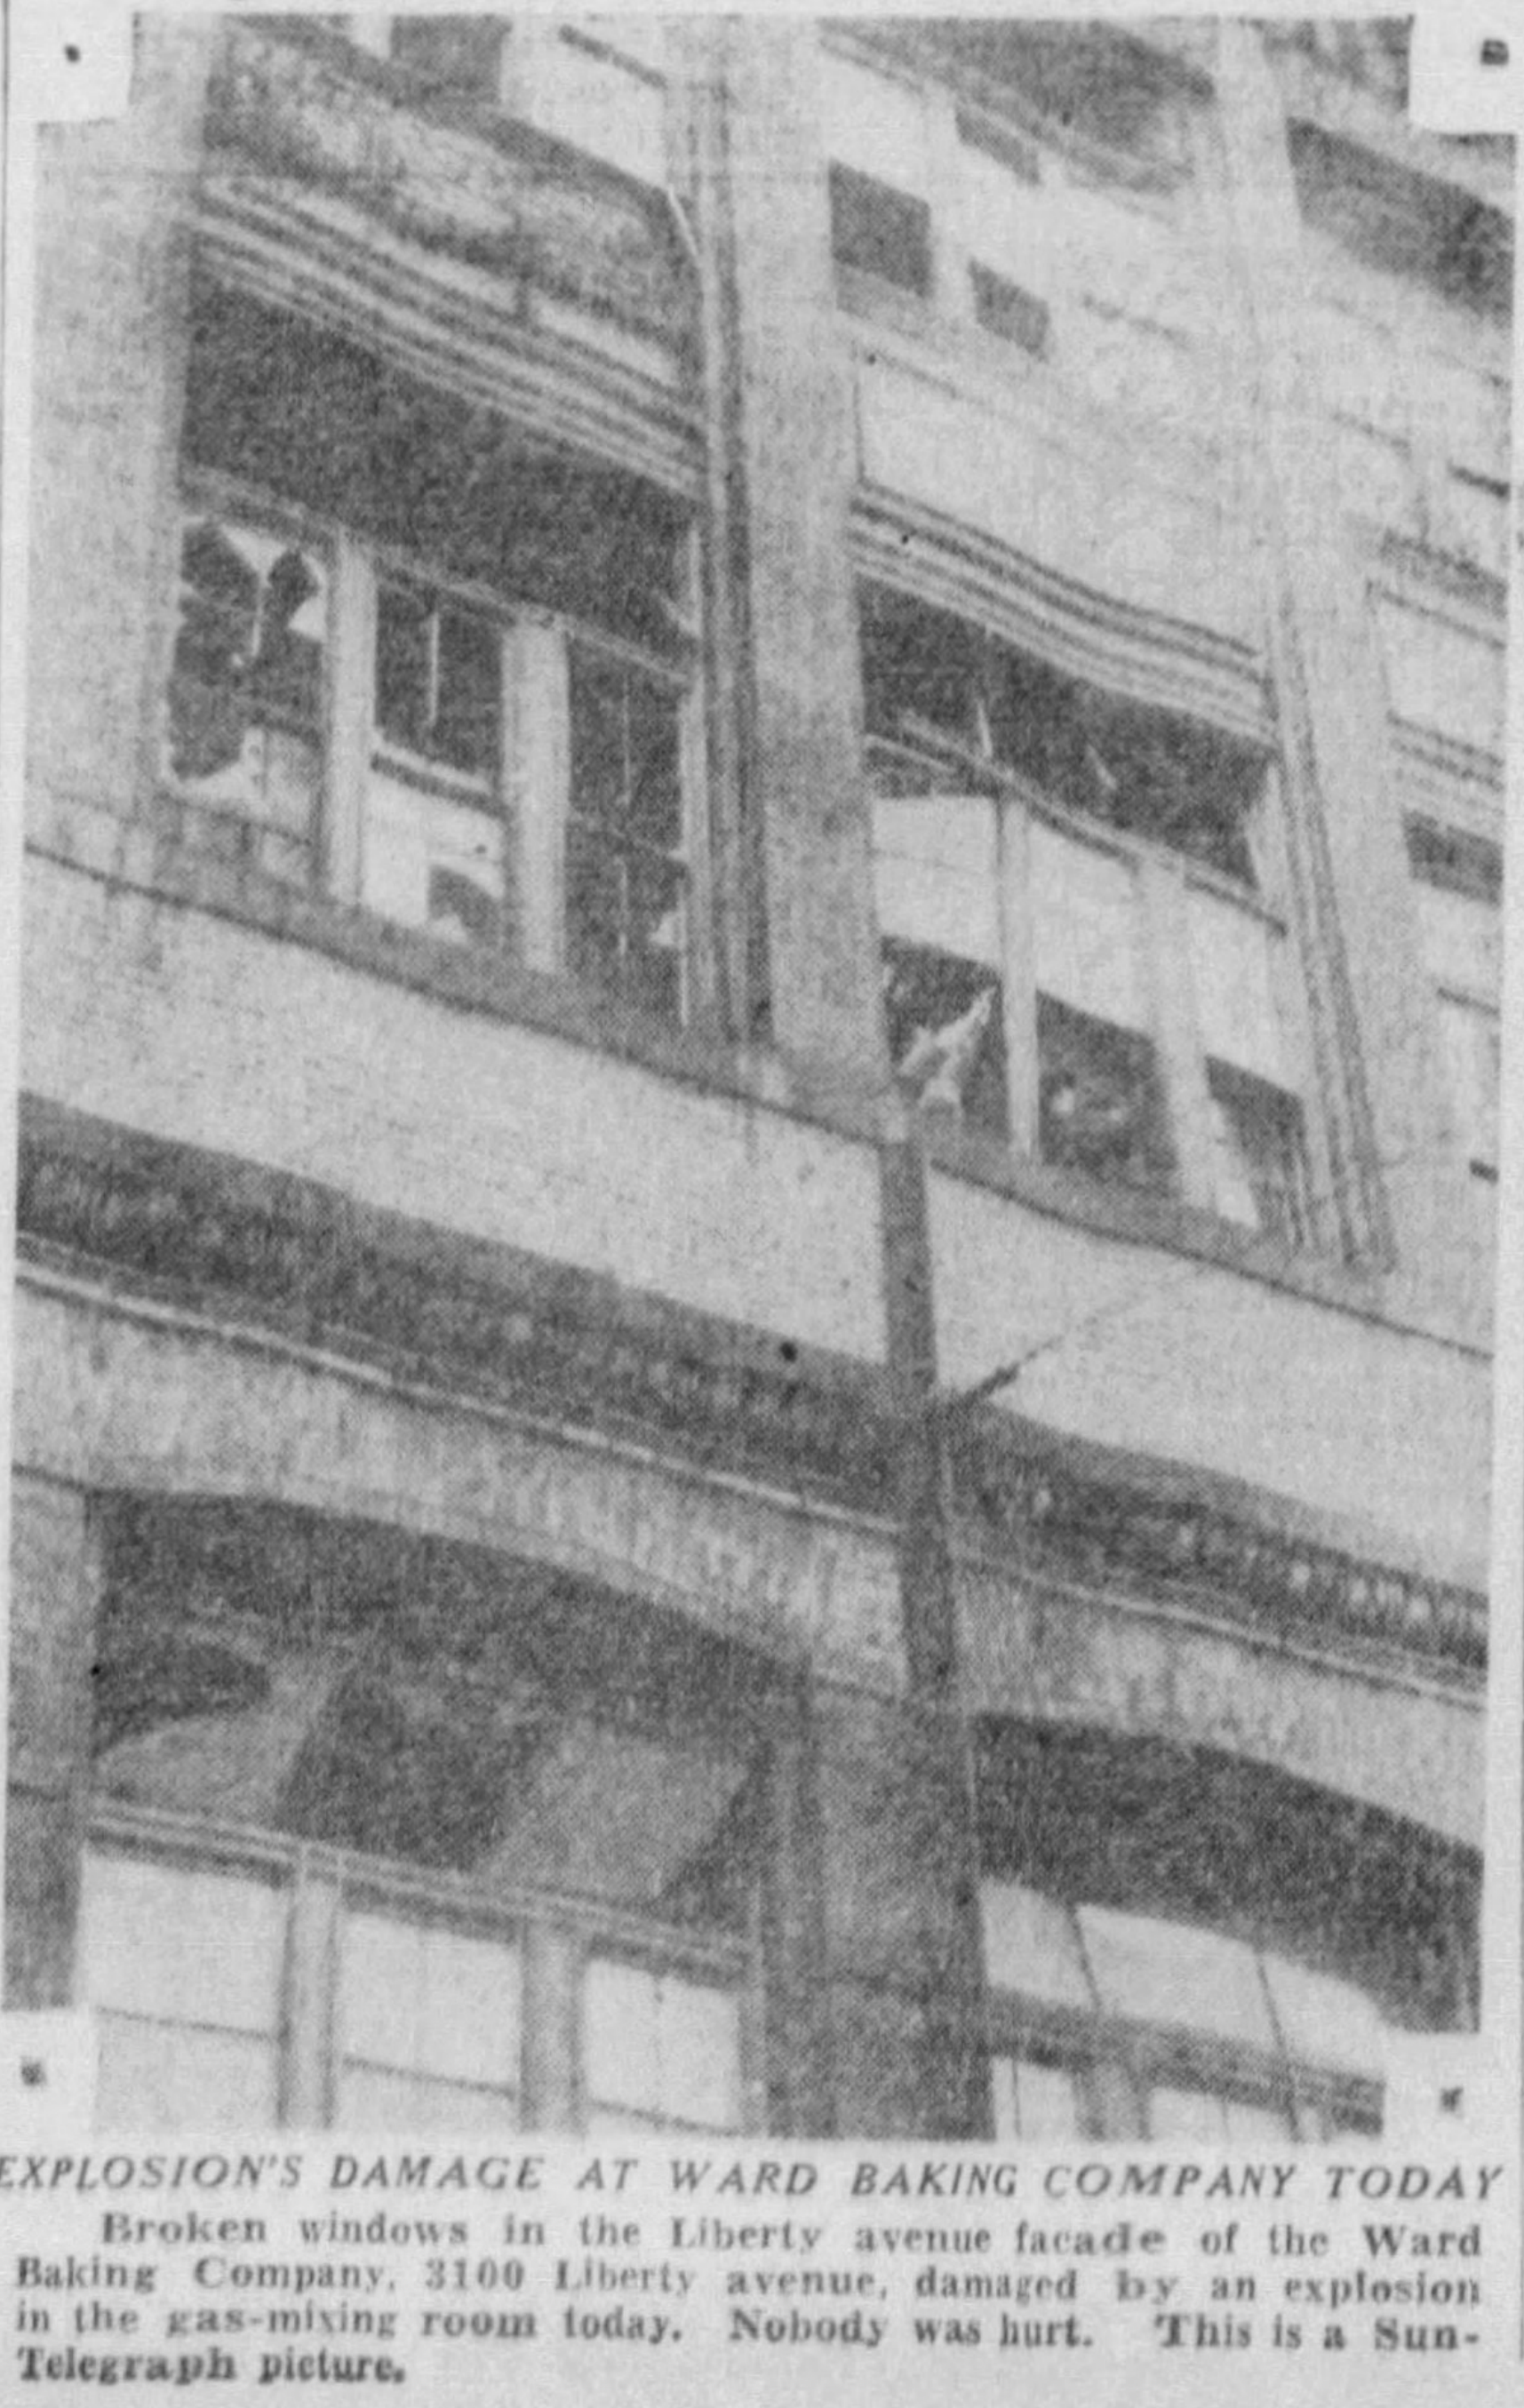
CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 10.—(INS.)—Faced with the task of raising $13,500,000 in indirect state revenue, the West Virginia State Legislature was called into extraordinary session here this afternoon.

In addition to consideration of revenue bills, the Legislature also will be asked to re-enact the state beer bill and make it effective from passage. The present law goes into effect June 9.

Dalrymple to Ban Couples on Payroll

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—A. V. Dalrymple, newly-appointed Director of Prohibition Enforcement, today declared in a statement that he had ordered an immediate investigation to determine whether there were any cases where a husband and wife both were on the payroll of his service, and that if such instances were found one or both would be dismissed.

WINDOWS BLASTED OUT



EXPLOSION'S DAMAGE AT WARD BAKING COMPANY TODAY

Explosion in Baking Plant Jars Workers

Several hundred employes of the Ward Baking Company plant, 3100 Liberty avenue, were shaken in an explosion which broke windows and damaged the gas-mixing room this morning. Nobody was injured.

Total damage, according to police, was estimated at $700.

The blast, according to police, occurred in the gas-mixing box in a second floor room facing Liberty avenue in the center of the five-story brick building. Windows in the National Valve and Manufacturing Company across the street were blown out.

The Ward Company damage was estimated at $500 and the National Valve Company damage was placed at $200.

Many women and girls are employed at the Ward plant. Officials of the company said they had no statement to make.

NAZIS ASSURED OF VATICAN AMITY

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service.

ROME, April 10.—An assurance of amity between the German government and the Vatican was given to Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, of Germany, today in an interview with Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state.

Von Papen, who insists he is in Italy only for a "sight-seeing tour," spent an hour at the Vatican with the Cardinal.

The question of Nazi persecution of Jews in Germany was not touched upon in the conversation, it was authoritatively stated, but will be brought up when von Papen is received later in audience by Pope Pius.

Problems directly affecting diplomatic relations between the Vatican and the Reich government and details of the proposed concordat between the Holy See and Berlin were considered.

Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister without portfolio in the Hitler cabinet and regarded as Hitler's right-hand man, joined von Papen here today and will confer with Premier Mussolini on problems directly concerning the two governments.

Hitler Decrees Restores Titles of Nobility

BERLIN, April 10.—(INS.)—Carrying forward the awakening of Germany under the old Prussian traditions, Chancellor Adolf Hitler issued a decree today officially restoring titles, orders and other decorations forbidden under the Republican regime.

The decree, however, will not be retroactive, with the result that the former crown prince, other members of the Hohenzollern dynastry and former German noblemen must continue to be content with an "ex" in front of their names.

At the same time, a government law became effective throughout the Reich regulating the admission of Jewish lawyers to the courts in accordance with previous rules limiting activity of Jews.

MADRID SCHOOL SIGNS EINSTEIN

MADRID, April 10.—(AP.)—Prof. Albert Einstein, who renounced his German citizenship because of anti-Semitism in Germany, today accepted an invitation to become a member of the faculty of the University of Madrid.

Fernando de los Rios, minister of public instruction, said in announcing his acceptance that the presence of the eminent physicist will be of inestimable value to Spanish culture. The minister said:

"I am extremely happy that he is coming. I shall create a group of professors to assist him, and we shall do everything possible to make his stay in Spain profitable to the world."

NEWARK, N. J., April 10.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert Einstein, who has accepted an appointment to the faculty of the University of Madrid, is coming to the United States in the fall to occupy the chair of mathematics of the Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton, N. J.

Dr. Abraham Flexner, director of the institute, recently received a cable from Dr. Einstein, in which the renowned physicist expressed pleasure at his future association with the institute. The office of Dr. Flexner today expressed the opinion that Einstein's appointment to the University of Madrid is honorary and that it will in no way affect his coming work at the institute.

Officer 'Peacemaker,' Lands in Hospital

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—(AP.)—Patrolman Monroe Tigert tried to act as peacemaker between a husband and wife. Result: Tigert, Allen Jackson and Jackson's wife, Viola, were taken to a hospital. Tigert suffered contusions of the abdomen in subduing the couple after his peace efforts failed.

CHANGES MADE AT COXTOWN

Father Cox is making important changes in the layout at "Coxtown," his farming community on Kittanning Pike. With 50 families already installed, the community will be enlarged by the addition of 50 more from the ranks of the unemployed. These families are now being selected by Father Cox from hundreds of applicants. It is his plan to make all of these families self-supporting.

Ten abandoned street cars will be moved in under the trees to house this number of families and the construction of rough, but liveable homes will begin at once for the other newcomers. These new homes will be erected on the picturesque hillside of the pretty ravine that runs through "Coxtown." Father Cox needs furniture, beds and bedding, rugs and carpets and other essentials for these homes and will send his truck for any donations. Call Grant 4390.

Father Cox announced yesterday that his regular "pay day" Saturday Sun-Telegraph check amounted to $112.05, breaking the weekly record. From every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it brings a liberal cash commission to his unemployment relief fund.

SLOT MACHINES STILL MISSING

Mystery continues to shroud the slot machines mentioned prominently during the trial in Criminal Court last week of Joseph Volpe, 19-year-old brother of the three gang-slain Volpe brothers.

Young Volpe was found guilty of aggravated assault and battery on charges preferred by Louis Lucarelli, of Wilmerding, and has filed a motion for a new trial before Visiting Judge Thomas M. Bailey, of Huntingdon County.

Lucarelli testified that some slot machines had been stored in his parents' cellar. He said he was worried about the gambling devices and moved them from the cellar to a shed on a nearby hillside. He said he heard they had disappeared from the shed.

Volpe sent Lucarelli word that he wanted to see him. Lucarelli testified, and said that when he went to Volpe's office the latter beat him.

Rail Strike Ties Up Traffic in Dublin

Young Mother Slain By Cabaret Bandits

DETROIT, April 10.—(INS.)—A young mother who went into a cabaret to sell tickets to a charity dance, was shot and killed early today by one of two young bandits who raided the place. The victim was Mrs. Sophia Wotjal, 31.

HOLD AIRPLANE STOWAWAY

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(INS.)—A youthful stowaway's trip to Missouri aboard a cross-country airmail liner was prematurely ended at the Harrisburg airport yesterday when the uninvited passenger "got scared to death," as the plane descended here and revealed his presence.

The stowaway, Julius Stone, 26, of Camden, Mo., held at the State Police barracks, said he boarded the plane at Newark, N. J., Saturday night and secreted himself in a narrow compartment in the tail of the liner.

Fearing that the ship might have made a forced landing, Stone pounded on the door of his hiding place and attracted R. S. Huested, night transportation agent at the local airport, who was checking the mail cargo.

HENRY VAN DYKE DIES; AUTHOR AND DIPLOMAT

PRINCETON, N. J., April 10.—(AP.)—Dr. Henry Van Dyke, internationally known preacher, poet and essayist, and former minister to the Netherlands died today at his home "Avalon." He was 80 years old.

Although Dr. Van Dyke had been ill for more than a year, his death today was unexpected.

An intimate friend of Woodrow Wilson, when the latter was president of Princeton University, Dr. Van Dyke received his appointment as minister to the Netherlands, after his friend became President of the United States.

WROTE MANY BOOKS

A man of great versatility, Dr. Van Dyke was the author of many books of prose and verse, an excellent preacher, a diplomat, and a lover of humanity.

His declining years were spent in close contact with the happenings in the world, but he worked and wrote for the most part in the seclusion of his home.

But his earlier years of preaching at the Brick Presbyterian Church in New York attracted hundreds of worshipers to a church whose membership had been but 240.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ellen Reid Van Dyke, whom he married in 1881; a son, the Rev. Tersius Van Dyke, pastor of the Congregational Church, Washington, Conn.; four daughters, Mrs. W. Hamilton Gibson and Mrs. Murray P. Brush, of Chicago; Mrs. Henry Chapin, of Bermuda, and Miss Elaine Van Dyke, of Princeton; a brother, professor emeritus of history at Princeton University, also survives.

LIBERAL PASTOR

Among Dr. Van Dyke's best known works were "The Other Wise Man," "The Blue Flower," "The Ruling Passion," "Fisherman's Luck," "Music, an Ode" and "The Gospel for an Age of Doubt."

When he became pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church of New York City, Dr. Van Dyke insisted, contrary to the conservative traditions of the church, that it open its doors to all who wished to come and that it take a distinctly liberal stand in questions of theology. Asked several years later how he had increased a congregation of barely 240 people to the point where it often overflowed into the street, he replied:

"Just by preaching the Gospel! That was enough. I don't believe in applying patent medicine remedies to religion."

Inventors Here Granted Patents

Patents have been granted the following Western Pennsylvanians today, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington: Carl W. Littler, Pittsburgh, apparatus for tube manufacture; Ronald B. McKinnis, Pittsburgh, roasted coffee product; Charles McCullough, Canonsburg, bracket.

HIT TESTIMONY IN NEFF KILLING

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 10.—Counsel for Cyrus H. Neff, Canfield lumberman on trial for wife murder, today attempted to break down the state's contention that Mrs. Mary Neff was shot with a gun, held 10 feet away. In cross-examination of witnesses, the defense attempted to show the effect of powder on a piece of cloth, held at close range.

Neff contends the gun was only a few inches from his wife's head when she was killed.

Special Prosecutor A. M. Henderson today drew from Miss Louise Wick, Red Cross clerk, that Neff had obtained $100 from the government for the burial of his wife, from a fund for burial of indigents. Mrs. Neff was a Red Cross nurse during the World War. Neff was supposed to be a wealthy lumberman.

HUNT FOR GOLD IN SEA WITH HUGE LIGHTS

Man's lust for gold is about to open up the depths of the ocean, was the prediction made here today by E. W. Beggs, engineer of the Westinghouse Lamp Company. He said:

"The ocean floor is the last place man has to conquer. He has flown over both poles and Mt. Everest and his lust for the millions of dollars in 'Davey Jones' locker' will help him to reach the floor of the ocean."

"Capt. Harry Bowdoin, probably the most colorful character of deep sea treasure hunters is now using diving lamps to reach the S. S. Merida. It is in 210 feet of water, some 50 miles off Cape Charles, Va. When talking with him a few days ago he said he was within 30 feet of $4,000,000."

Beggs will speak at the William Penn Hotel tonight before a joint meeting of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Illuminating Engineering Society and the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania. Diving apparatus, diving lamps and moving pictures of salvage expeditions will be shown.

Volcanic Outburst Indicated in Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 10.—(AP.)—The Salta Observatory reported today that volcanoes in the Central Chiltan mountain region were moderately active, with indications of intense activity in the near future.

'Baron,' 'Sharley' Win Sympathy Of Judge Here

A pseudo Baron Munchausen and "Sharley" were in Central Police Court this morning, and although Magistrate Leo Rothenberg told him he was a "ham," the Baron was good enough to win discharges for the pair.

Patrolman Charles Bartch testified Edward Weiblen, Jr., 43, and Charley Beltch, 38, were impersonating the famed radio team on Third avenue near Smithfield street yesterday. They were drunk, he said.

Arraigned on disorderly conduct charges, Weiblen told Rothenberg he was the best Dutch comedian in the city.

ICE JAM PERILS 700 ISLANDERS

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 10.—(AP.)—The 700 winter residents of Grand Island were without regular ferry service to the mainland today as an ice jam choked the east branch of the Niagara River.

Food supplies were diminishing. Peace Justice George H. Alt telephoned there had been no bread deliveries in two days and said there was a shortage of flour.

A Coast Guard cutter was launched from the Canadian side of the west channel to ferry a party of 15 Grand Islanders ashore last night, but through a misunderstanding they were left on the island.

GIRL, 5, KILLED SAVING KITTEN

JACKSON, Mich., April 10.—(INS.)—Five-year-old Merilyn Coppernoll climbed into the loft of her father's barn to rescue her tiny kitten which had crept on to the rafters and was afraid to come down.

The little girl attempted to lower herself through a trap door. The heavy door fell, caught her body and strangled her.

Grogan Price Range
Affords Inexpensive Selections

IN times past a few persons not conversant with our establishment may have felt that our merchandise was beyond the means of the average pocketbook. This fallacy has been dispelled. We readily convinced all persons desirous of obtaining real value, in small as well as large purchases, that they can shop here economically and with greater assurance than elsewhere. Present wide assortments and new low prices are especially advantageous.

THE MAN who could sell more life insurance than any man I ever heard of never shouted. Notice the men who hold the records for selling. .they just talk in a quiet easy way.

It's like this:

The Chesterfield slogan—just two words, "They Satisfy"—is a plain simple statement telling about Chesterfield's merits.

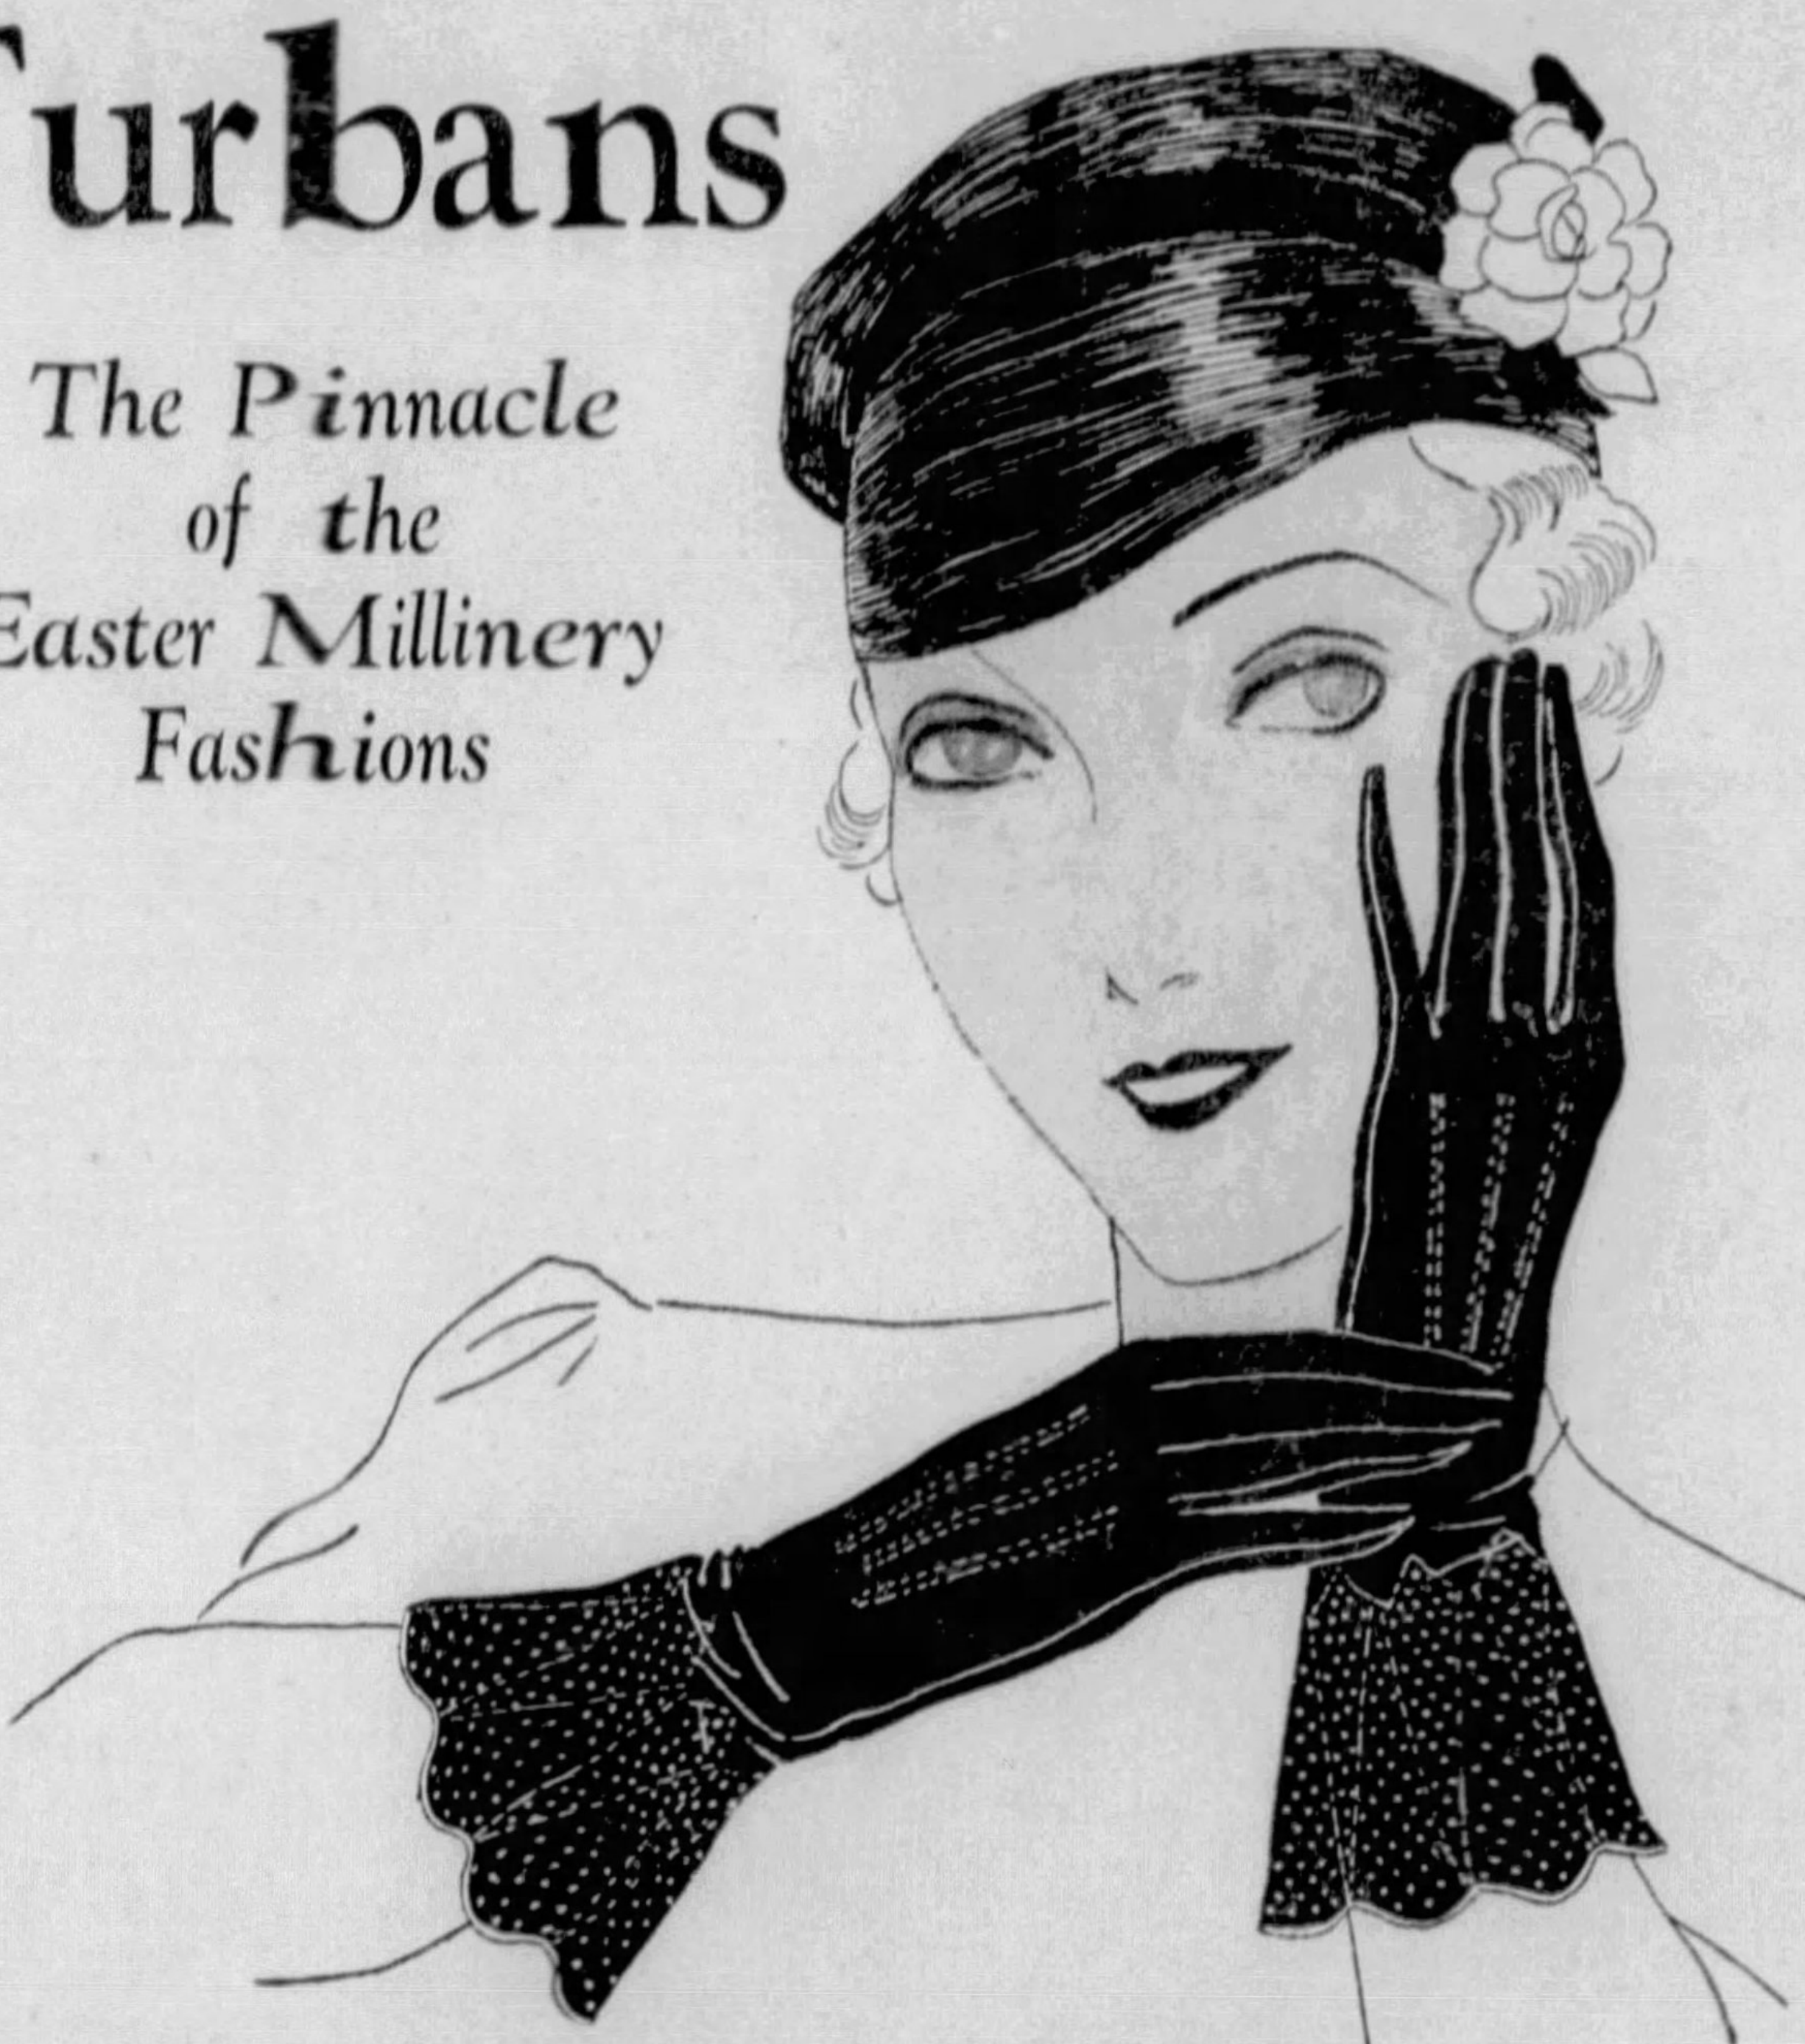
Turbans

The Pinnacle of the Easter Millinery Fashions



Following the lead of Paris, our Millinery Fashion Staff has interested itself in all the strikingly new developments of the turban, and now presents it in its smartest new forms.

The most startling of fez turbans, Cossack turbans, pill-box turbans, tricorne turbans, draped turbans, flowered turbans, and the shallow, veil-finished trifle called the "A-Bit-o'-Tea" turban. It's a glorious collection, to top off Easter costumes . . . in fabric straws, the sleek, new "paper" straw, silk crepes, satin and felt. $3.75 to $15.

Dresses With Swagger Coats

Horne's has been leading the town in swagger suits, right along, ever since January, and now it comes forth with the latest idea in this popular fashion—women's frocks with swagger-length coats.

The model pictured is a point in case, the swanky coat lined with the print of the short-sleeve frock. Navy blue with navy-and-white print, or black with black-and-white . . . Sizes 34 to 44.

Notable in the same group is a model of heavy-sheer in black or navy, with the top of the frock formed by a bordered scarf print.

More of Those

Semi-Swagger All-Service Coats

$10.75

Last week, Fashion-Thrift proved that the semi-swagger coat for all-purpose wear is the grand demand of the moment, for it sold out of these coats in less than a day. Now more have arrived, with further variety in models and fabrics.

Have your coat in solid-color homespun for around-town wear; and in flecked or matelasse tweed, if you are going to wear it chiefly for driving and sports. Take your choice of dark blue, dawn blue, gray, beige, or a bright, bronzy green called moss.

Misses' and women's sizes 14 to 44.

SUIT SALE

$29.50

Are you a crank on fit? Do you like clothes that hug the neckline, that drape the shoulders, and shape the waistline with the perfection of custom tailoring? Slip into one of these suits, then, tomorrow, because they are the work of a manufacturer whose specialty is fit, and whose product is recognized in the trade as about the best fitting clothes made.

We had this purchase up our sleeve for a later event, but advanced the date to give men the benefit of the savings on their Easter suits. The fabrics are fine unfinished worsteds of our own selection, and especially chosen for their durability and non-shine qualities. The patterns are those men are looking for this spring—Glenurquhart plaids (the biggest selling pattern in custom clothes), chalk stripes, and distinctive mixtures in the wanted grays, tans, browns, and blues.

They are styles and qualities to interest men who have been accustomed to higher prices.

—All Sizes—

Alterations, if necessary, will be finished in time for Easter wear.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Undulant Fever

Dr. Copeland

During recent months an unusual number of cases of "Malta fever" has been reported. These outbreaks have been traced to a germ called "brucella abortus." This ailment is identified with "Mediterranean fever." "Undulant fever" is another name given to this disease.

The germ responsible for Malta fever attacks cattle, sheep, goats and pigs. It is transmitted to human beings who care for these animals or who engage in slaughtering them. In most instances the disease may follow the drinking of infected goat's milk or cow's milk. It is only recently that other causes have been determined.

At one time undulant fever was a common disease along the Mediterranean coast, the Rio Grande River in the United States, and particularly in those sections where goat's milk was used exclusively. The disease is no longer confined to these districts, but may be encountered in other parts of North America.

The early symptoms of this disease closely resemble those of typhoid fever. Indeed, in many cases, it is mistaken for typhoid fever. The afflicted person suffers profuse sweating, fever, pain and swelling of the joints. It may resemble a simle cold or grippe, but for days the fever rises daily and the trouble persists for a long time.

Undulant fever is not now a particularly serious disease. It is annoying, of course, and may become chronic. It interferes with the general health and nutrition of the sufferer. At one time it was much more serious than it is now, especially in localities of the world where hygiene and sanitary measures were neglected. It was always a menace to the health of the farmer and of the general public. Great progress has been made, however, in the cure and prevention of this disease.

The germ that produces undulant fever is destroyed by heat, hot water or by the use of mild antiseptic. Farmers, butchers, cattlemen, sheepmen, woolworkers and others whose work demands contact with diseased animals can be protected from this infection by the wearing of gloves and the sterilization of their implements.

The cattle are to be inspected periodically and when signs of the disease are found to be present, isolation and other precautions are taken. In localities where undulant fever is present, it is important that the milk be carefully pasteurized.

Often, as I have intimated, this disease may follow the drinking of goat's milk or cow's milk. Raw milk from diseased cows produces undulant fever. Where the milk is pasteurized, no ill effects are observed.

The danger of undulant fever can be avoided by careful supervision of cattle and [illegible] supplies, and by refusing to accept food or milk that is handled under unsanitary conditions. Never drink milk unless you are sure of its purity. If in doubt, boil before using.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Economic Conditions Used As Alibi by Some Men

Why don't men marry?

"Because girls have jobs," says Joe.

You may not see what that has to do with it, but Joe makes it all quite clear—according to his own notion.

Dear Miss Robinson—

I've been hearing a lot of wailing lately on the part of the fair sex about their failure to find nice young men to marry them. They howl about men being "all alike," and about the despicability of the male sex in general. I tell you it burns a fellow up.

On all sides you hear the same thing, but if they would use the brains they were endowed with our young women would soon realize that such a state of affairs is merely the result of their own doings.

Femininity has invaded business, and even the trades, to such an extent that today there is hardly a chance for an ambitious young man to carve a decent place for himself, the kind of place that is necessary if he is to shoulder the responsibility of supporting a wife and a family.

That is exactly what I and many other young men of my acquaintance are doing. And, believe it or not, there is not one of us who wouldn't be glad to make the girl of his choice happy with a wedding ring and a home of her own—if he were economically able to do so.

BLAMES WOMEN

And if you or any other female think that a "fifty-fifty" marriage, with the husband and wife working, is a happy state, ask the "fifty-fifty" man or woman what he or she has experienced. Many a young man has resolutely turned from the idea of marriage, when he realized that it would be a "fifty-fifty" one.

Eating out of cans and in cafeterias is great fun—providing you don't have to do it. Any "canned" and "cafeteriaed" husband can vouch for that! Contrary to the many movies dealing with this theme, the ending in real life is seldom happy.

Psychologists tell us, and the girls admit themselves, that a woman's life is incomplete without love and children. Yet they, consciously or unconsciously, are guilty of undermining their chances of obtaining a good husband and a father for their children.

So, then, if our fair sex wants its so-called freedom and economic independence, let the woman accept what goes with it uncomplainingly, instead of whining and whimpering about our "man's selfishness" and condemning young men in general for their "despicability." If the young women could just be made to realize it, this condition is one of their own making—an outgrowth of this new system of "sex equality" that they seem so insistent on having, and retaining.

JOSEPH.

JUST AN ALIBI

All right, Joe; that's your story. Now listen to mine.

You'd deny females jobs. Then answer me this:

What would they use for food?

For remember, ladies must eat. Nor is that a new problem. Even in those Good Old Days for which you're moaning there were hungry females hanging around. And if young men can't marry now because women have jobs, they couldn't marry then because they didn't have 'em.

Many a bright young man was kept from becoming a husband because he had a flock of sisters on his neck and there was no way he could rid himself of the burden because ladies didn't work; except, of course, over washboards or behind sewing machines.

The simple truth is, Joe—you could marry if you wished, and this loud economic squawk is just a high-toned alibi to avoid responsibility. If you can afford "clandestine affairs" you could manage to give the girl three squares with a regular license. Only then you'd be tied—and you can't bear the idea.

So g'wan with your yaps! You're just one more selfish male who wants a pretty excuse for ducking his decent obligations.

Jane Baillie Welsh has the distinction of being mentioned twice in encyclopedias—in the biography of Edward Irving, noted divine of her day, whom she might have married, and in that of Thomas Carlyle, famous author she did marry.

Jane Welsh Carlyle's career was her marriage. No wife ever adjusted her life to her husband's more completely. Yet in that background she remained an individual personality. One does not think of her as Mrs. Carlyle, but as Jane Carlyle.

She had a brilliant mind and a gifted pen, but wrote only letters. Yet these are so interesting and entertaining, you will find them in rare collections beside the original manuscripts of famous women authors.

Heart of a Wife -:- -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Wynne Tells of Strange Signal Used by Rider

Ronald's boyish voice was so earnest, so filled with real terror as he told of the impression he had experienced that Marion was calling him, that I think more than one of the men shared my eerie little feeling of there being "more things in heaven and earth" than can be solved by ordinary processes. Had the boy's great love for her enabled him to feel some imminent danger menacing her, even while her rescuers gathered outside her prison?

Whatever our impressions, there was not one of us who did not give Ronald's revelation the tribute of tense, respectful silence for a few seconds after he had finished; then Harry Underwood put an affectionate hand upon the boy's shoulder.

"I had you wrong a minute ago, Ronald," he said heartily. "I thought you had beat it, even though your mother needed you. You've done the right thing, but let's hope you're all wrong and Marion doesn't need you in any especial way. Now you'd better go over there with Brock, and he'll show you how to handle some of the little things we may need tonight."

"Would it matter very much, sir," Ronald said diffidently, but with a note of stubborn decision in his voice, "if I just stayed alone, without anything especial to do? You see, you didn't expect me, so you haven't planned for me, and the reason I'm here is so as to be able to get to Marion, if she needs me and I can find out where she is. If I were over there with Mr. Brock, it would be just the same as if I were a soldier, wouldn't it? No matter what happened, or how much I wanted to go to her, I'd have to stay where I was told, wouldn't I?"

"You'll stay where—" Harry Underwood began as explosively as was consistent with a voice kept to a pitch inaudible outside the ring of trees. Then he checked himself.

"I don't know," he began again, after a second or two. "You probably wouldn't be any good to Brock, anyway, all wrought up as you are. I guesss you might as well stay right here with Mrs. Graham and Mary. When we get the girls out we're going to rush 'em right over here, anyway; and if in the meantime there comes any justification of your premonition, you'll be in a place where you can get away.

"But, mind you—no gumming up the works! Any stunt you can do by yourself away from the rest of us is one thing, but for you to go up to the house, unless with the rest of us—that's out, no matter if you hear Marion calling for you in reality instead of in illusion. And another thing. Even if we're not here, don't you go careering off by yourself, unless Mrs. Madge here tells you it's O. K."

"Very well, sir," Ronald said submissively, and Mr. Underwood clapped him on the shoulder again.

"That's the ticket," he said. "Now, the next thing—"

But he did not tell us then what the next thing was. From the other side of the little tree-circled glade—the side which, I had learned, was nearest the farmhouse where the girls were imprisoned—there came stealthy sounds as of something creeping, and the next second Wynne raised himself from a crawling posture and advanced toward us.

Hugh Grantland and Harry Underwood rushed across the little enclosure to him, and as if by one consent the rest of us followed, gathering closely around that we might hear his report upon the task which had been entrusted to him—that of trailing the horseman who had muffled the hoofs of his steed.

"Well!" Major Grantland and Mr. Underwood spoke the word together.

"He's up at the shack," Wynne said, "he and the horse too."

"Are you sure?"

"Am I sure?" There was offended dignity in Wynne's voice. "I wish I was as sure of getting through the pearly gates. I got so near that I was afraid the guy would hear me breathe, but he was so bent on what he was doing that he wasn't paying any attention to anything else.

"He tied the horse to a tree outside the house, and then he went to the door of the house and mewed like a cat three times. If I hadn't been looking for him to pull some stunt like that, and if somebody hadn't opened the door to him as soon as they heard him, I wouldn't have believed it wasn't a real animal."

"Then the man on horseback is now inside the house, and his horse tied outside," Hugh said thoughtfully. "He must be Charles Owen. Don't you think it clicks with Lee Chow's report?"

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Playing the Opponents' Suit

The occasions in which a contract in the suit adversely bid may safely be undertaken are extremely rare, barring, of course, the possibility that the adverse bid of such suits may have been a psychic. However, in the finals of the recent Eastern team-of-four championship held at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York, Mr. George Unger demonstrated that it is sometimes possible to make a contract against a sound adverse Opening bid which includes, among other things, five trumps to the King-Knave. The hand which permitted this demonstration was the following and was played against one of New York's strongest tournament and Rubber Bridge players, Mr. Lee Langdon:

Neither side vulnerable.

North:
♠ 10876
♡ KQ763
◇ 10763

West:
♠ KJ9543
♡ 1084
◇ 9
♣ 1087

East:
♡ A95
◇ KQJ54
♣ AQ652

South:
♠ AQ2
♡ J2
◇ A82
♣ KJ943

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♠	Pass	2 ◇
Double	Pass	2 ♡	3 ♣ (1)
Double (2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Mr. Unger, from the course of the bidding, deduced that his partner probably held three clubs. If this were true, he mentally argued, no great loss could be suffered on the hand. The bid of three clubs, inasmuch as it was not made at the first opportunity, was not a Forcing bid, and partner could not be confused as to the cards held.

2—Mr. Langdon could not be blamed for doubling an adverse contract of three clubs, in view of the fact that he made a sound Opening bid, with an additional honor-trick in reserve.

The outcome of the hand was attributed to Mr. Unger's accurate play and to some of the peculiarities of distribution.

The Opening lead was the heart Knave, and it was the Declarer's play to this trick that permitted the fulfillment of the contract. He refused to win the first round, reasoning correctly, as it proved, that South probably held but two hearts with three cards in diamonds and spades, as well as the five clubs which were apparently marked in his hand. The heart suit was continued, and Mr. Unger won with the Ace and then laid down one of the equals in diamonds. Mr. Langdon was again in the lead, but was helpless to escape the trap which his opponent's accurate play had laid for him. He could therefore score only 2 trump-tricks, as the fortunate lay of the cards and the accurate play of the Declarer made impossible for him any effective exit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Fourth Hand opens with a call of one spade, to which Second Hand responds with a call of one notrump. Fourth Hand then calls two spades. Should Second Hand make any further call, holding the following hand, no intervening bids?

♠ J87 ♡ 1087 ◇ AJ6 ♣ A532

Answer—Yes, two notrump. The hand contains a full honor-trick more than the strength shown by the first response.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Widow

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been a widow for about nine years. About a year ago I started going with a man to whom I shall be married some time this year.

My husband and I were very much devoted to each other, and I have by no means forgotten him now that I am planning to marry again, and do you think I should continue to wear my wedding ring? If not, when should I stop wearing it? That is, should I wear it until near the time I am to be married?

I shall be married quietly and no one will know of it until after I am married, if I can help it.

WIDOW.

In answering your question, I am torn between suggesting the usual custom . . . that a widow removes her wedding ring as soon as she decides to re-marry . . . and the fact that, if you did this, your plan to keep your wedding plans secret would probably be spoiled. Usually the husband-to-be of a widow isn't especially delighted to have her wear the symbol of her previous marriage, so I think that in your case the only way for you to decide this question is to talk it over with your fiance and together decide which would be the better thing to do. I realize that undoubtedly, if you cease wearing your wedding ring now, your friends will "wonder," and your secret will be revealed before you wish to reveal it.

Birthday Gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My boy-friend's birthday is very soon and I wonder if you will suggest some appropriate gifts for me to give him besides handkerchiefs? If a book, what type would you suggest?

BUBBLES.

There are, these important days, such a marvelous variety of biographies and autobiographies and historical books and books on current events, the kind of books that especially interest men, that you will, I am sure, have a fine time choosing one of these, or two perhaps, that will have profound interest for this young gentleman. Or perhaps you would rather give him a subscription for a magazine that you know appeals to him especially. Then your birthday thought would appear afresh every week or every month.

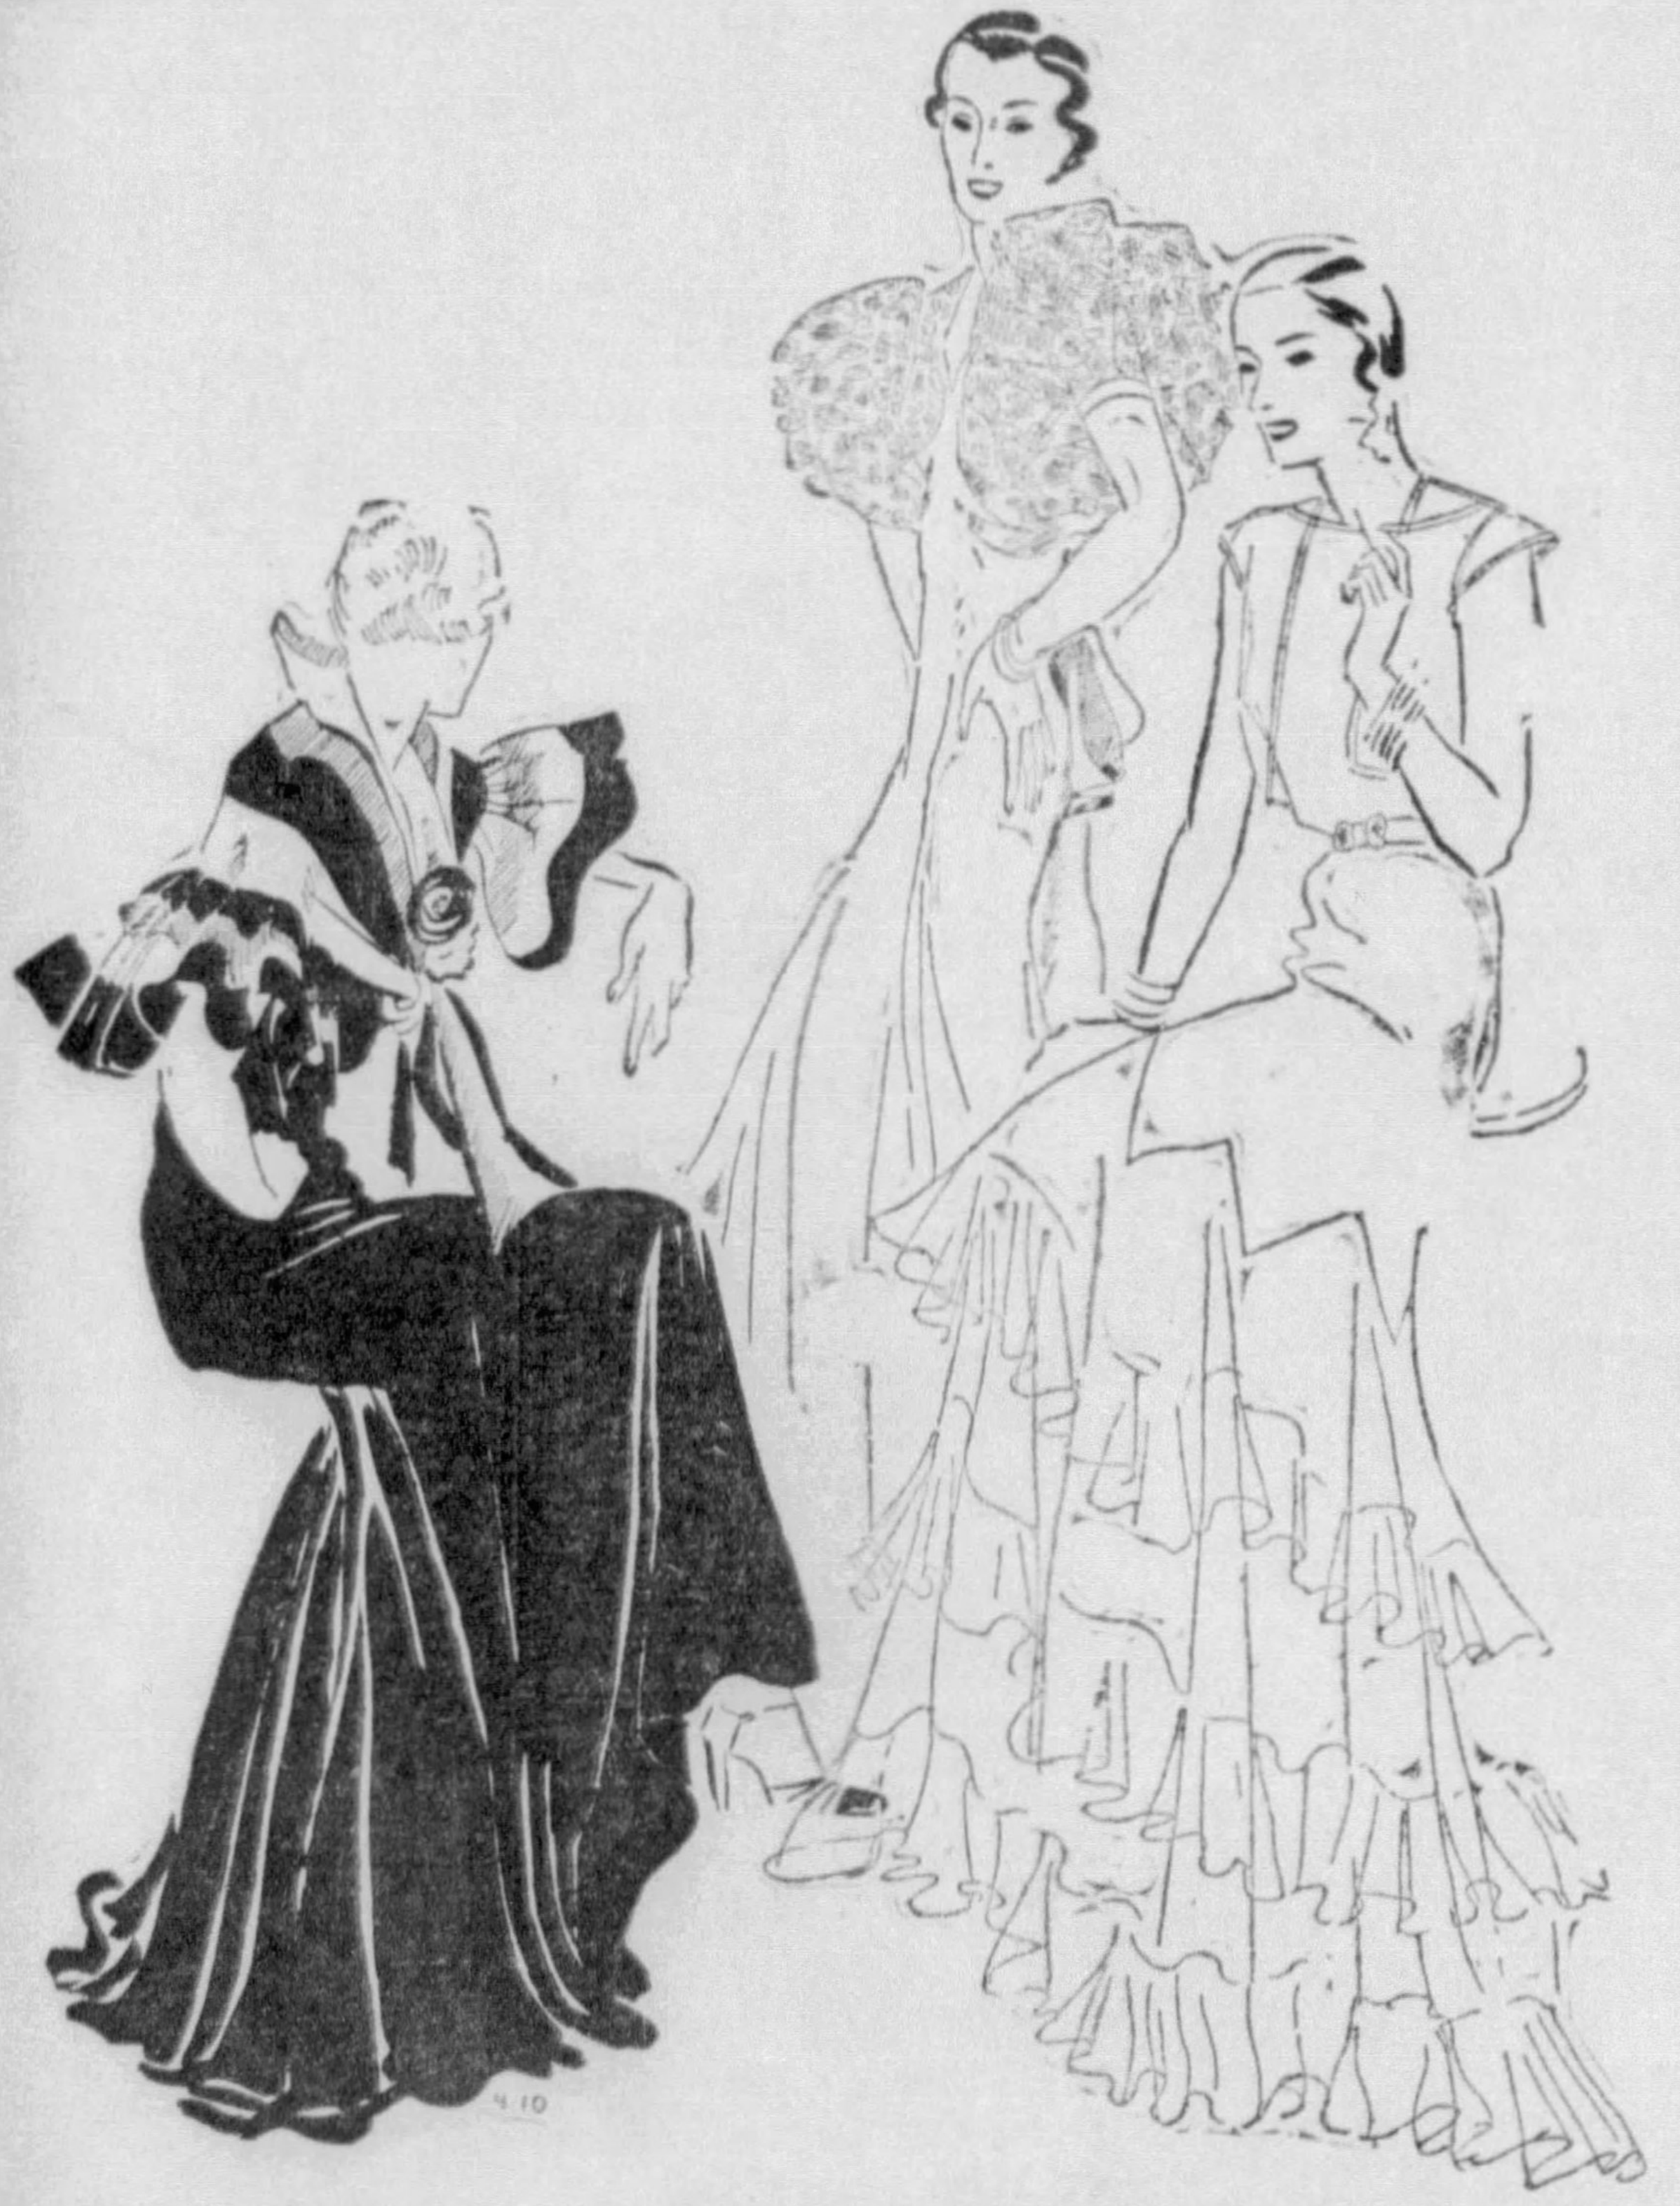
Changes to Be Discussed At Meeting of P.T.A.

Nomination of officers and a discussion of proposed changes for the McNaugher-Linwood Parent-Teacher Association, make the next meeting of the association at Milroy School on tomorrow afternoon one of especial importance.

The meeting will open at 2 o'clock with an operetta, "The Shoemaker and the Elves," put on by Milroy pupils, who have also painted the scenery for the production.

NEW SPRING EVENING FROCKS ARE FASHIONED FOR DANCING



IT SEEMS as though this spring's evening frocks were just made for dancing. The skirts of the three above are generously wide, either draped or dripping with ruffles. Hems are just to the floor or barely above it so you won't get all tangled up when you do the tango.

* * *

THE ONE at the left has an enchanting cape all made of ribbon, red and pink, black and white. It's so short it comes just over the shoulders looping over in the front, with perky sleeves and a standing collar.

* * *

IN THE center is a shining example of the gay things that are happening above the waist. The pink lace bolero is chiefly composed of two great puffs of very short sleeves. Underneath is a very simple full skirted frock of pink chiffon over pink satin, with more pink satin at the hips in leaf shaped incrustations. If you want to see this costume in action, you must go to the musical show, "Strike Me Pink," where it's making a great hit.

RUFFLES ON the right. They're organza and dip downward to the back, contrasting a bodice and bolero so simple as to be almost tailored.

* * *

THE SILHOUETTE of all these dresses is slim, almost sheathlike, nearly to the knee, after which it falls full to the floor. The accent is on a slenderizing line, so all you have to do is pick the one which is the most becoming to you. Waists are about where they've been for the past year, or, if you're bored with that, a shade lower.

Golf and Tennis To Vie Soon at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Va. — Two major sporting events, the Third Annual Old Dominion Women's Golf Championship and the Annual Spring Tennis Tournament will vie for the attention of the spring colony at the Homestead during the week of April 24.

Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, Jr., the former Glenna Collett, is the 1932 Old Dominion titleholder and is expected to defend her crown. Mrs. Vare, who won one of her national championships at Virginia Hot Springs in 1928, established a new record for the Homestead course in a series of brilliant exhibitions during the 1932 Old Dominion tournament.

Miss Helen Hicks, who has one log on the Old Dominion Trophy probably will enter this year in an attempt to wrest the title from her old rival, Glenna Collott Vare. During the Twentieth Annual Fall Golf Tournament at the Homestead last fall, the attention of golfing enthusiasts throughout the country was focused upon the finals between these two outstanding American women golfers, Miss Hicks and Mrs. Vare for the ladies' championship. After a grueling contest, Miss Hicks won on the twentieth green with a long 30-foot putt.

Miss Grace Amory, of the Seminole Club in Palm Beach, and runner-up in the 1932 Old Dominion, is expected to compete for the title again this year. During the winter, Miss Amory has been consistently defeating women golfers many years her senior both in the game and in age.

The Annual Spring Tennis Tournament is expected to attract some of the ranking players of the country. The chairman of the tournament committee is S. Wallis Merrihew, editor of American Lawn Tennis, who has been an official at Virginia Hot Springs tennis tournaments for 20 years.

Grabowsky's

514-516 WOOD STREET

Spring Coats & Suits of Uncommon Charm

THE two trends of the mode are aptly reflected in the superb Grabowsky coat and suit collections.

Fashions, queenly and feminine, find expression in coats of fine woolens magnificently trimmed in unusual ways with blended White Foxes, Silver Foxes, and flat furs. Elegant, too, are the untrimmed dress coats that are worn with separate Grabowsky fur capes or fur scarfs, and the soft dressmaker suits, or costumes, consisting of coats with harmonious frocks.

Fashions, jaunty and very youthful, find expression in the important boxy swagger coats, very simple, or enlivened with bold splashes of Scotch plaid. Swagger suits are here, too, and classic tailleurs of men's wear fabrics.

To complete the ensemble, there are the jolliest hats imaginable . . . straw toques with the new higher crowns . . . and perky sailors with square-ish crowns.

Our prices will prove that truly fine Grabowsky clothes are not luxuries this Spring.

Altruistic Club Becomes East Liberty Woman's Junior Auxiliary

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Another junior club has been organized—auxiliary to the East Liberty Woman's Club. Although it is new as a junior club, it is not new as an organization, as it was formerly known as the Altruistic Club. In fact, the Altruistic officers will carry over for the remainder of this season.

They are Mrs. Robert P. Marshall, president, in whose home the auxiliary was formed; Mrs. L. B. Wingard, vice president; Mrs. William K. Campbell, recording secretary; Mrs. John H. Moore, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Marlin, treasurer.

The members of the disbanded Altruistic Club will be recognized as founders of the auxiliary, the charter of which will be kept open for some time. The founders are the officers and Mrs. Karl P. Brown, Mrs. Alan C. Dodds, Mrs. Haydn P. Julius, Mrs. William S. Long, Mrs. R. C. Parks, Mrs. Anna M. Peterson, Mrs. Alfred C. Richey, Miss Agnes Simpson and Mrs. Thomas P. Bart.

Wilkinsburg B. P. W. Club to Report On Health

The meeting of the Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's Club tomorrow night will be a convention booster and health report night, and will, of course, be in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel.

Jessie Carter is chairman of the health committee which requires that every member of the club shall have a health examination at least once a year.

The first part of the program will be devoted to an economic discussion under the general topic, "Goods on the Market."

At the club's social meeting in the hotel on April 25, a style show will be presented under the direction of Theresa McCauley, with other members modeling.

Poetry Seminar Set For Monthly Breakfast

The third seminar of the Poetry Society will take place at the monthly breakfast in Congress Clubhouse on Wednesday at 11:30 o'clock, with May T. Neffas chairman of the day. An impartial critic of recognized ability, known only to the chairman, makes the awards, sends the criticisms to be read anonymously, but does not attend the meeting.

The May meeting will be a luncheon honoring Marie Tello Phillips upon her return from Miami Beach, Fla.

Hadassah Child Group To Give Variety Show

The child welfare committee of Pittsburgh Chapter of Hadassah is planning a professional variety show in the auditorium of the Y. M. and W. H. A. on Thursday afternoon. The proceeds are to be used for children's clinics, milk stations and general welfare work among children in Palestine.

The program will include a magic exhibit, a Punch and Judy show, accordion numbers, cartoons and an acrobatic dancing and roller-skating act.

New Era Club to Name Officers on Wednesday

Members of the social committee will be hostesses Wednesday for the meeting of the New Era Club in the Congress of Clubs. The annual election is slated to take place and department directors and committee chairmen will make their annual reports.

Names Legislative Council Group Chairmen

Mrs. W. M. Parrish, president of the Legislative Council of Western Pennsylvania, which is to conduct four seminars on child labor, beginning April 18, announces the appointment of Mrs. E. B. Heyser as chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Mrs. George I. Carson will have charge of social arrangements, Miss Katharine MacCloskey will be librarian, Mrs. Charles F. Goldthwaite will issue invitations, and Mrs. Henry J. Schapper is to serve as public relations chairman.

Mrs. John M. Phillips, Mrs. Raymond Kaufmann and Mrs. W. R. Gardner are also on the committee. The seminars will be held in the Board of Education Building.

Thursday Afternoon Club To Hear Pitt Botanist

Luncheon in the Y. W. C. A. Community House will precede this week's meeting of the Thursday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg, the women going to Carnegie Lecture Hall for the meeting.

They will be addressed there by Dr. O. E. Jennings, University of Pittsburgh botanist.

Ben Avon Club to Hear Of Berea College Work

Mrs. Anna Ernberg, who has charge of the fireside industries at Berea College, will address the Ben Avon Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon in the Presbyterian Church.

An exhibition of the work done at Berea will be conducted.

Judge Marshall Speaker For Historical Society

Judge Elder W. Marshall is giving a history of the courts before the Woman's Historical Society this afternoon. Mildred Bittner Wilson, soloist, and Mabel Flinn Link, accompanist, are furnishing the music.

East District Scout Luncheon on May 2

The next meeting of the East District Girl Scout committee will be a luncheon at Mrs. Arnold M. Replogle's home, Ardmore boulevard, on May 2.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: The routine was plenty lively all day . . . Our tiny cubby-hole of an office is now the scene for Protest Meetings . . . Men and women who come with their most interesting problems . . . Just now—several sailors left—after leaving much data on the Int'l Mercantile Marine situation . . . Thousands of American seamen have been "beached" and in their stead are sailors who are non-citizens . . . Kermit Roosevelt is the head of the IMM—and I hear that he is a very nice man—and if we take it up with him—the action will be swift and satisfactory

. . . Most interesting to me—is this: The British liners are peopled only with British seamen. Ditto the German and French and Italian. But our own American boats are manned by furriners . . . The Leviathan, frixample, in December, was the scene of an American Legion affair. A new Legion Post was inaugurated that night called "The Leviathan." The dinner was attended by Americans, and the waiters, stewards, et al were Hans-Across-the-Sea . . . Joan Lowell's boat is anchored in Gravesend Bay. What! Seasick, already? . . . Ethel Waters stars at the Cotton Club beginning Sunday.

Peter S. Berlind, the executive director of the Unity Hospital, Brooklyn, was in. To thank you, he said for calling the hospital's attention to what happened to that mother and child . . . He said the story was true (he had checked after reading it) and that he regretted the stupidity of one of the staff, etc. . . He said it would never happen again. . . I heard that the nurse would be fired . . . I told him if the nurse was discharged and you heard of it—that you'd never stop heckling the officials—and so he promised the nurse wouldn't be. He was very pleasant about it—and said that the hospital had a good name, and that your story embarrassed them all no little . . . So I told him that all you cared about was that when a mother without money had an ailing baby—there should be no red tape or fees to bother about. And that was that.

I see that some of the apes groaned because they ran second on the Rudy Vallee explosion. One choked—"all the more credit to him, regardless of my personal dislike of him and his methods" . . . Meaning, I take it, that he dislikes everything about you—but your newspaper-style—and so he took that—as which one of them didn't? . . . A grand trick, I think, would be for you to get somebody to dig up that other echo's first B'way column in the Graphic, and print it. Particularly those parts when he vowed that he would never print "such things" about people having babies or any "gossip" . . . He'd only tell the good things about Broadway—"the real heart" which Broadway has, etc. . . . That column would make him look so silly today . . . Skeedmore, who writes in red ink to his friends, and now you've got him panting, reported that Jack Benny is a fellow of good habits, and "one who is seen nowhere without his wife!" . . . Except, of course, at the Friars on Saturday nights.

Sarah Padden, the actress on the coast now, suggests that if "President's Day" gets over—the florists should make a special red, white and blue carnation . . . Izzy called. Said that President Roosevelt should never miss the hat he threw in the ring a few months ago. Because since March 4th many millions have taken theirs off to him . . . That's a typical Elinsonapper . . . That trapped impostor who said he was one of your staff at Camden where he now is doing four months—is to be confronted by several others for more fiendish crimes—and probably will get too long in any jail . . . One of the journals had a swell editorial on why Commissioner Mulrooney should not leave the Police Dep't . . . Ditto! . . . The line about Roosevelt never being under anybody's thumb—until, of course, they put him on a postage stamp—brought a topper from Josefsberg. He says such a stamp couldn't be much of a success—because everybody respects Mr. Roosevelt too much to want to stick their tongues out at him.

None of that beer for me, Mister. I'll keep drinking the beer I've been speakeasying since I first got thirsty . . . Sid Parry finally found out what Bernie did in that act with Phil Baker . . . Ben supplied the air for Baker's accordion . . . I notice that "V" in reporting that Louis Armstrong's death was greatly exaggerated—stated that the boner was pulled by a Broadway columnist . . . Probably couldn't recall the columnist's name! . . . Mary Maelia is under the impression that you panned Boots Mallory. Probably reads too fast. . . Danny Healy and Jack White had a fine opening at their new "Ha Ha" hot spot on 52nd. . . Eddie O'Rourke and Blanche Bow are telling it to different attorneys. . Gustav Leon, a Hollywood importation, now here, is one of Fay Webb's (Mrs. R. Vallee's) best pals, and will do what he can to help her—in case.

The wiser Wall street guys, with the heavy gelt, are supposed to have secretly promoted the ribbing-up of Huey Long to make an attack on them . . . The Kingfish innocently enough fell for it . . . The Wall streeters knew that they were in for a verbal drubbing from high officials, so they chose to have it launched by an extremist and fanatic "demagogue," as they call Huey. In this way they figured they'd spread a smoke screen of ridicule—thus covering the legitimate sock . . . An advance copy of Woollcott's piece in the May Cosmopolitan is on your desk . . . Wayne Weishar, the H-T reporter, and Wayne Parrish, the scribe who first "broke" technocracy in the gazettes, have collabed on a book dedicated to Stanley Walker, the city editor. Very good, too . . . Frank Sylvano's canarying (with Lyman's Paradise crew) of "An Orchid To You" is swelegant. He sings like a man! . . . Peggy Fears' cash fortune is locked in Blumey's vaults! She let him take it for her when he had "advance news" of the bank holiday—and is she sorry? Ouch!—Your Girl Friday.

Seniors Win By 'Rondo' At P. C. W.

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Two tense days at P. C. W. came to an end on Saturday evening, when the contest of the Dramatic Clubs was decided in favor of the Senior Class, which presented "Rondo," a one-act play by Bertha Ochsner. It is a witty and sophisticated little comedy, very cleverly played and staged by Sara Ochiltree, Ruth Nirella and Evelyn Aliff. The prize for the best diction also was awarded to Miss Aliff, who acted a role reminiscent of the poet in "Candida."

Mr. Seibel

Second prize went to the Sophomores, who presented "The Rescue," by Rita Creighton Smith. Gertrude Russell, Prudence Goodale and Ruth Moorehead formed the cast, Miss Moorehead doing exceptionally well as Anna.

The second-year class played "The Dreamy Kid," by Eugene O'Neill, in which Jean McLallen shone as Abe, well supported by Eleanor Kenworthy, Maxine Cuden and Lea Cline.

But the big production was the Freshmen's fairy play, "The Sleeping Beauty," by Margaret Ellen Clifford, with Betty Miller as the Princess and Jane Griffith as the King. Others in the cast were Mary Jane Seaton, Rosalyn Carman, Harriet Bannatyne, Jane Throckmorton, Maxine Sipe, Edith Mawer, Dorothea Wirth, Rosalia Chiplis, Ruth Rosen, Sara Donahey, Loretta Bergman, Jane Unger, Helen Brown and Thelma Martindale.

Much credit is due James Lindsay for the stage settings and lighting, which were effective without long waits.

Janet Gaynor Renews Film Contract

The Fox Film Corporation has renewed the contract of Janet Gaynor, who rose to stardom after her successful performance in "Seventh Heaven," in which she was cast virtually from the extra ranks. Her successes include "Street Angel," "Four Devils," "Sunrise," "Sunnyside Up" and "State Fair." At present she is at work on a musical production, "Adorable," in which Henry Garat is co-starred with her. Her next film will be "Paddy," from "Paddy-the-Next-Best Thing," a novel by Gertrude Page.

Says Marlene And Lil Dress Badly

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—As every feminine eye in Hollywood is focussed on Easter fineries, Hedda Hopper cracks filmland's serenity by a sensational resumption of the old argument as to who are the best dressed women in the motion picture colony.

Miss Hopper

But what the gossips will dote on is that she takes a sharp dig at Marlene Dietrich and Lilyan Tashman. Says Hedda:

"Both Miss Dietrich and Miss Tashman have chosen bizarre styles to attract attention to themselves. To me, it has always seemed possible to be an actress without carrying the theater around on your back.

"I think Lilyan is one of the most amusing people I know, but I believe she dresses in too flambuoyant a manner. Where some women wear one, or two, diamond clasps, she wears four. Of course, it may be jealousy on my part. I have only one diamond clasp, and it is so small you could put it in the corner of your eye.

"Miss Dietrich," continued Hedda, "has carried the trousers fad too far. It will be a boomerang to her. She lays herself particularly open to the charge of bad taste when she dresses her little girl in masculine fashion."

It is Bill Rankin who tells the story of the New York writer who was so bitter over a studio experience that he could see nothing good about Hollywood.

One evening, there was a fire on the boulevard and the department went clanging by.

"Snappy work, isn't it," observed a bystander.

"Yah," said the writer, "in New York they come back faster than that."

Ann Harding is writing a book and you may be able to help her. She is asking all who knew her father, the late General George Grant Catley, to send her any human interest stories about his career. Her book is to be his biography, written in episodic style, and containing many of her childhood memories of life in army camps. Ann is writing it between picture assignments. She'll do several chapters as soon as she finishes "When Ladies Meet" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Miss Harding

Though George Bernard Shaw turned down John Barrymore's request for an autograph for his daughter, the British writer cheerfully signed his name on a "10-gallon" hat belonging to Cecil Holland, M-G-M makeup man. Holland's hat already contained the autographs of many Hollywood celebrities . . . Remember Gladys McConnell, Wampas baby star of a few years back? She is Mrs. A. Ronald Button now, and she is expecting a visit from the stork in a few months.

They'll tell you that Merna Kennedy and Busby Berkeley, the dance director, will be honeymooning at the Chicago World's Fair. . . And that was Alexander Kirkland who took Joan Crawford dancing at the Beverly Wilshire. . . Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler are off to Hawaii on the same boat with the Pat O'Briens, the Frank Borzages and several other film folk. . In addition to her scenario work, Stella Bloch is a talented artist, and an authority on Javanese dances. She's having an exhibition here next week. "Harlem Dancers" is her present subject.

Miss Kennedy

The Puppet Club, made up of 20 members of the film younger set, gave a dinner dance in the Roosevelt Saturday in honor of Anita Louise, who leaves for a trip to Europe. Billie Burke and Alexander Leftwich, honorary members, attended. This club has rented a house in Hollywood, where it will have a tennis court and a place for weekly dances.

And did you hear Roy Del Ruth's simile:

"As unwanted as a glass of near beer on April 7."

Did you know: That Greta Garbo signs all her telegrams G. G.?

Oliver

June Clyde in Cast With Eilers, Dunn

June Clyde has been engaged by Fox to play the role of Sally Eilers' girl friend in "Hold Me Tight," which was placed in production at Movietone City under the direction of David Butler. James Dunn plays the leading male role.

Plays and Players :: By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Holy Week is upon us and the final week in Lent finds the Nixon dark. It will reopen next Monday with the presentation of "When Ladies Meet," comedy by Rachel Crothers. It will be played by the original New York cast, headed by Frieda Inescourt, Walter Abel and Spring Byington. The box office will open Thursday morning for the sale of seats for this production, fifth in the American Theater Society subscription season.

* * *

Another theater dark for Holy Week is the Variety, which will welcome Easter with a Sunday midnight presentation of "Mussolini Speaks," a film revue of the high lights in the life of Il Duce. It will be shown all next week.

* * *

Following "When Ladies Meet" in the Nixon will be the annual musical production of the Pitt Cap and Gown Club, "All to the Point." In it will be seen costumes that some of us have seen before—in "Humpty Dumpty." When Schwab & Desylva rebuilt that bit of foolery they threw out all of the historical incidents, and the costumes used in them have been purchased by the Cap and Gown Club for its spoofery about early Pittsburgh.

Dick Powell on Friday began a personal appearance tour in St. Louis, and presently New York folks will see our Dick, who recently has worked in two of Warner Brothers' more pretentious film productions, "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933."

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., has been signed by RKO to play the male lead opposite Katherine Hepburn in "The Morning Glory," which also will have Adolphe Menjou and Mary Duncan . . . Jack Holt's next picture will be "The Wrecker," in which he will be a building contractor .

F.D.R. Permits Title Use

"Looking Forward" has been decided upon as the most appropriate title for the new Cosmopolitan Production-Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, founded on the English stage play, "Service." Better than any other of many titles suggested, "Looking Forward" exemplifies the sentiment of this story of hope and courage.

When it was realized, however, that "Looking Forward" was also the title of President Roosevelt's new book, the picture was taken to Washington and shown to the President. He was so impressed with it that he readily consented to the use of his title on the picture.

"Looking Forward" deals with the lives of two men and their families under the acid test of the depression. One of these men is the head of a great department store, the other a plodding, honest old "worm" who had been employed by the firm for 40 years as a bookkeeper.

Lionel Barrymore appears as the old bookkeeper a role reminiscent of his characterization of Kringelein in "Grand Hotel." Louis Stone appears as the department store owner, and others in the cast include Elizabeth Allan, Phillips Holmes, Colin Clive, Alex B. Francis, Doris Lloyd, Halliwell Hobbes, Douglas Walton, Viva Tattersall, Lawrence Grant, George K. Arthur, Charles Irwin and Billy Bevan. "Looking Forward" was directed by Clarence Brown.

Broadways of the World

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

TAJ MAHAL HOTEL, BOMBAY, India.—I've just returned from the dining room, but I'm still hungry. That's nobody's fault, though, but my own. I became so engrossed in a story I heard that I completely forgot about eating. And when my companion had finished telling me the yarn, I rushed for my typewriter, in order to bang it out while it was still fresh in my memory. Listen:

Going back exactly 18 years ago, we find Diana as a girl of 21. She was born in Bombay, her parents having arrived here from London about a year previous to that great event. Diana's folks were not poor, by any means. Therefore, when our story commences we find her traveling around the world and enjoying vast favor.

In England, she moved in the highest social circles. In Paris, she was as welcome in the home of noted diplomats as she was in the dressing room of the late Gaby Deslys. Incidentally, Gaby and Diana were great friends. When Gaby played in America some time later, she and Diana were together on many, many occasions.

Late in 1915, Diana came back to Bombay. Here she renewed an acquaintance with George and Freddie, who, like herself, were born in this spot, of English parents. And who, as such things often happen, were both in love with her. George must have been a trifle more in love than Freddie—for he proposed marriage.

Shortly after the proposal, Diana and George were married. He bought her a wonderful home in Bombay. He had a beautiful wife, high social position in the British colony of the town, plenty of dough and everything to live for. So he did what most gentlemen in that situation usually do. He tossed it all away to become a drunkard.

About a year after their wedding, Diana came to her husband. She told him that she was in love with Freddie, and wanted a divorce.

But the divorce never reached the courts. George vanished from home and turned up in the Royal Flying Corps. Fighting for England, he was one of the first to be killed in the war.

Freddie and Diana became sweethearts, but if the little lady supposed that she and Freddie were to be married immediately she was doomed to an early disappointment.

It is a question, however, whether Diana minded the situation particularly. A widow for a very short time, it would not look well for her to plunge into matrimony too quickly.

About six years ago, Freddie came to her with big news. He had been given a tip on the market, but his bankroll wasn't very large. He asked her to lend him some money and he'd invest it for both of them. It all sounded swell to Diana, so she withdrew a large part of her bank account and turned the money over to him.

When the money was gone, Freddie was back for more. Foolishly, she gave it to him. Recklessly, he tossed it away. He agreed to give her $1,000 a month.

For about two years, he kept his word. Then he chopped her allowance to $500. In the meantime, Diana began to go the way her husband had gone. She realized she was getting old—and growing much stouter. Nothing much left. Her glory was all in her past. So, she started to hit the bottle.

Everything gone, she sank deeper and deeper. Finally, she pulled herself together long enough to go to Freddie and ask him to marry her.

Freddie laughed at her and told her not to be a fool. Two month later, he canceled her allowance entirely. His people had lost plenty of money lately, he explained, which necessitated their cutting his allowance considerably. Accordingly, he felt that he wasn't in a position to continue giving Diana $500 a month.

She returned to her home and attempted suicide, but the poison didn't kill her. Her mind was made up, however. There was nothing else in life for her. Accordingly, she laid plans for another suicide attempt.

And this time she knew she wasn't going to fail. She took the last of her money and bought herself a dress in which she wished to be buried. On her finger she slipped the wedding band that George had given her.

She placed herself on the bed and swallowed a huge amount of poison. When they found her two hours later, she was cold in death. Freddie was called to the scene, he being about the only one the authorities were sure would help now.

Shortly afterward, he entered her home. He looked at the woman who had been the toast of the continent 18 years before. He looked at the woman who had married money and tossed it away for him. He looked—and his eyes fell upon the new dress that Diana had bought to be buried in. He picked it up and placed it under his arm. He walked toward the door.

"As long as I'll have to foot the bills until she's buried," he explained to the native policeman who was present, "I might as well take this back to the store and see if I can't get credit on it."

Penrose, Leslie held a seat among the mighty of Pennsylvania Republicanism. He could be seen at nearly all state and national conventions of former years, playing the cards of the organization in his characteristic adroit fashion.

In the wake of the graft expose in 1909, involving members of the old Select and Common Councils, Leslie, though not a councilman at the time, was indicted on a charge of conspiracy. Defended by the late Rody P. Marshall in a spectacular legal battle, Leslie proved an alibi and was acquitted by the jury.

It was a byword among his followers that Max Leslie could not be outgeneraled in an election. They said:

"You can't count Max out."

Through all his political warfare, Leslie held no grudges, a political foe of one campaign being his friend the next, a quality which contributed largely to his success.

HELD NO GRUDGES

In his farewell speech before the State Senate, Leslie said:

"I trust those who know me will appreciate the fact that I carry no differences with me. Ofttimes we are divided. Division to me means only the right of each member to choose the side he thinks best."

Malachi Grant Leslie was born on a farm in Westmoreland County, April 6, 1864. He was of Scotch and Dutch descent, one of seven children of Capt. Malachi Leslie, farmer and merchant, and Martha Ann Hoffman Leslie.

When he was 4 his family moved to Pittsburgh, settling in the present Ninth Ward.

POWER IN "STRIP"

In this district, outer end of the "Strip," Leslie spent the remainder of his life. It was on this neighborhood that he could always count and from which many of his lieutenants came.

He attended Washington Public School, Fortieth street, and was graduated from Duff's Business College.

Early taking an active interest in politics, Leslie was named a deputy internal revenue collector here in the Cleveland administration and served seven years.

In 1896 Leslie was elected to the old Common Council, serving until 1904, and being chairman in 1901 and 1902. As councilman his sphere of influence widened and he became affiliated with the Magee-Flinn organization, attaining prominence in the memorable fight to oust Edward M. Bigelow as director of public works.

ORGANIZATION SPLIT

The organization succeeded in ousting Bigelow, but the move created a split in the organization and resulting in factionalism that persisted for years.

Bigelow was reinstated by William B. Hays, elected Mayor on the Citizens party ticket. Leslie promptly showed his versatility, formed an alliance with Bigelow and obtained for the latter much desired public works appropriations of which the Mayor disapproved.

Leslie was at the helm of the Magee-Flinn group through the years of its waning power. In 1906 he supported Alexander M. Jenkinson for the Republican nomination for Mayor against William A. Magee. The former was nominated, but lost the election to the late George W. Guthrie, Democrat.

ONCE STOCK BROKER

Leslie engaged in the stock brokerage business for some years, having a seat on the Pittsburgh Exchange, but his penchant for politics eventually reasserted itself.

In 1913 he backed Joseph G. Armstrong for Mayor. He won. In 1917 he was one of the leaders who supported E. V. Babcock for the mayoralty. He was elected.

Leslie was regarded as the power behind the candidacy of former Mayor Charles H. Kline. He threw all his support to Kline, then on the bench of Common Pleas Court and Kline was elected without difficulty in 1926, only to reject political appointments urged by Leslie. A break between the two followed which never healed.

In 1918 Leslie was first elected to the State Senate.

He retained his seat, by sagacious political maneuvering, for 12 years.

The battle against Leslie began soon after the World War. In 1921 he formed an alliance with William A. Magee and the latter was elected. The next year, however, found the two at odds and the administration against Leslie.

LOST TO PINCHOT

One of Leslie's greatest disappointments was the election of Gifford Pinchot as Governor over George E. Alter. Leslie got revenge by helping defeat Pinchot for a place as delegate to the Republican National Convention.

From then on the "Strip" Senator had to face opposition not only from political enemies at home but from the state administration as well. In 1923 few observers would concede him a chance for re-election. But the resourceful field marshal of many campaigns formed new alliances, strengthened old ones, refused to accept defeat, and came out victorious.

Declining health and opposition of the late County Commissioner Armstrong finally accomplished the political retirement of Senator Leslie. He was checkmated at every turn and did not seek re-election in the campaign of 1930. Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., son of the former Republican county dictator, was chosen.

Since then, Leslie had been prevented from taking an active part in politics by failing health.

In 1889 Mr. Leslie married Lillian Bell Over, of Pittsburgh. She died in 1909, leaving three children.

They are Artemas C. Leslie, of 6671 Kinsman road, and two daughters, Mrs. Inez Maylor and Mrs. Marie Leslie Stifel, both of Wheeling, W. Va.

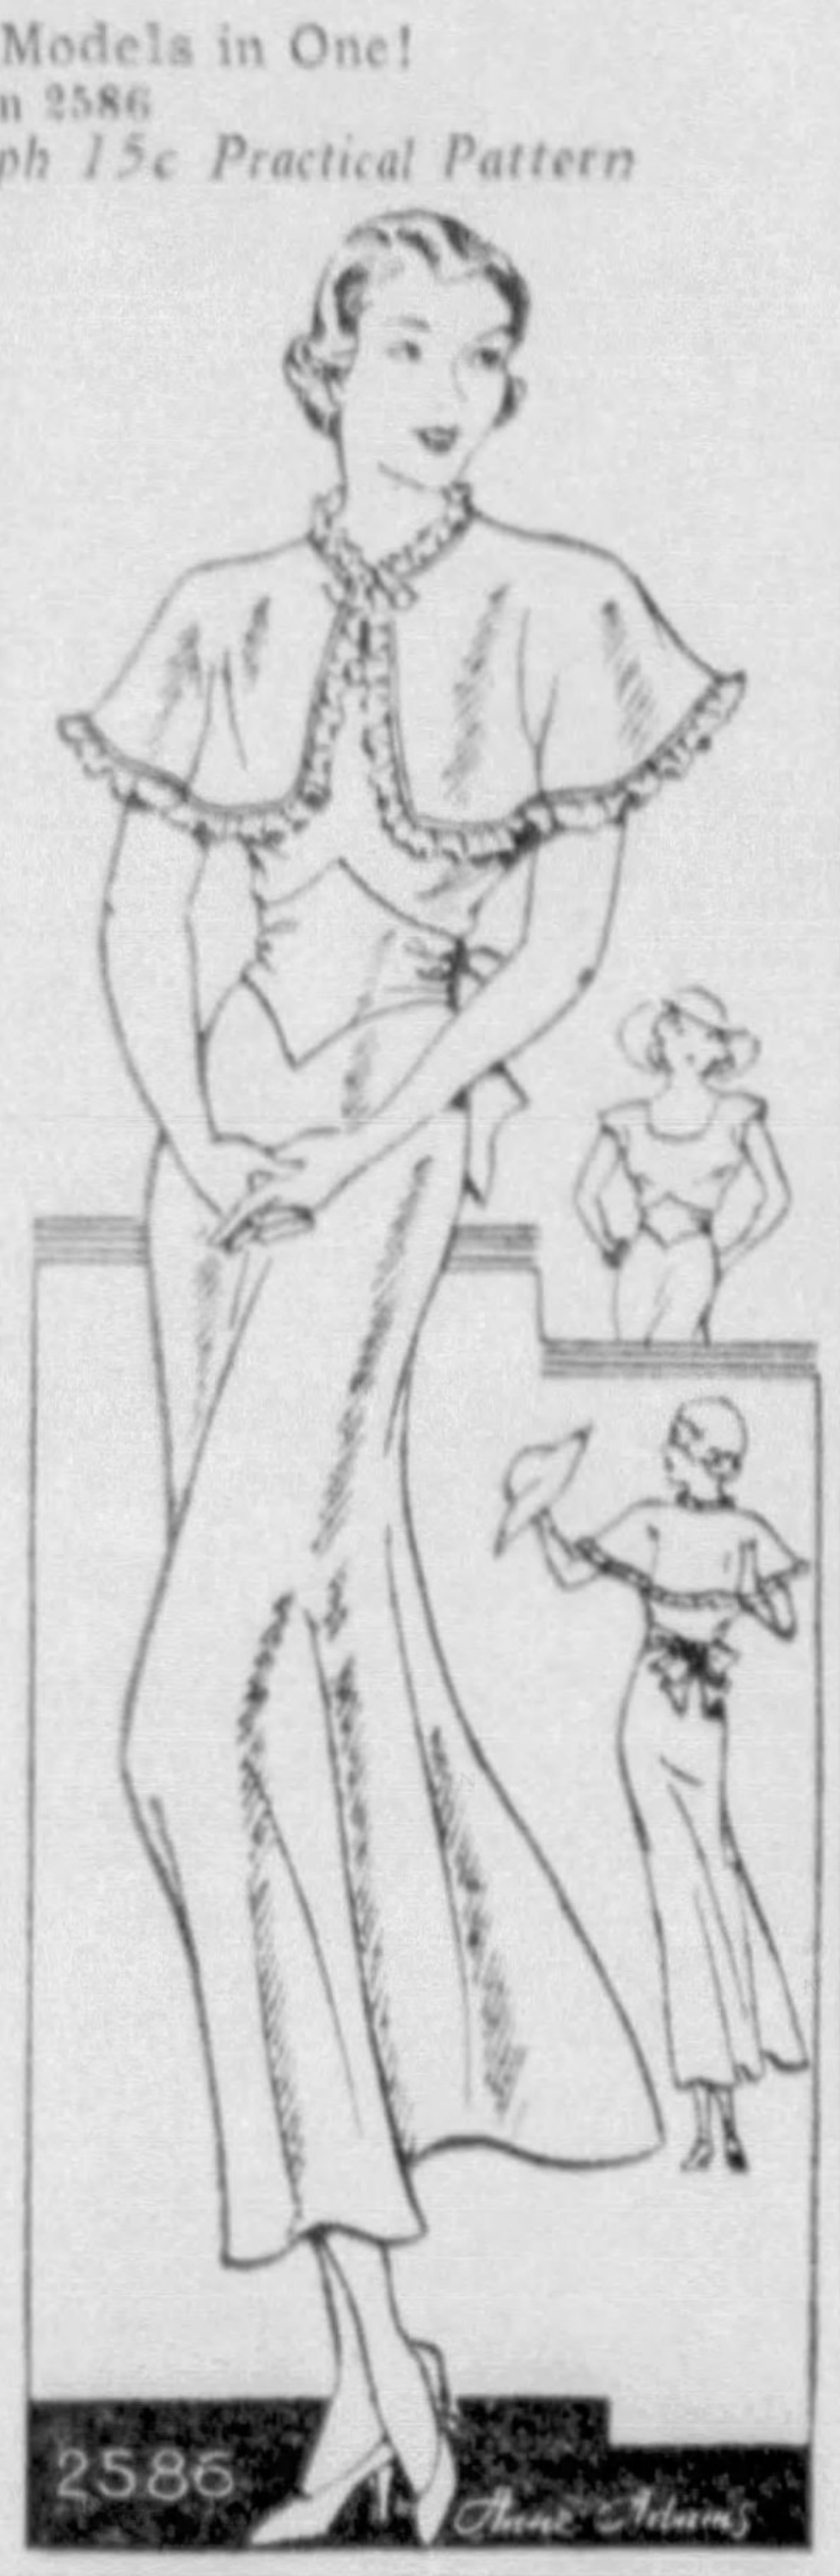
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



Of the many clever ways Fashion achieves the new silhouette, none is lovelier or smarter than using a graceful cape. With attention on the shoulders, hips melt into the merest shadow. And with the ensemble the last word in smartness, the cape will be detachable, to reveal an equally charming frock . . . and to create the illusion of a different dress—a step towards economy. The cape is outlined with ruffling, quaint and feminine, while the frock defines its waistline with chic seaming and a pert bow in back. Crepey silks or cottons would be most attractive.

Pattern 2586 may be ordered only in sizes, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 4 3/8 yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

HUNTING GOLD IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, April 10.—(AP.)—Three men with new ideas about prospecting for gold today renewed their assault on Fort Moore hill in the heart of Los Angeles.

Their equipment includes an ancient sheepskin map, a modern electrical mineral detecting device and a mechanical cesspool digger. Rex I. McCreery, an attorney, said:

"This digger beats a pick and shovel all hollow, and we expect to do our prospecting in a hurry."

The prospectors—McCreery, G. Warren Shuffelt and Roy Martin—sank one shaft with pick and shovel to a depth of 26 feet while a deputy sheriff held back curious spectators. Then their 50-50 agreement with the county, which owns the property, expired.

The county commissioners were too busy then arranging to get gold by taxing new beer to hear them. The prospectors waited, but when beer began to flow they got quick action. The contract was renewed.

They declared they believed that the hill, formerly a Spanish estate, is undermined with tunnels holding a wealth of hidden gold.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

TEST NEW CURE FOR SPINE ILLS

NEW YORK, April 10.—(Universal.)—Curvature of the spine resulting from infantile paralysis is being treated by a new method at the New York Orthopedic Dispensary and Hospital, it was announced today by the information bureau of the United Hospital Fund of New York.

Corrective measures include the use of a plaster jacket applied with the patient's spine bent in the opposite direction from the curvature.

This method, it was explained, has the effect of over-correcting the curve and resting the weakened muscles, resulting in the muscles, in many cases, recovering their power.

CANNON LOSES IN ELECTION CASE FIGHT

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and his secretary, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, lost in the Supreme Court today their fight against an indictment charging them with violating Federal election laws in connection with the 1928 presidential campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

They were charged with failure to report contributions received to aid them in their campaign against Smith in Virginia.

The court, in an opinion by Justice Roberts, sustained the contention of the government that the appeal from the action of the District of Columbia Supreme Court holding the indictment defective, was properly taken to the District Court of Appeals.

Bishop Cannon insisted that the appeal should have been taken direct from the trial court to the United States Supreme Court.

The Court of Appeals now will pass on the indictment itself. Should it be sustained, the churchman and Miss Burroughs would be forced to stand trial on the charges.

It was charged that E. C. Jameson, a New Yorker, contributed $65,300 to the anti-Smith cause and that Bishop Cannon reported only about $17,000.

Bishop Cannon's answer was that he had reported all that was required under the election laws.

Bishop Cannon was in court when the decision was announced.

RECOVER BODY OF SKI VICTIM

BANFF, Alta., April 10.—(INS.)—The body of R. A. E. C. Paley, an international research fellow in Massachusetts Institute of Technology, killed near here Saturday when he was pitched from a mountain peak by an avalanche his ski set in motion, was recovered today.

The body of the 25-year-old English mathematician was found after hours of digging in the crumbled rock and snow.

Paley had climbed on his skis to a perilous ledge of fossil mountain within a few hundred feet of the 9,600 foot peak. One of his skis scraped a light rock and started an avalanche. He was thrown several thousand feet into a valley.

Paley was known as one of the greatest mathematicians in the world. He attended Eton and was graduated from Trinity College of Cambridge University.

Ballroom Glide Replaces Jerky Jazz Steps

INDIANAPOLIS, April 10.—"Take it slow and easy," ran a popular song of a few years back. And that, say Middle Western members of the Dancing Masters of America, is good advice for those who wish to make a hit in 1933 ballroom dancing.

Louis Stockman, chairman of of a group meeting here, says, "We're teaching steps that are adapted for crowded dance floors." He predicted eccentric steps will give way to "smooth-flowing, gliding dances in slow time."

A reunion of the class of 1908 of Liberty School will be held in Webster Hall, May 20. Paul Hardy is chairman of the gathering. All but 27 of the 105 class members have been located.

CLEAR BRASLEY IN BAR CASE

Attorney Ben Paul Brasley was cleared by the court today of all charges that he had employed runners to obtain cases.

Judges James R. Macfarlane and Frank P. Patterson discharged a rule obtained by the investigating committee of the bar association to compel Brasley to show cause why he should not be disbarred.

Charges against Brasley, the court found, were "not supported by credible testimony and were overwhelmingly disproved."

The opinion pointed out that while a few solicited cases were accepted by the law firm of which Brasley is senior member, none was taken by Brasley and that when he learned of it he "took effective steps to make any such occurrence impossible in the future."

Attorney Brasley said:

"For more than 25 years I have practiced actively, with fidelity to court and client. This proceeding appeared in its true light when brought before the court at a public hearing.

"I feel grateful to the court for its celerity of action, to reporters and their newspapers for their fairness, to friends and clients for their trust and loyalty, and to my friend and counsel, O. K. Eaton, for his painstaking interest in my behalf."

Yaqui Tom Toms Booming Rites Of Harvest

TUSCON, Ariz., April 10.—(INS.)—Indian tom-toms are booming along the canyon walls of Arizona and Sonora, Mexico, as thousands of Yaquis whirl in a conglomeration of pagan and Christian rites which are held each year during the Lenten season.

Wearing grotesque masks, made from the heads of deer, the pasgoleros and venados, or medicine men, are leading the faithful in prayers for a good harvest season.

U. S. APPEALS DUKE TAX CASE

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—The government today appealed to the Supreme Court in an effort to collect $6,469,725 additional inheritance tax on the late James B. Duke, tobacco magnate, who died in 1925.

The controversy grew out of two trusts totaling over $30,000,000 established by Duke primarily for the benefit of his daughter, Doris. The government claimed they were subject to the federal estate tax, but the Third Circuit Court held otherwise.

The assessment was more than $9,000,000 originally, but was reduced through adjustments.

New Opera Broadcasts Begin

The second of the newly-inaugurated "Cabinet Series" of National Radio Forum programs brings Daniel C. Roper, Secretary of Commerce, to the air over NBC-WCAE tonight at 10:30 o'clock.

Speaking on "Problems of World Trade," Secretary Roper outlines his program for business rehabilitation.

In place of the Mills Brothers, one of whom is sick, there'll be a 15-minute backstage pickup from the New York show, "Strike Me Pink" on WJAS at 9:15. Jimmy (Schnozzle) Durante is the star and the broadcast is to offer Lupe Velez and Roy Atwill.

Prominent guest soloists are featured with a mixed chorus and an orchestra under the direction of Graham Harris in a new weekly series of National Opera Concerts opening on WCAE at 8:30 p. m. Tonight's soloists are Florence Austral, Elizabeth Lennox and Dan Gridley.

The K-7 dramas of military espionage are resumed over NBC-WCAE at 9:30 when "Spy Against Spy," with the underworld of Paris as its locale, is presented.

The KDKA "Townsend Murder Mystery" goes on the air on a new schedule — Monday, Wednesday and Saturday at 7:15—beginning tonight . . . and Singin' Sam, radio's bassoloist, starts his spring and summer schedule of weekly broadcasts with his WJAS program at 8.

Abe R. Cohen, student of Jewish religion and attorney, participates in the WJAS Passover Greetings at 5:25 p. m.

Riggs and Moke, heard over KDKA today at 1:45 p. m., will be a morning and afternoon feature on that station until the middle of the month, when they take the air in an evening program.

Jim Tully pays tribute to Wilson Mizner, Hollywood wit and writer, who died last week, during "Hollywood - on - the - Air" over WCAE at 12:30 a. m. In addition, Howard J. Green, author of "Blessed Event;" John Monk Saunders, and H. W. Haneman give "Advice to Prospective Movie Writers."

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

It is surprising how many arguments can arise over the query forwarded by John R. Longabaugh, Jr., as to the origin of the word Nazi.

The term is derived from the name of the German party, headed by Adolph Hitler, known as the National Socialist party. The German pronunciation of the first word is something like Nah-tzee-oh-nal, the adherents being called (phonetically) Nah-tzees.

The reason the nickname is spelled in the German press as N-A-Z-I, instead of N-A-T-I, is that the pronunciation of the latter without softening of the subsequent vowels would be pronounced Nah-tee, so to write the word as it is pronounced, the German press, as well as others, change the T to a Z, the Z giving that 'Tsee ending.

* * *

A parrot in Belle Vernon, which evidently listens to the broadcasts, attempted to establish himself as the champion of all windowpane battlers. Knowing the value of publicity and an audience, he chose the window pane of the first grade room of the Fairchance School, and with the excited kiddies looking on and cheering him, hurtled himself against his image in the glass. He came with such bombarding force that he crashed right through and then perching on remnants of the shattered glass he remained framed by the window, acknowledging the plaudits of the pupils until his owner came and took him home. (Thank you, Bernice Kinzler.)

* * *

Jim Loughrans, the retail food secretary, calls his canary "Globe Trotter" because he waits for every broadcast. It even forgets its food to chirp, sing and twitter during the program. Is this a compliment or am I getting the well known "bird?"

* * *

Have been advised by Mrs. Francis Peters of a new role the Globe Trotter plays in her household, that of court of appeals for her little 5-year-old Agnes. When mother wants her to wear a jacket, Agnes counters with "I don't have to, Louie said it is a nice day."

* * *

"I am a little boy 12 years old and fond of cats. If you know anyone who has a cat that wants a good home will you let me know?

"One day on my way home from school I found a kitten with a broken leg. I took him home and mother helped put a splint on the leg and she got all better. Some boys claimed her after that. Mother says I bring home all the stray cats, but she doesn't mind because she soon makes a pet out of them."

Spring's Here With Circus On Air

By AIRCASTER

Sure sign of spring:

The circus season is on in New York and the microphone is going to let a lot of us sneak in without tickets for a couple of matinees this week.

There are to be two broadcasts from Madison Square Garden, one via NBC tomorrow afternoon starting around 2:30 and the second broadcast, by CBS, Saturday.

New York's Easter parade, as it spreads itself along Fifth and Park avenues will be the subject for an NBC broadcast from a mobile transmitter Sunday afternoon. The announcer will have the assistance of an expert on feminine attire.

For the purpose of clearing up some questions propounded by the customers during the week, the answers are:

And Paul Whiteman's actual tag is "Whikeman."

BUTLER SHOT AS HE ANSWERS TELEPHONE

Suspicion previously attached to Quintus Jones, colored butler in the Peter Townsend home, in connection with the murder of John Prosser there on the night of June 13th, was seemingly definitely quieted today. Detectives Jim Hanvey and Al Sheppard, acting on information received from a telephone operator, rushed to the Townsend home to find Jones lying by the telephone in a pool of blood, dangerously wounded by a pistol shot. Townsend and Mrs. Townsend, though both at home when the detectives arrived, were unable to give a coherent account of the tragedy.

Who shot Quintus Jones? Was it the same person who killed John Prosser?

What was behind the daring attempt of Gloria Terrill to escape from the grounds the night of Prosser's murder?

What are the Townsends concealing regarding Prosser's past?

Coyne's Repeal Plan Adopted by Pinchot
By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, April 10.—Conflict over Gov. Pinchot's veto of the McClure bill setting up the machinery for a convention to determine Pennsylvania's attitude toward repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment has brought some interesting sidelights.

Mr. Shields

The Governor says he prefers that delegates to the convention be elected from the fifty state Senatorial districts, rather than that 34 be chosen from Congressional districts and 17 at large.

Senator John J. McClure, sponsor of the bill which the Governor has vetoed, declares the Pinchot suggestion fails to give adequate representation of sentiment, and is a deep-dark plot of the drys.

Now Senator Coyne does not think so much of its first thought, while it has been picked up enthusiastically by the dry Mr. Pinchot.

If that isn't a whirligig, then what do you call it?

This is just another example of how Harrisburg is playing ducks and drakes with anything which has to do with prohibition, its repeal or modification.

* * *

McClure No Crusader For Zone Changes

Then there is another thought.

Senator McClure in a statement today, charging the Governor with "dealing from the bottom of the deck," is all upset because there is inequality in the apportionment of Senatorial districts. He says there has not been a reapportionment since 1921. That was minor, and there has been no real rearrangement of districts since 1906.

Senator McClure deplores the fact that a Senatorial district with less than 97,000 voters will have equal voice under the Pinchot plan with a district in Philadelphia exceeding 440,000. The Mansfield and Harris districts in Allegheny County are almost as large.

Manifestly this is inequitable.

But what has Senator McClure done in this session, or that of 1931, to establish equity? He has given no perceptible assistance to the Senatorial reappointment bill of Senator Harris, or that of Senator Woodward, of Philadelphia.

There doesn't seem to be much consistency in the position of either Mr. Pinchot or Senator McClure, as they talk about fairness in the division of the state.

For inequality of voice on the prohibition question means inequality on other legislative questions.

* * *

Strength to Beat Repeal Veto Sought

McClure and his associates in Senate and House were making quiet, but earnest efforts today to line up enough votes to override the Pinchot veto. It may be that they will not put the question to a test tonight, but will take more time to work on hesitant members.

If there is no action tonight the veto message will be laid on the table in the Senate, and can be brought up at any time.

No veto effort will be made unless the votes are at hand, it is understood, as the friends of the McClure measure would not care to take a defeat. They realize the trepidation with which members approach a veto, as it has been 40 years since the disapproval of a Governor of any bill was struck down.

* * *

Senate's Utilities Inquiry Dormant

The legislative session is drawing to a close with nothing heard of that phantom of phantoms, the Senate Utility Investigating Committee. The last time the committee attracted any attention was when O. K. Eaton, of Pittsburgh, quit as its counsel after a conflict with Senator McClure, the chairman.

Franklin Spencer Edmonds, Philadelphia attorney, was named counsel, and the committee announced there would be a real investigation of charges Gov. Pinchot had made against the Public Service Commission and utilities.

There was a conference with the Governor, and he promised to sign an appropriation bill carrying $100,000 for the work of the committee. But that bill has not even passed, though it has kicked about the Legislature since early January, and was not even reported from the Senate Appropriations Committee, so long as Mr. Eaton remained as counsel.

* * *

Pinchot Now Silent On His Big Issue

One of the remarkable things about this utility situation is the silence of Mr. Pinchot on the subject. Many weeks ago he was known to be preparing a utility message, only waiting an opportune time to revive his staple campaign issue. The opportunity came when Eaton resigned. It revived itself when the Governor split with Dr. Clyde L. King, whom he had appointed as chairman of the commission.

Yet nothing has come from the executive on the question.

And there are no visible signs of an inquiry. Mr. Edmonds is frequently in Harrisburg, but he seems to spend most of his time in the Senate and the House, of which he was once a member. He has named no associate counsel, though there are reports that former Congressman Harry A. Estep, of Pittsburgh, is being considered as one.

Perhaps if nothing is done about utility charges the subject will be good for another campaign.

Opening of Federal Liquor Stores Brings Defy From Gangsters

Gabriel Over the White House

(Continuation of Chapter VIII.)

One evening, about a year after the formation of the new administration, Pendie, Peale and myself were dining with Van Rassaeler, his wife and Mrs. Dampier, her sister, at the Van Rassaeler home in Chevy Chase. It was a jolly party, the excuse being the formal engagement of Pendie to Peale. Pendie had to leave early to return to the White House and Mrs. Van Rassaeler and her sister soon left us to ourselves. By degrees our conversation drifted to politics.

Van Rassaeler had been making scathing comments on the refusal of New York, Illinois and New Jersey to recognize federal control. The President's immovable resolution not to grant a single dollar of federal aid until they capitulated had prevented these states from sharing in federal relief schemes and there was much distress, especially in New York and Chicago.

If it had not been for the return of some measure of prosperity to the country as a whole, the inhabitants of these balky states would long ago have been submerged by internal anarchy or starvation. As it was they were desperately impoverished and their public service had almost completely broken down. Van Rassaeler wound up by saying:

"I cannot understand why the people stand for it. They ought to chuck out the entire lot of politicians for their own good."

"What is Hammond going to do about it then?" I asked. "Surely he's not going to admit failure in this instance when he has moved mountains in accomplishing others?"

Neither Van Rassaeler nor Peale knew, and it was only by coincidence that the President asked his Council of State to meet two days later to receive certain proposals for control of the liquor traffic.

* * *

In the East Room which had become the usual place for Council meetings, there was considerable excited speculation among its members before the President entered. What would he ordain?

Rackets Continue

When the President finally faced the Council, he looked more ill than usual. His cadaverous face, with its deeply sunken eyes, and the emphasis that ill-fitting clothes gave to his tall, fleshless figure, brought home to those present that the strain and anxiety under which he laboured—working with an unceasing and concentrated energy which would have killed anyone possessed of a less vigorous constitution—was exacting a heavy toll. There was in his lips a faint tinge of blue which suggested that his heart was being overtaxed.

With his habitual abrupt clarity, the President first gave a resume of the existing situation pointing out that:

Legalizing the sale of light wines and beer had not got rid of the racketeer and bootlegger. If anything it had led to greater disorders in the quarrels between legitimate agents and the free trader. While Chicago and New York were not typical of the rest of the country, there was still an enormous sale of illicit spirits in every State of the Union.

"I now propose," he said, "that the Federal Government should take over completely the manufacture, sale and importation of all forms of alcohol."

The President, unmoved, gave details of the plan which he was confident the Supreme Court would find reasonable. He produced figures to show how Federal finances would benefit.

President Criticized

There were to be no saloons and no retail sale of any form of alcohol, except in hotels and restaurants specially licensed for the purpose. Licenses could only be obtained from Federal authorities on payment of a heavy fee, based on the amount of liquor purchased for resale. In each city and town Government stores for the retail sale of limited quantities of alcohol were to be established.

A special commission was immediately to be set up to undertake the manufacture, importation and distribution of alcoholic beverages. Each member of the commission would be appointed for five years at a fixed salary. Any profits of the undertaking would be paid back into the Federal Treasury.

The establishment of the Federal Liquor Commission was given a mixed reception throughout the country. In most of the Eastern States it was hailed as the best thing the President had done, but there were sharp conflicts of opinion in the South and West. One heard open criticism of the President for the first time.

If, however, there were divisions in certain states about the wisdom or justification of the President's action, there were no uncertainties or doubts in the minds of gangsters and racketeers. To them it was a declaration of war by the Federal government. Their power and their profits would be ended if this monstrous interference with their established rights came to pass.

CHAPTER IX.

From the moment the first Federal liquor store opened in New York and Chicago, the gangsters and gunmen turned ruthlessly on them. Supreme in their power, with slack civic administrations enmeshed in a network of corruption, they had come to believe in their invincibility.

Watchmen Murdered

Decision in Sharon Case Upholds Right To Fix Levy

An opinion by Justice Alex Simpson, Jr., reversed the action of Judge J. A. McLaughry, of Mercer County Court, restraining Sharon City Council from fixing a levy based upon estimated delinquencies.

METHOD FOUGHT

The authority of the Pittsburgh School Board to follow a similar procedure in fixing the 1933 levy is now being contested by the Taxpayers' League. A bill to pre-

ORDER ARNOLD VERDICT CUT

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—(AP.)—The children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Alio, killed in a grade crossing accident at Arnold, Pa., two years ago, today were given their choice of accepting a $12,445 verdict for the death of their father or of conducting another suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Their $30,455 verdict in the Jefferson County Common Pleas Court was set aside by the Supreme Court as excessive. The state tribunal instructed the trial judge to enter judgment for the lower amount if that suited the children. Otherwise a new trial order will be made absolute.

Mr. and Mrs. Alio were killed while on their way to church Christmas morning, 1930.

Girl Held; Baby's Death Investigated

Lillian Hickey, a domestic, was guarded in South Side Hospital today to prevent her from carrying out a reported threat to end her life, while homicide detectives investigated the death of her newborn baby.

Under her bedroom window in a Sebring street residence where she is employed, Dr. David Steinman, of 803 Sebring street, found the infant's body, he told police. Deputy coroners were detailed to investigate the baby's death.

$500 in Cash Stolen From Fish Market

Thieves, who forced entry to a fish market operated by Sam Gellman, at 1811 Center avenue early today, made their way to the second floor, where they broke open a safe and escaped with $500 in cash and $500 in checks.

LAY EDGEWORTH SLAYING TO 'RACKETS'

Man Shot in Struggle Walks Fifty Feet And Dies

What appeared another Sewickley Valley Black Hand or racket murder was chalked up today with the finding of the body of Sam Curcio, 50, of Ferry street, Sewickley, in Hazel lane, Edgeworth.

A revolver had been pressed close to Curcio's head and discharged, the Coroner's office reported. An examination of the ground indicated a struggle had taken place, and the victim had walked about 50 feet before falling dead.

In his pockets were found $99.50 in currency and two bank books, showing more than $1,000 on deposit in the Sewickley Valley Trust Company. A knife was in his pocket and another, unopened, nearby.

CHURCH, PASTOR IN LEGAL FIGHT

Troubles of the Bethany Baptist Church, Negro congregation at 7734 Tioga street, have reached a point where the pastor and a majority of the flock are involved in law suits.

The minister, the Rev. Maurice L. Gordon, was persuaded to step down from the pulpit temporarily yesterday in the interests of peace, according to County Detective Charles Stewart.

A charge that the pastor had gambled in the "numbers" lottery and had "converted the church in his playing same" was made recently in a bill in equity filed in Common Pleas Court by a faction in the congregation seeking his removal.

Mr. Gordon, according to Stewart, had been voted out by a majority several months ago. The bill asks a permanent injunction against Mr. Gordon, and an appeal to dismiss it was refused April 5, according to Attorney P. J. Clyde Randall, who represeents the pro-ouster faction.

More than 60 members of the congregation have been charged with disturbing public worship. Of this number, 12 were held for court before Alderman F. T. Halloran Saturday night.

Report on Electrical Code Change Slated

The Western Pennsylvania Chapter of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors was to meet this afternoon in Utility Hall, Philadelphia Company Building.

A report was scheduled from Frank Thornton, Jr., of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, on proposed changes in the 1933 national electrical code as amended by the electrical committee of the National Fire Protection Association.

DRIVER WILLIAM COLBERT . . . SIX YEARS AND NO ACCIDENT

REROUTE AUTOS IN TUBE SLIDE

City-bound traffic used the south bound tube of the Liberty Tubes today as scores of county workmen were striving to clear the north entrance of tons of debris washed onto the thoroughfare when an 18-inch water main broke under William street.

The earth and rock was expected to be removed by 5 o'clock, Public Works Director E. G. Lang said this afternoon. South bound traffic, in the meantime, was rerouted over Mt. Washington, via the Washington roadway.

Many children were endangered by the slide as they had gathered to watch the rushing water before the ground gave way.

DRIVES SAFELY FOR 6 YEARS

Six years of safe driving is the record set up by William Colbert, operator for the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company.

Colbert and 40 other drivers for the company have been given a "Safe Operator" medal for having operated their machines through and about Pittsburgh for a period of a year or more.

Colbert's success in avoiding serious accidents, he says, is due to careful observation of his own "Golden Rule" for drivers.

He observes:

"Drive for the other fellow. Give him the benefit of every doubt. Think far ahead of the car you are driving."

For about a year Colbert has operated a Pittsburgh-Oakmont bus, and prior to that he spent four years on the Mt. Lebanon run. He has had several close calls but he would rather not talk about them. Roadhogs, not women drivers, he says, cause him the most worry.

2 Youths Arrested Near Gas Station

Suspecting them of being the same youths chased from the vicinity of the Sun Oil Company at Allegheny and Western avenues, Carl Wendell, of 4777 Yew street, caused the arrest of Richard Miller, 17, and Walter Stewart, 17, both of near Laurel Gardens.

The two boys were locked in the rest room of the filling station pending the arrival of police.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

This Roosevelt knows his human nature. People had been pleaded with not to hoard. Laws had been passed to stop it. But when Roosevelt said, "Let 'em buy beer," the money came out of hoarding in a high lope. Why, out here the first few thousand cases of beer were paid for with silver dollars worn so thin they were pasted together like a dollar bill. Every town, of course, ran out of beer Friday. But Beverly Hills (always unique and extraordinary) was the first town to run out of pretzels. Very little intoxication over the country. And what there was, was caused by people using gin as a chaser. Yours, WILL.

EXAMINATION OF RECRUITS CONTINUES

Additional Units to Be Sent Daily to Fortress Monroe

Applicants sent by the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Association were put through a preliminary physical test at the Army Recruiting Station, Fourth avenue. This will be supplemented by a more rigorous examination at Fortress Monroe.

TO ASSEMBLE GROUP

Maj. William Buerkle, commander of the recruiting station, was to assemble the first group this afternoon in front of the Federal Building, Smithfield street. Special police were requested to handle the expected crowd.

After dinner in a nearby restaurant the contingent, expected to number more than 100, will march to Pennsylvania station and board a special train.

Maj. Buerkle said additional units would leave daily if a sufficient number of recruits was accepted.

Several college graduates who who have sought to join the conservation army were rejected as unfit physically. One of them, an engineer, had charge of 3,000 men in a California construction job. He has been idle for months.

AID TO DEPENDENTS

All the men must be between 18 and 25, unmarried and with dependents. They will receive $30 a month. Most of those enrolled stipulated that their dependents were to receive from $22 to $24 of their pay. This automatically shuts off relief contributions of 90 cents a week per person.

From Washington today came word that the administration was considering the purchase of state and privately-owned forest and eroded lands not to exceed $1.50 an acre. Work camps would be set up in these as well as the national forests.

Maj. Buerkle will tell of his conservation recruiting activities at 6:30 o'clock tonight over the radio as guest of Louis L. Kaufman, Sun-Telegraph globe trotter.

He refused to discuss his absence.

Another Critic Goes Strong For 'Gabriel'

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Tastiest news of week is that Mr. Roosevelt is going to protect the Federal Reserve bank depositor.

Then your small deposit will be as safe as dunking toast in coffee. You can dab it in and still keep your hold on it.

This probably puts the government in business. It always has been. This time Mr. Roosevelt is wiring the silent partner for sound.

It will stimulate your patriotism, hype up your imagination and knock you for a round trip. It shows that one honest man can embalm the past, innoculate the present and put the future in curl papers.

We saw it last night. It proves that human nature and hen's eggs haven't changed their shapes since the world began. Tell the man in the box office that we sent you.

DECISION BACKS SCHOOL TAX POLICY HERE

vent collection of the levy is before Common Pleas Court. Counsel for the league declared today's decision does not apply to the Pittsburgh situation, because the Sharon Council is an elected body and the School Board is not.

In its decision, in which Justice John W. Kephart dissented, the Supreme Court laid down a rule that city officials are within their rights in considering the possible percentage of collections.

RIGHT UPHELD

Municipal authorities can, under the statutes, the rule sets forth, use their own discretion as to what the actual receipts will be and what tax rate must be imposed.

The Sharon suit was filed by several taxpayers representing the Sharon Real Estate Owners' Association against Mayor J. Fred Thomas and other city officials.

Cost of the appeal from the lower court's decision was placed on John Fitzpatrick and the other plaintiffs.

Justice Kephart, in his dissenting opinion, termed the failure of Sharon city officials to press for full collection of 1932 taxes as "an abuse of their discretion" which he declared was "tantamount to arbitrary usurpation of power."

In another decision, the Supreme Court upheld the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County in their refusal to grant Mrs. Christie B. Erk, widow of J. Henry Edk, a widow's allowance of $5,000 in addition to one-half the residuary estate.

Erk in his will had bequeathed to his widow that part of his estate prescribed by Pennsylvania law.

OTHER DECISIONS

Other decisions on Allegheny County cases were:

JAPS ATTACK IN NEW DRIVE

Associated Press.

Close upon foreign reports from Tientsin, China, that a Manchukuan army advancing into North China proper had been thrown back from Chinwangtao came Japanese claims that it was advancing again on that city today.

A general drive to end Chinese counter-offensives on Japanese positions along the Great Wall of China was announced at the Japanese military headquarters in Manchuria.

Despite a Japanese war office disavowal of responsibility for the Manchukuan invasion of undisputed Chinese territory in the Chinwangtao area, a Shanhaikwan dispatch said Japanese soldiers were sent to aid the Manchukuans.

On that front, the Chinese claimed they had recaptured Shihmenchai, lost April 1, and Shanhaikwan, taken January 3 by the Japanese, was reported threatened.

Penn Ave. Man Dies From Auto Injuries

Jack Gifford, 30, of 5648 Penn avenue, died yesterday in St. John's hospital from injuries suffered when his automobile crashed with a Woods Run street car in Beaver avenue, Saturday morning, according to a police report.

Rita Lunn, 8, of 431 McManus street, was injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile near her home, driven by Charles Brudin, of 43 West Francis street, Brentwood, according to a police report.

Cash, Rings Vanish; Guest Under Arrest

A short time after Joseph Rebovich, 18, of 529 Carson street, left for his home after visiting at the home of Metro Wasylik, at 511 Carson street, Metro discovered $150 in cash and two rings missing.

Rebovich, arrested on complaint of Wasylik, was charged with being a suspicious person. He was to receive a hearing in Morals Court today.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

Now for a little fraction work. It's Cipher No. 82 submitted by Edwin C. Horne, of 6632 Northumberland street. This isn't as easy as the last two, so watch your step. If you know your fractions it should be easy.

Well, if this cipher proves too hard for you be sure to get the tip in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph. You shouldn't fail with the aid of a tip. Get started and see what you can accomplish without any help.

Drop the Cipher Editor a post card and tell him how you enjoy this new game.

Did you have any trouble with Cipher No. 81? It wasn't, so tough.

FIRST COUNCIL CANDIDATE

"Anti-Coyne, anti-Coyneism and a Public Office is Still a Public Trust."

Bailey will speak Tuesday night in the Morningside public school auditorium, Jancey and Greenwood streets. He says:

Automobile Crash Victim Unconscious

B. F. McMillen, 55, of Derry, Pa., is unconscious in the McKeesport Hospital from injuries suffered last night near Irwin, when a car driven by his nephew, Fred Machey, was sideswiped and upset.

An X-ray examination to determine the extent of his injuries was to be made today.

Takes Poison in Front Of Girl's Home; Lives

Albert Podupsky, of 854 Cherry way, Braddock, was reported today to have recovered from the effects of poison police said he swallowed last night in front of the home of a girl he had been visiting. He was attended at the Homestead Hospital and returned home, police said.

MINE STRIKE CONTINUES

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., April 10.—Picket lines around two mines of the Carnegie Coal Company were reported to have completely shut down one and decreased working operations at the other today. There was no disorder.

At the Atlasburg Mine of the Carnegie Coal Company, four miles from here, strike leaders said 100 of the 250 employed there stayed out this morning. There were 38 pickets at this mine.

Five miles away, at the Cedar Grove Mine of the same company, leaders stated that the 300 miners, who walked out last Tuesday, have not reentered the mine despite an attempt of the company to function Saturday and this morning. There are 75 pickets established at this mine. A picket line of 75 at the Tyler mine of the Washington Gas Coal Company was broken today by Sheriff J. A. Seaman.

HOME BOMBED IN STRIKE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 10.—After the bombing of one home and the stoning of two other employes' homes today, Supt. E. A. Hibler, of the Richmond Radiator Company, called upon county officers to stop a reign of terror. All the buildings attacked were occupied by employes who remained at work in the enamel plant despite the strike of one-third of the men.

The home of George Selong, in the rear and adjoining the main building, was torn by a bomb at 5 a. m. Every window in the house was blown out and four members of Lelong's family hurled from their beds. Windows of other homes in the neighborhood were shattered.

Immediately after the bombing and stoning Superintendent Hibler of the radiator works conferred with the district attorney, to stop what he said was the beginning of a reign of terror. A hundred employes of the plant have been on strike for two weeks.

Do as your dentist does...
when he cleans your teeth

Powder Cleans and Whitens Teeth—as nothing else can Outlasts Toothpaste 2 to 1

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder IS ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dull Teeth Become White

For over SIXTY YEARS—dentists everywhere have prescribed Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

It cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Dr. Lyon's is the only dentifrice old enough to prove it can be safely used for life. Free from all grit or pumice, it cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel, as years of constant use have shown.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Lasts Longer—Costs Less

Once you use Dr. Lyon's you will never be satisfied to use anything else. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

MISS C. H. DEAN, EDUCATOR, DIES

An ardent desire of one of Pittsburgh's best-known woman educators to write an English textbook was cut short today with her death. She is Miss Cecil H. Dean, of 219 Blackstone road.

At the time of her death she was a member of the administrative board of the public schools. She was preparing a book on "How to teach English."

Miss Dean was born in Braddock and has been a lifelong resident of the Pittsburgh district. She was a graduate of Geneva College, Wellesley College, the Sorbonne in Paris, Columbia University and the University of Pittsburgh. Miss Dean was awarded the H. C. Frick Foundation prize of $500 in 1927.

She was a member of the Wellesley Club, the College Club, the women's administrative organization of the public schools and the Third United Presbyterian Church.

Urge to Travel Lands 4 Boys In Cells

As they went for a walk in Johnstown, Pa., yesterday, they were seized with the wanderlust. Climbing aboard a freight car, intending to alight at Blairsville, they were carried to Sharpsburg, and eventually made their way to the police station.

They said they are Frank Daku, 12; Joseph Grasso, 14; Browny Chimik, 15, and Louis Daroczy, 13, all schoolboys. They were held pending a report from Johnstown detectives.

EAGLE LOTTERY APPEALS LOST

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed the conviction of Conrad H. Mann, Frank E. Hering and Bernard C. McGuire on the conspiracy charge in the Eagles lottery case. Conviction on substantive charge, shipment of lottery tickets in interstate commerce, was reversed.

Assistant United States Attorney Louis Mead Treadwell said that the three men would not be again brought to trial. Reversal of the conviction on the substantive charge will make no difference in the sentence of Hering, and will operate only to reduce the fines of Mann and McGuire from $11,000 to $10,000.

Prison sentences—a year and a day for McGuire, five months for Mann and four months for Hering—will stand unchanged.

It Will Pay You to Read This One

THE other day a friend gave my wife a recipe for a new Frozen Orange Pudding. We had it last night for dessert.

"This is something new," I said. "Where did you get it?"

"Mae gave me the recipe yesterday. She clipped it from an advertisement."

My wife didn't read that advertisement. If her friend hadn't read it, what a treat we would have missed.

Do you read the advertisements? It will pay you many times over to do so. From them you may learn about all sorts of new things. New foods, new ways to use them, new recipes that will add variety to the daily menu.

Right in the advertisements in this paper there are countless things to interest you, to save you money, to bring you the most value for what you spend. And now, as a reward for reading this advertisement, here is the recipe that inspired it.

Recipe for Frozen Orange Pudding

Ingredients: 2 egg yolks (beaten); 1 cup orange juice; 1 cup cream (light cream or top milk will do); 4 teaspoonfuls flour; 1/8 teaspoonful salt; 1/3 cup sugar; 1 teaspoonful grated orange rind.

Blend thoroughly egg yolks, sugar, flour, salt, and add orange juice and cream. Put in double boiler until thick. Add orange rind, cool and pour into freezing tray of refrigerator—or three or four hours on ice. When ready to serve, top each dish with meringue made by beating two egg whites stiff and adding 1/4 cup sugar. Garnish with orange segments.

ized hotels and restaurant proprietors were warned of what would happen to them and their establishments if they bought Federal liquor.

The most dastardly outrage took place in Chicago on New Year's Eve. Two night watchmen of a Government store just outside the Loop, attracted by the music and gayety in the adjoining dance hall, had opened the ground floor window of the salesroom and were resting their elbows on the sill while they watched young men and their girls arrive for the carnival next door. The icy air was full of friendly shouts, of laughter and good-humored backchat.

A light grey touring car drew up at the end of the queue of other machines discharging passengers at the hall. Its driver was dressed as a pierrot and the other occupants, all men, wore some sort of fancy dress.

The gray car slowly advanced until it was opposite the window out of which the watchmen leaned. Swiftly, efficiently, two automatics fired together. Both watchmen crumpled up like lifeless dummnes.

Screams of naked terror took the place of laughter at the entrance of the dance hall. Two other cars full of armed men swung up to the scene. With the precision of a rehearsed plan, the people in the waiting cars and on the sidewalk were herded into the lobby of the hall.

The atmosphere had grown oppressive despite the coldness of the night outside. Some of the windows high above the street were opened. What was that smell? Smoke? A dull glow outside and a crackling sound. God in Heaven! FIRE!

The Federal liquor store next door, with its huge stock of inflammable material, was blazing wildly. The flames lapped the dance hall. Less than a hundred people escaped by the emergency stairs before the rear exits were a fiery fury. Inside the building—pandemonium. The front stairway down to the lobby was choked with a wild struggling mass. Men and girls fought each other like frenzied animals, choking with smoke, trampling the living and dead underfoot into the writhing barrier of lost souls pinned against the double locked doors.

Heavy Loss of Life

When the Fire Department finally hacked open the doors, charred bodies literally rolled out into the street. Nearly 200 young Chicagoans lost their lives that night.

The horror of the holocaust, coupled with the fact that it occurred on New Year's Eve, sent a wave of revulsion throughout the country. For two days it was a national sensation. Then a new and even more shocking vent galvanized the anger and humiliation of the people and their President into action against these malevolent assassins of the underworld.

* * *

Pendie's mother, Vanya, had died before Judson Hammond's election to the Presidency. Without the strong mind and sharp tongue of his wife to check him, Desmond Malloy quickly succumbed to the corrosive acids which he made himself believe were whisky.

Vanya Malloy had contrived (God knows how) to acquire a little property in real estate. This ultimately was to come to Pendie, but her husband had the income during his brief widowerhood and on his death it was to be used, at Pendie's direction, to help Olga Lipchinski, her mother's sister, who lived in New York.

Aunt Is Puzzled

Olga Lipchinski lacked the hard practical acumen which had contributed to her sister's modest success in life. Her husband had been killed in the war. By way of a livelihood she ran a middle-class boarding house on the East Side. She had brought up three daughters, two of whom were married—one to a hardworking young Polack farmer out on Long Island and the other to a rather weedy department store clerk out of work.

Pendie was fond of her Aunt and it had become a habit with her to visit her around New Year's Day and give her an instalment of her money together with a gift or two.

Pendie, while staying in New York with Peale's mother, had been combining a short holiday with house-hunting, for she was to be married in the Spring. Peale had been with her over New Year's but had left early the following morning for Los Angeles. Thus it was that Pendie was a day late in paying her aunt her annual visit.

On this occasion it was a very worried Aunt Olga who greeted her. Things were "sitting pretty" with herself but she had only just returned from seeing Fenya, the daughter married to "that no-account bum," meaning Art Rogers, the store clerk. Fenya had just given birth to her third baby despite the fact that her husband had not done a day's work in the last two years.

It was not the poverty of the Rogers' home that was upsetting her, but the exact opposite. Art Rogers had found a way to make money, but how, nobody, not even his wife, quite new.

From a mean flat in the Bronx on which the rent was long overdue to a comfortable home of his own in the hill section of Jersey City, seemed to his mother-in-law as miraculous as a tale from the "Arabian Nights." But if Art had discovered Aladdin's lamp he ran no risk of its secret being stolen by his female relations.

The chance of cuddling a new baby added persuasion to the plea of Fenya's mother that Pendie visit her cousin and try to solve the mystery surrounding her husband's spectacular rise.

With the Lindsey limousine at her disposal, Pendie was driven under the Hudson River to Jersey City where, after considerable searching, she found the Rogers' house.

Instead of the mansion described by overwrought Aunt Olga, it turned out to be a plain wooden bungalow, newly painted and standing in what in summer promised to be a pleasant garden.

It was already dusk when she stepped out of the car. With her consent the chauffeur drove off to get some gasoline, after promising to be back in half an hour.

Disturbing Story

Pendie found Fenya and her baby in their bedroom. Fenya was not yet well enough to be out of bed. Some sort of hired help had just departed. Art was expected any moment.

For the first five minutes the new baby monopolized the conversation. The other children were asleep in a second bedroom. Pendie glanced around furtively at the extraordinary furnishing. Everything was new from the satinwood twin beds to an enormous red lacquer wardrobe.

"What a lovely room," said Pendie.

"Yes," Fenya answered, "it's nice, isn't it? And there's nothing that's not paid for. No installment plan for Art and me." Pendie smiled approval at her naive pride. Fenya went on to extol the virtues of some of her special treasures, to give the cost of each article and to describe the ill-concealed envy of her neighbors and friends at her beautiful home. When she finished, Pendie said: "But it must have been terribly expensive. Has Art come into money?"

As if Fenya had been hit in the face, the look of pleasurable self-satisfaction vanished and in her eyes rose stark fear. Her hand trembled violently and suddenly she lay back and shook with sobs. After a while Pendie got her calmed and was rewarded with a disturbing story.

Not that Fenya knew much, poor thing. Art had suddenly announced he had got a job, a good job, working over in Brooklyn as a chauffeur. That was funny because he knew hardly a thing about automobiles. His employment meant much night work but the pay was good. But since they had moved to Jersey City he had changed. He had grown morose and had long fits of silence. He was nervous and jumpy and sometimes even rough with her. He never came home by daylight now and she knew he carried a gun.

BILL'S LAST CHANCE TO EARN BONUS

A MANAGER WHO will have something more at stake financially than the average major league pilot in the season now only two days away is Bill McKechnie. The campaign of 1933 will round out McKechnie's four-year contract as skipper of the Boston Braves and brings his last chance to win the bonus of $5,000 which Judge Emil Fuchs promised to give him if he landed the club in the first division in any of the four seasons. The Braves were sixth in 1930, seventh in 1931, and last year Bill missed fourth place and $5,000 extra by only a single game, or a meager six percentage points. He now gets his last shot at the goal and the prize money.

Bill McKechnie

It cannot be said that McKechnie has not done a lot of tearing down and rebuilding in his efforts to give Boston a winner. Of the 42 players who reported to the Wilkinsburg man in his first year as boss of the Braves training camp, only six remain on the roster, these being Rabbit Maranville, Ed Brandt, Ben Cantwell, Al Spohrer, Harry Seibold and Earl Clark.

COACH CY PERKINS thinks the plan to make Lefty Gomez an even more successful pitcher than in the past by keeping him from wasting nervous energy when not pitching is going to be successful. Perkins observes that the Yankee southpaw needs all the rest he can get because he pitches many more balls than the average hurler.

That is because an extraordinary number of fouls are hit against Gomez, due to the hop that he puts on the sphere. The average pitcher is hit, and the fielders catch the ball. But the batters can't time Lefty's pitches. They keep fouling them off, and that takes something out of him in the course of a game.

DIZZY DEAN makes another prediction for himself as the season nears. He says he's going to strike out 200 batters. And as he fanned 191 last year to lead both big leagues, he must be conceded a chance.

In a game against the Cubs, Dean came within one of equaling the major league record of seven consecutive whiffs, held by John Clarkson, George Wiltse and Dazzy Vance. He fanned English, Cuyler, Stephenson, Moore, Grimm and Hemsley in a row.

DUSTER MAILS, with Kansas City last year, declares he'd still be in the majors but for an injury to his arm while with the Cardinals on the training trip of 1925. After that, he says, the going became so tough that if anybody now asks him to name the hardest batters he ever faced he just tells them to find out how many there were in the National League at that time, and that's the total. Duster remarks that he has been shifted around so many times since that all the train conductors know him at sight and think he's a spy. They asked Mails to umpire an exhibition game the other day, but he struck a disdainful pose and barked: "Me umpire? I should say not. Plenty of time for that when I go entirely blind." Duster also has a new definition of a parasite. It's the guy that goes through the revolving doors behind you on your push.

Freddie Sington

UNCLE WILBERT ROBINSON, now running the Atlanta club in the Southern Association, hopes to send up to the majors some time in the future the biggest outfielder in baseball. The giant fly-chaser is Freddie Sington, former all-America football player at the University of Alabama, who played for Beckley last year and led the Middle Atlantic League in hitting.

Sington, 23 years old, weighs 220 pounds in condition. Only Babe Ruth in the major outfields approaches him in size. Robbie pronounces Sington the fastest outfielder for his weight he ever has seen. Freddie is a good fielder and has a strong throwing arm. He hit .368 in 102 games for Beckley.

SOME FUNNY THINGS have happened in track sports or in connection with them, as is brought out when writers who have been covering such events for years get together and exchange stories.

At one of these gatherings, Jess Abramson, a New York scribe, took the prize when he recalled having gone to interview the winner of the Boston marathon and found that worthy gentleman standing in the shower bath with his wrist watch on and a cigar in his mouth.

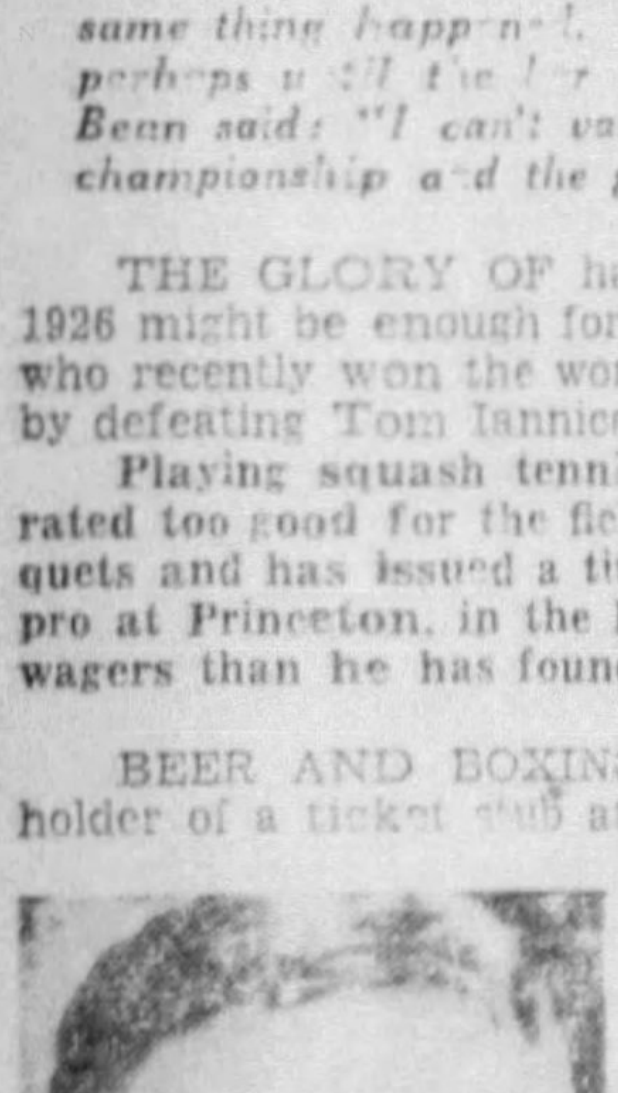
BUT BILL HENRY, Los Angeles veteran, doubts that there ever was anything funnier in a track meet than a pole-vaulting duel 20 years ago between Clarence Bean and George Johnson. Henry relates that they vaulted all the way from 9 feet up to somewhere near 12 feet 6 inches, which was going some in those days. Tying at that point, they tried again and both missed. It was getting late, and they were plenty tired, so they lowered the bar to 12 feet. Both missed. They lowered it again, and once more they missed. They let it down a few more notches and the same thing happened. It looked as if it might go on indefinitely, perhaps until the bar was lower than the original nine feet, so Bean said: "I can't vault any more. Let's run 50 yards for the championship and the gold medal." And they did.

THE GLORY OF having been the king of squash tennis since 1926 might be enough for some players, but Frank Ward, the pro star who recently won the world open title for the eighth consecutive time by defeating Tom Iannicelli, would like to get some cash out of it.

Playing squash tennis, Ward can't pick up any side bets. He's rated too good for the field. So he has decided to invade squash racquets and has issued a title challenge to Champion Johnny Skillman, pro at Princeton, in the hope that he will be able to make more side wagers than he has found possible in his own game.

BEER AND BOXING have been paired in New York. Every holder of a ticket stub at a Ridgewood Grove Club show will be entitled to a glass of beer in return for it when it is presented at one of the two bars on the club premises.

There will be an intermission in the middle of each show to give the customers a chance to trade in their coupons. Another innovation starting this week at the same club, where Johnny Attell is matchmaker, will be the award of an order for a suit of clothes to the holder of the lucky number on the ticket coupon chosen by lot.



Charles S. Whitman

AN ANNOUNCEMENT IN New York society columns that Charles Seymour Whitman is engaged to marry Thelma Grosvenor, widow of Edwin C. Grosvenor, carries nothing out of the ordinary to many persons except the fact that Whitman is 64 years old, but to boxing fans it recalls one of the fight game's darkest tragedies outside the ring. For it was Whitman, Governor of New York from 1915 to 1919, who gave the first order that led to the barring of the late Les Darcy from American rings. After knocking out George Chip in nine rounds at Sydney, N. S. W., on September 30, 1916, a fight that was destined to be Darcey's last, the great Australian middleweight came to this country on an oil tanker and appeared to be headed for big money and the championship. But Whitman denounced him as a slacker and refused to let him fight in New York, the Governors of several other states followed his lead, and Darcy was hounded from pillar to post until he cracked under the antagonism and humiliation and died of a broken heart in Memphis on May 24, 1917.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

"Give a dog a bad name——"

It's hard to live down an unsavory reputation, but Andy DiVodi, New York welterweight, will try to do that when he meets Ted Yarosz, Pittsburgh's fistic pride, in the 10-round main bout in the Motor Square Garden ring tonight.

It has been several years since DiVodi, an Italian, made two appearances in these parts. One was against Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, and he was awarded the decision on a foul in an early round after going down from a terrific left hook to the body. That was in the days when the foul epidemic was rampant in the fight game. DiVodi came here with a reputation of being a persistent claimer of fouls, and, when he buckled under McTiernan's good sock to the body, there were many spectators who booed his action.

LOCAL BOUTS RECALLED

Carried from the ring to the dressing room, it was expected DiVodi would come back after a rest and finish the bout, but he refused. A month later he returned and this time won a foul over Dick Ramies in five rounds. Tonight he is back to prove that he is as game as they come by meeting the best we have to offer, a young man who has lost only one fight in 64 professional starts and even now is tentatively matched to box Lou Brouillard, former welterweight champion, in Boston, next Monday night.

There is no doubting DiVodi's class and punch. The only question is whether or not he can "take it." If he stands up and gives Teddy a battle tonight, there will be a lot of future work for him here, in one of the garden sports of the sports.

MARCUS MEETS DUARRY

It's a case of make or break for Joey Marcus, Braddock lightweight, in the eight-round semi-final of tonight's show. He's in with Edouardo Duarry, Cuban puncher, who stopped Marty McHale in a single round in the same ring last Monday night. Marcus has been having trouble getting matches here, not because he doesn't have oodles of ability, but because he generally messes up his opponents and keeps them from fighting their fight. He's been in with all of the tough ones, and he uses his head to make them miss, while he uses the ring to outgeneral them and spring surprise attacks.

If Marcus beats the dangerous Duarry, the fans should have little, if any, cause for complaint. Joey may not be the showiest of ring performers, but at least he is willing to fight anybody and always gives his best. He is liable to beat the topliners any time. His trouble has been that he always has been on the dividing line between being a hero and a bum. One of these nights he may de-

PIRATE PILOT'S CHOICE PROVES SURPRISE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 10.—Bill Swift will pitch for the Pirates against the Reds in the opening game of the season Wednesday, Manager George Gibson, of the Pittsburgh Club, announced this morning.

Bill Swift

Gibson surprised many of the squad with the announcement on Swift. Up to yesterday, Larry French was regarded as the hurler for the inaugural. French and Swift divided a game in Oklahoma City on Friday. Both were impressive, but French pitched first and was picked generally to face the Reds. Gibby said this morning he could not make up his mind before he made the announcement.

Earl Grace will catch if the Reds use a righthander on the slab. Gibson said he would switch to Hal Finney if Rixey faces the Buccos.

MEET COLONELS TODAY

The Bucs are to meet the Louisville Colonels, of the American Association, here today, and then continue on to Cincinnati, where they are scheduled to arrive tonight.

Before departing from Kansas City, the Pirates hung a 6-to-5 defeat on Tris Speaker's nine. The Pittsburghers were trailing by a run when the ninth opened, but Pie Traynor's understudy, Bill Brubaker, once more came through with a timely hit at the start of the round and Vaughan and Piet supplied a double and a single to cop the verdict.

Remy Kremer and Hal Smith worked on the slab for the Pirates. Duster Mails opposed the Buccos through five rounds. About 2,500 fans saw the game.

The citizens of Louisville have a warm spot in their hearts for Honus Wagner, whose major league career started in this city, July 19, 1897.

Chilly Sauce

The Louisville Round Table, an organization composed of 22 civic and luncheon clubs, wired Honus a cordial invitation to be their guest at a luncheon today. Honus accepted.

The attendance at the Kansas City games was disappointing, but baseball has been at a low ebb there for several years. Seven or eight years ago, the town was one of the best baseball cities in the country, but inferior clubs worked against the common interest.

Tris Speaker seems serious in his efforts to build up the game. Tris made a smart move in landing Duster Mails. Mails is good for two hours of enjoyment every day and his didoes offer real entertainment.

Duster had a little run-in with the umpire yesterday. He objected to pitches that were called balls. Eventually he broke over a perfect strike to Remy Kremer who did not swing.

"Strike," shouted the umpire.

Thirteen years ago Mails did Speaker a few good turns. Duster stepped in and swayed the pennant to the Cleveland Indians and followed through in the world series with a victory in which he allowed the Dodgers only two hits.

Mails looks as well as ever, but the old swifter is not what it used to be.

DISTRICT PROS MEET TONIGHT

Members of the Tri-State Professional Golfers' Association will hold their annual meeting and banquet this evening at the Hotel William Penn at 6:30 o'clock.

President Fred Brand, of the Allegheny Country Club, will preside, and, since the organization rarely, if ever, changes its officials, there is every reason to feel that the Allegheny veteran will remain in command for the coming season.

Dave McKay, popular little professional at the Pittsburgh Field Club, is the reigning secretary-treasurer, and likely will continue in that capacity.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Jack Dempsey's hilarious talk before the professors of Columbia University recalls the story of the college professor who asked Dempsey in the latter's heyday if he thought it was equitable for a heavyweight champion of boxing to earn a million dollars in a single fight while a college professor, with years of study behind him, has to struggle on with a niggardly salary . . . Dempsey's reply was a classic . . . "Are you the greatest man in your line in the world?" he asked . . . The reply was in the negative . . . "Well, I'm supposed to be the best in mine," said Dempsey. "When you get to be the best in your line, you, too, may be worth a million dollars a night."

St. Vincent College will have a baseball team again this year, although the sport doesn't pay for itself . . . However, good baseball teams are a tradition at the Catholic institution, whose first sport, years ago, was baseball, and the sentimental attachment remains . . . Virtually all of the other colleges in the district have eliminated the National Pastime from their sport calendars because of the

DORMONT SETS GRID CARD

The Dormonters will open their campaign September 15, meeting Mt. Lebanon, and will take on Carnegie in the final contest November 10. One open date, November 3, remains to be filled, but this date may be kept permanently open. The schedule follows:

September 15, Mt. Lebanon, at home; September 22, Langley, abroad; September 29, Bellevue, abroad; October 6, Carrick, home; October 13, Crafton, home; October 20, Avalon, abroad; October 27, McKees Rocks, abroad; November 3, open; November 10, Carnegie, home.

PIRATE "OLD GUARD" TOGETHER AGAIN

HONUS WAGNER FRED CLARKE MANAGER GEORGE GIBSON PRESIDENT W. E. BENSWANGER

A real oldtime get-together was enjoyed by the Pirates when Fred Clarke, longtime manager of the locals, as well as outfield star, visited his old club during its stop in Oklahoma City en route to Cincinnati from California for the opening of the season on Wednesday. Wagner, now coach, was the star shortstop of baseball and Hack Gibson, now manager, was the iron man catcher of the Pirates in Clarke's time, and all three were favorites with the fans throughout the National League circuit.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

WASHINGTON, April 10.—I don't know who arranged the spring schedule for our Washton club, but he certainly put the bee on us. The last 10 days we've been playing Birmingham, Boston, Brooklyn, Buffalo and Baltimore. It would be a relief to play Zanesville or Ypsilanti just for the change.

Nick Altrock

Well, the regular season opens Wednesday, and if President Roosevelt ain't too busy making the Congressmen jump through hoops, roll over and other dog tricks, he is coming up to throw out the first ball. We got a lot of wild pitches from Mr. Hoover the different times he opened up our season. That may be one of the reasons he was farmed out to Palo Alto to polish up his control.

I don't know how the Roosevelt administration shapes up as a first-ball-thrower-out. But Franklin D. has certainly got a lot of practice lately tossing Republican postmasters out.

M'KNIGHTS DEFEAT DETROIT, 2-1, IN SOCCER SEMI-FINAL

RAMBLERS FALL BEFORE DRIVE OF LOCALS

By TOM BIRKS

Playing a hustling game on a heavy and bumpy field, the Pittsburgh McKnights, star junior soccer club, won the right to represent the West in the final of the National amateur cup competition by defeating the Detroit Ramblers, 2 to 1, before a large crowd at Greenlee Field yesterday afternoon.

The McKnights now will meet the Philadelphia German-American soccer club Saturday, April 22, in the final round, the Philadelphia club having won the eastern eliminations.

The McKnights are the fifth Pittsburgh club to represent the West in the grand final. Heidelberg earned the right three times and Gallatin once. A Philadelphia club, the Fleisher Yarn, won the trophy in 1924, the first year of the competition, but the Quaker City has not been represented in the final since that time.

DESERVED VICTORY

The McKnights won yesterday because they played the type of soccer that pays dividends on heavy fields. There was nothing scientific about the game, and generally it was a poor exhibition of soccer, but the McKnights deserved to win.

The bustling methods accounted for the first goal after 20 minutes of play. Neilson, the Rambler fullback, made a faulty clearance, and Brown and Marovitch smashed their way through. With Goalie Russell on the ground, the ball went into the net.

The score did not help Detroit. Kuten and Bobish, the young McKnight fullback, held the famous Rambler attack and 20 minutes later as Clark and Minendez could not make up their mind who should clear the goal, Steve Cutton slipped through and scored.

RAMBLERS MISS CHANCE

Three minutes later the Ramblers had the best opportunity of the game, a miss-kick by Linard let in Harker. He smashed a shot straight for goal, but Sedick cleared brilliantly.

Detroit dominated more of the play in the second half, but the forward line was lost when Bobish and Cutten were reached.

With one minute to go Detroit put on pressure, and on a free kick, Drummond scored. Drummond had replaced Minendez in the Detroit lineup just before the free kick was awarded.

The Ramblers showed little in the way of aggressive soccer. For the McKnights, Sedick made some nice saves, Bobish and Cuten were a great pair of backs and Resavage, Cutten and Marovitch looked good. The lineup:

M'KNIGHTS—2.	Pos.	DETROIT—1.
Sedick	G.	Russell
Kuten	R.B.	Clark
Bobish	L.B.	Neilson
Resavage	R.H.	Hughes
Linard	C.H.	Minendez

Brown	O.R.	McNab
Kevish	I.R.	McGowan
Cutten	C.	Harker
Marovitch	I.L.	Clark
Kevish	O.L.	Hay

Goals—Marovitch, Cutten and Drummond. Substitutes—Drummond for Minendez; Matthews for Resavage. Referee—Curry, Cleveland.

M.-A. CIRCUIT OPENING FRAYS ANNOUNCED

WHEELING, W. Va., April 10.—(AP.)—Commodores of the Middle Atlantic baseball fleet have further charted the summer course for their eight clubs.

Club owners, representing the eight Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio cities composing the circuit formally named managers for six of the teams yesterday.

A tentative playing schedule was worked out, but only the opening dates were announced last night.

The curtain raiser is carded for May 3, with Springfield playing at Dayton. Operations will start on the entire front the following day, Johnstown engaging Wheeling at the latter city. Charleston will play Beckley, and Huntington at Zanesville.

President Elmer Daily explained that the complete schedule will be released later this week.

A 140-game schedule to be played in 128 meetings is expected to be worked out by the schedule maker.

The salary limit for the league has been reduced to $1,800 a month and the player limit remains at 15. Each club, however, must use at least six non-class players whose names do not appear in any baseball annual.

Transportation will be by bus, which the clubs will purchase or lease.

The following managers have been appointed: Watt Powell, Charleston; Jack Sheehan, Wheeling; Duckey Holmes, Dayton; Johnny Walker, Zanesville; Johnny Stuary, Huntington, and Eli Harris, Beckley.

Springfield and Johnstown will name their managers later.

Three Local Boys Win State Letters

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 10.—Three Pittsburghers were among the members of the State College boxing squad to receive letters. The winners follow:

Capt. Johnny McAndrews and Monroe L. Kessler, Scranton; John R. Napoleon, Thomas A. Slusser and Paul E. Ferrero, Pittsburgh; Frank Nebel, Philadelphia; Alex Turnbull, Carbondale; John L. Miller, McDonald, and Michael Zeleznock, Hazleton. Edward S. Malmed, Chester, student manager, also will receive the regulation award.

Dawson Captures Midwest Amateur

FRENCH LICK, Ind., April 10.—(AP.)—George Dawson, of Chicago, out-distanced the field in winning the Midwest amateur golf tournament here yesterday with a 54-hole total of 220.

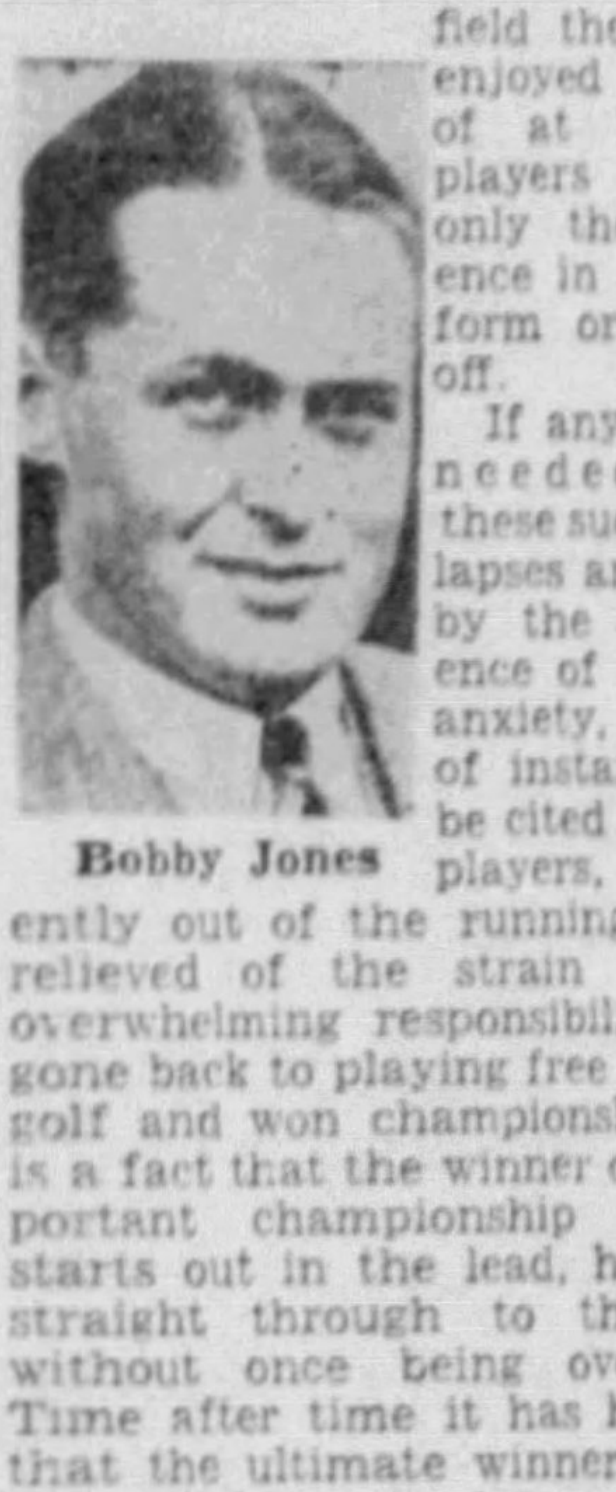
The Chicagoan added a 38-36—74, two over par to his 36-hole score of 146 and ended the three-day tournament with an 11-stroke lead over the veteran Chick Evans, of Chicago.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year.

This letter from D. A. Brauner, asking me to explain sudden blow-ups of really fine golfers under the strain of competition, brings up several angles on the tournament side of the game which may be interesting. In seeking an explanation of the startling things which happen, one must appreciate that golf is a game requiring perfect co-ordination between mind and muscle—at least to the extent that a harrassed mind will not prevent the muscles from performing according to long established habit—and that in any field the margin enjoyed by any of at least 10 players can be only the difference in being on form or slightly off.



Bobby Jones

If any proof is needed that these sudden collapses are caused by the interference of fear and anxiety, numbers of instances can be cited in which players, apparently out of the running and so relieved of the strain and the overwhelming responsibility, have gone back to playing free and easy golf and won championships. It is a fact that the winner of an important championship rarely starts out in the lead, holding it straight through to the finish without once being overhauled. Time after time it has happened that the ultimate winner has begun his last round two, three or four strokes behind the leader, and often playing early and almost unattended has posted a low finishing round and a total score which the others could shoot at in vain.

A STRIKING EXAMPLE

One of the most striking examples of the effect of the sudden relief which can come with disaster was furnished by Al Espinosa in the same Winged Foot championship where I had one of my shocks. Al and I finished with the same 72-hole totals, but we compiled it in vastly different ways.

As I have said, I started the last round with a lead, and the two 7s which hit me on the eighth and fifteenth holes never were enough to put me so far down that I could be counted out. They just kept me in hot water. But Al started with a deficit to make up, and his play for 10 holes, though not good enough to make up much ground, was yet sufficiently good to keep him up at the front where he could feel the pressure. Then the thing blew up all at once and he took an 8 on the eleventh hole. Of course, everybody, including Al, knew that was the finishing touch. He was the first of the leaders to come around, so he had no idea that the rest of us would have as much trouble as we did.. Already a few strokes behind, he had dropped four more on one hole, and so, with only a few holes left, he was definitely out.

ESPINOSA'S COMEBACK

And so he would have been if he had played par golf on the remaining holes. But the 8 which would have come close to paralyzing him if he had held a lead of two or three strokes was a relief for him in his actual position. With no thought now of winning, he started out to play golf, to hit the ball freely and in the old accustomed way. Four 4s and two 3s, two under par over six really tough finishing holes, and he had a score which landed him in a tie for the championship.

One newspaper writer said that this tournament was a contest to see who could throw away the championship the greatest number of times. It did look that way, but every championship is like that to some extent. Over the long stretch, after the race really has settled down, the burden continually shifts from one man to another.

MAJOR LEAGUE PILOTS READY

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The enthusiasm with which big league pilots approach the start of the 1933 pennant races was reflected today by the fact that no less than seven managers, including four in the National and three in the American League, figure they have a real chance to bring the flag-winner home in front.

Bill Kellefer, sagacious leader of the St. Louis Browns, is the only one willing to name the winner. He picks the Yankees to repeat in the American League.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Charley Grimm, Cubs—"We'll repeat. Our club is perfectly conditioned and Frank Demaree will give us a great replacement for Cuyler."

George Gibson, Pirates—"I dislike pennant talk, but I am well satisfied. Our club has strength in every position and some of the boys have shown up even better than we hoped. I think we will go places."

Burt Shotton, Phillies—"My team has improved sufficiently to win the pennant. Our young players have gained valuable experience and have the stuff."

Gabby Street, Cardinals—"We do not concede any team in the league a better chance to win the pennant. Everybody concedes we have the greatest pitching staff in either league."

Max Carey, Dodgers—"Brooklyn finished third last year and has improved, with three pitchers, Beck, Carroll and Benge, who will greatly strengthen the staff. With Judge and Bissonette available, we no longer have to worry about first base."

Bill Terry, Giants—"I still figure the Giants a first division club, even though Travis Jackson may not be able to play shortstop from the start. Ryan has come through in that spot beyond our expectations."

Bill McKechnie, Braves—"The Braves have a much stronger club. Hogan made our catching department. Wright and Gyselman promise to solve our infield problems and Ed Fallenstein is the pitching find of the season."

Donie Bush, Reds—"Everybody seems to think Chicago and Pittsburgh have an edge, but they are not so far away and the rest look about the same. It should be a good race, better than last year."

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Joe McCarthy, Yankees—"We have a strong club and face the season with plenty of confidence. However, when a club is on top every one of the others is trying to knock it down. The American League race will be anything but a joy ride. I think our toughest opposition will be the Senators."

Joe Cronin, Senators—"Washington, with its balance in all departments, is preparing to go into a more interesting race than we have had in years."

Connie Mack, Athletics—"We have a good chance to win the pennant. I like this ball club and would not trade for any other in the league."

Billy Evans, Indians—"I think Cleveland is the most improved club in the league. We figure strong enough to be in the first division throughout, and that gives us a chance to go places."

Bucky Harris, Tigers—"The Tigers are stronger than at any time I have been with the club, perhaps 10 or 12 games better than last year. We have made some real replacements and should be among the first four at the finish."

Bill Kellefer, Browns—"I am confident I have a better club and that it will finish higher, but the Yankees have the best chance for the pennant."

Lew Fonseca, White Sox—"If our pitching comes through, Chicago will be a first division club. Our scoring power is tremendously increased with Simmons, Haas and Dykes."

Marty McManus, Red Sox—"We will start with stronger pitching and much greater batting strength. I am optimistic about our prospects."

overhead of guarantees to visiting teams and slim gate receipts.

Wonder how Hitler feels about Max Schmeling, a German, being managed by Joe Jacobs, a Jew, who piloted him to the world heavyweight championship, the first time a German has won that honor?

You'll have to pardon us if we fail to become aroused over the wrestling drama which was unfolded in the Chicago Stadium, Friday night, when Joe Savoldi won a fall over Jim Londos, as a result of which he lays claim to the heavyweight championship . . . Maybe it was on the level, maybe it was a come-on for a return bout . . . Maybe it was all a mistake . . . Whatever it was, there is little reason why the sports followers should become exercised on behalf of Londos . . . The bout was advertised as being for the world championship . . . When it was over, Londos' manager denied the title had been at stake for two reasons, one being that all bouts in Illinois are recognized as mere exhibitions and the other that all championships must be decided on a two-out-of-three falls basis . . . If these contentions are true, the Illinois Athletic Commission was negligent in permitting the bout to be palmed off on the public as a championship affair . . . There is little it can do now but to recognize Savoldi as the champion and take steps to prevent a recurrence of such a mess . . . Not until athletic commissions realize that their first duty is to protect the public will John J. Sapolinus get a fair break for the money he pays at the box office, and there never yet has been a better remedy than to lock the stable BEFORE the horse is stolen.

How often have you heard the boxing fans razz a referee because he takes time out to wipe off the gloves of a boxer who has been knocked down to remove the resin therefrom? . . . Scenting the "kill," they are impatient over the few moments required and do not want the stricken man to recover before his opponent can hit him again . . . Let these wolves, sitting at ease out of the danger zone, consider the sad plight of little Black Bill, once formidable flyweight championship contender, who put a gun to his abdomen and tried to kill himself because of blindness brought on from resin that got into his eyes from the glove of an opponent he had knocked down in a bout in Cuba a few years ago . . . Let them ponder his case, and then let them bray on, if it's their nature to do so.—HARRY KECK.

KENTUCKY FIVE A. B. C. CHAMP

COLUMBUS, O., April 10.—(AP.)—Flaig's Opticians, of Covington, Ky., today were assured the 1933 team championship of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Fifty-six teams, last of the 1,597 five-man squads to roll in the tourney, last night failed to better the Flaig's 3,021 score, made a week ago.

The Kentuckians won $1,000 and five diamond medals.

Only one change was recorded among the minor event leaders today. Everett Scott, who holds the record for playing in consecutive baseball games, totaled 1,957 for nine games to take third place in the all-events. The leaders follow:

NATIONAL TITLES DECIDED

T. Gomolski, of Chicago, was the winner of the annual Knights of Columbus National bowling tournament completed in Chicago last night. At Indianapolis, D. Johnson, of that city, won the National Elks' tournament.

Between Rounds

Johnny Pena, who boxes Jackie Wilson, conqueror of Tommy Paul, at the Arena Thursday night, holds a decision over Fidel La Barba, and was in the 15-round final round bout of the N. B. A. featherweight elimination tournament with Paul. He has beaten Archie Bell twice. He is a club fighter who has thrilled the fans in many cities. Jimmy Thomas meets Pete De-Grasse, to whom he recently lost in Montreal, and Mose Butch takes on Johnny Hinds, New York National Guard champion, in two other 10-rounders at the Arena. Dominick Mancini and Georgie Schlee complete the card with a six-rounder.

Buddy McArthur's two-round knockout victory over George Panka at Fairmont, W. Va., the other night ought to net him some work here. Buddy is the plugging, serious type, and never has made a bad fight here. He nailed Panka with a right and followed with a left to the jaw as big George went tumbling back from the punch. The bout lasted only 30 seconds of the second round, and Panka also was down twice in the first round.

That amateur show the Homewood-Brushton Boosters' Club is staging at Motor Square Garden tomorrow night will draw a large turnout, judging from the heavy advance sale of tickets. Fifteen bouts have been arranged, at least a dozen of which will be put on. The leading local simon-pures will participate.

WEST PA. NET GATHERING ON FOR TONIGHT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Tennis leaders of the West Penn district will meet in the annual conclave of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association at the P. A. A. at 8:15 o'clock this evening. With a host of momentous topics slated for discussion and decision, tonight's gathering looms among the most important in the history of the local raquet body.

Receipt of word Saturday night from Paul Gibbons, Middle States representative on the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, to the effect that Pittsburgh definitely has been awarded the 1934 national business meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. has set home officials already to work on tentative plans for the handling of the nation-wide tennis conference here next February. Appointment of a committee to collaborate with the Chamber of Commerce in caring for visitors is certain to be among this evening's features.

TO PICK TOURNEY SITE

Another point slated for earnest debate is that of selection of a site for the 1933 Western Pennsylvania championships. With several organizations listed among possible bidders for the classic, the likelihood of a shift from the Stanton Heights Golf Club, where the affair has been staged the past four years, appears by no means remote. Opinion, however, is divided on the subject of the change, there being strong sentiment among a sizable group in favor of re-awarding the tournament to the Stantonians this season, when refreshment concessions will offer the hospitable Heights outfit better opportunity than heretofore to realize a profit on the undertaking.

Admission of new clubs, including the noted Belmont Tennis Club of Jim Patin and Don Monjot, of Ingram, is likewise on the activity roster. It is probable, too, that the starting date of the P. T. A. Inter-club League campaign will be determined, with final draft of the competitive bill to be left to the mercies of the sanction and schedule committee.

The makeup of Section I, wherein Dr. Dave O'Loughlin's P. A. A. squad will strive to defend the Davis Keg, will remain unrevised, aside from the insertion of Rockwood in place of South Hills.

DAVIS REELECTION SET

Formal ratification of a generally tightened circuit playing code and the new P. T. A. constitution will also be in order, as will be election of association officers for the coming year.

President Davis, after three terms in office, has expressed reluctance to extend his tenure for another twelvemonth, but his regime has been universally rated so progressive, productive, and satisfactory and next summer and winter promise so many events vital to the prosperity of the game in this territory that it is virtually a foregone conclusion that his objection will be overruled and his retention of the executive chair enforced.

LOCKHART WINS TITLE

Charles Lockhart won the men's singles championship of the Pittsburgh Golf Club yesterday when he defeated P. A. Robinson in the final match of the tennis tournament, 6-2, 6-0, 7-5.

He paired with Howard Burgwin to take the doubles title by disposing of W. P. Snyder, Jr., and George C. Burgwin, Jr., 8-6, 6-4, 4-6, 1-6, 6-4.

The women's doubles championship went to Mrs. J. Rocketson and Mrs. Felix Snowden, who defeated Mrs. J. C. Hays and Mrs. W. P. Snyder, Jr., 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Basketball Rules Changes Are Few

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The playing code as revised last year has received tacit approval from the newly-organized National Basketball Rules Committee of the United States and Canada.

Several minor alterations made at the meeting of the committee here yesterday had to do largely with the clarification and simplification of the rules. The most important change included a decision to extend application of the famous "10-second rule" to courts of all sizes, instead of confining it to courts of 60 feet or more. Substitutes are to be permitted to reenter the game twice, instead of only once, as heretofore.

Parker Defeats Lott In Final

HOUSTON, Tex., April 10.—(AP.)—Frankie Parker, the 18-year-old tennis star from New Orleans, yesterday trounced the veteran George Lott, of Chicago, 7-5, 10-12, 6-2, 6-2, to win the Houston invitation singles championship and demonstrate conclusively he has reached man's estate in tennis.

A. B. C. Pin Leader Loses Appendix

ERIE, Pa., April 10.—(AP.)—Earl Hewitt, one of the leaders in the American Bowling Congress at Columbus, O., was rushed to a hospital last night for an appendicitis operation.

SPORT SHORTS

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen and James Kirkwood, famous pro golfers, yesterday defeated Fred G. Banherot, Jr., state amateur champion, and Dick Richardson, of Charleston, 2 up, in an 18-hole best ball exhibition match.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay—(AP.)—Argentine ran away with team honors in the South American athletic championships completed yesterday, scoring 145 points, against 54 for Chile, 36 for Uruguay and 31 for Brazil. The modified marathon was won by the Chilean, Manuel Plaza, in 1 hour 59 minutes 14 3-5 seconds.

VIENNA—(AP.)—Czechoslovakia defeated Austria, 2 to 1, in a closely contested international soccer match here yesterday. The first half was scoreless.

BUFFALO STAR SQUASH VICTOR

Jack Nitterauer, Buffalo A. C. ace, nosed out his agile teammate, Cy Polley, 11-15, 15-12, 15-14, in brilliant final contest of the inter-city bracket-of-eight elimination squash racquets tournament at the Keystone Athletic Club yesterday.

Harry Hawkins, third member of the Buffalo team, defaulted to Fagan. Hawkins, Buffalo handball champion, aggravated a recent knee injury in a friendly morning tussle with Theos Manos, district singles and doubles glove king.

The inaugural instalment of the P. A. A.-Keystone inter-club athletic carnival is carded for the K. A. C. clubhouse this afternoon and evening from 4:30 o'clock till 9:00. Squash racquets, handball, billiards, swimming, bowling, bridge, and indoor baseball tilts will be rounded off by dinner at 8:00 p. m. The second half of the affair will be held at the P. A. A. on Thursday, April 20.

Yesterday's summary:

First round—Cy Polley, Buffalo A. C., defeated Dr. David L. O'Loughlin, P. A. A., 17-16, 15-5; Charles A. Fagan, Jr., K. A. C., won from Harry Hawkins, Buffalo, A. C., by default; W. D. Bickel, K. A. C., defeated Joseph Oliver, Pittsburgh Golf Club, 15-9, 16-17, 15-10; Jack Nitterauer, Buffalo A. C., defeated C. J. Caspar, Jr., K. A. C., 15-13, 15-5.

Semi-final round—Polley defeated Fagan, 15-5, 15-10; Nitterauer defeated Bickel, 15-8, 15-17, 18-16.

HORNSBY LOST FOR OPENER

ST. LOUIS, April 10.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby, stormy figure of baseball, will be out of the St. Louis Cardinal lineup for the opener and for at least two weeks, Dr. Robert Hyland, club surgeon, said here last night.

An injury to his Achilles tendon has cropped up several times during the training period, but he thought he had conquered it until the first of the exhibition games in Florida.

Last Monday, Hornsby was sent to St. Louis and placed under the care of Dr. Hyland.

Hornsby said he first noticed the injury while he, George Sisler and Jack Ryan conducted in Hot Springs, Ark., in February.

Baseball Briefs

CHICAGO—(AP.)—Chicago's White Sox, out of baseball's doldrums with the best team in 10 years, are ready for anything now. They've beaten their Cub rivals for the spring city baseball championship, three games to one. The two great rivals broke even in their two exhibition battles at Los Angeles last month and renewed their series in Chicago. Saturday, the White Sox won, 1 to 0. Yesterday before a crowd of 18,000, they completed their triumph with a 12-to-6 victory.

CINCINNATI—(AP.)—The Cincinnati Reds faced St. Paul, of the American Association today in their final game of the exhibition season. Bob Smith and Keith Frazier were assigned to mound duty. Approximately 2,500 fans, the largest crowd of the year, saw the Reds defeat the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 4 yesterday in a 10-inning game.

CLEVELAND—(AP.)—Batting practice and plenty of it was the order for the Indians' first appearance of the season on their home stamping ground today. The way the Cincinati Reds trompled Cleveland 5 to 0 Saturday and 5 to 4 yesterday emphasized the need for development of an offensive punch before the Wednesday opener at Detroit.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP.)—Billy Sullivan, Jr., the Notre Dame schoolboy star, has made his peace with the White Sox and agreed to report for duty about May 30. Sullivan, one of the best looking youngsters to break in the American League in many years, refused to sign his 1933 contract unless he could escape the catching job that Manager Lou Fonseca was determined to give him. After a conference, the White Sox promised to use him elsewhere, and he said he would report as soon as his law classes at Notre Dame were over.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

RAILS TO AID WORLD FAIR VISITORS

NEW YORK, April 10.—The railroads of the entire country, according to an announcement made today by C. L. Hunter, chairman, passenger department, Trunk Line Association, have adopted a new low-rate plan for the convenience of visitors to Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition, whereby prospective visitors may purchase in advance and before leaving home, hotel accommodations in Chicago; transfer from the railroad station to hotel and back again; tickets of admission to the exposition, and a sightseeing tour of the city.

Everything but meals is included in this new plan, which combines the several advantages of lower prices to the visitors, of relieving them of any inconvenience in securing hotel accommodations and of enabling them to know, before they leave home, just what the trip will cost.

WIDE CHOICE

These "visits" to the Century of Progress will be sold at every railroad station in the United States. They will allow stays in Chicago from one day to five days or more. The prospective visitors will have a choice of 27 first-class hotels in Chicago from which to select accommodations.

These hotels are grouped according to their normal scale of prices: for a one-day "visit" the cost will range from $4.50 to $6.50, including taxi from railroad station to hotel; one night's lodging (single room); a souvenir Century of Progress admission ticket, and taxi from the hotel back to the railroad station. For a double room occupied by two persons, including the above additional services, the cost per person will range from $4 to $5.50. For a five-day visit, including taxi both ways between station and hotel; a tour of Chicago; three admission tickets to the Exposition and four nights' lodging, $14.75 to $22.75 for a single room, and from $12.75 to $18.75 per person for two occupants of a double room.

STAFF SUPPLIED

At every railroad station in Chicago special World's Fair departments will be installed, staffed by American Express travel men who will see that all incoming visitors secure their taxis to the hotels named on their coupons, receive their exposition tickets and whatever else they are entitled to. They will also provide information and, in general, serve as a Chicago reception committee.

This sale of complete "visits" to the Century of Progress is perhaps the most outstanding departure ever made, on a nationwide scale, from the standard railroad practice. This new plan is unique and promises to be one of the greatest co-operative movements ever fostered by the country's railroad systems. It is instituted in addition to the substantial reductions, previously announced, in railroad passenger fares between Chicago and all points.

Bellas Hess Sales Higher for Quarter

NEW YORK, April 10.—National Bellas Hess, Inc., reports gross sales of $1,490,631 for the first quarter of 1933, an increase of 25.2 per cent over volume in the last three months of 1932. The company began business last Oct. 1 as successor to the old mail order house, National Bellas Hess Co.

Morgan Gives Dime For Charity Ticket

NEW YORK—(INS.)—J. P. Morgan, noted banker, was stopped when he went to say bon voyage to a friend sailing for Europe. A special policeman told him to get a ticket for a seaman's charity before going on board the liner. Morgan paid a dime for the ticket.

The Latest Air-Conditioning Model

TO DISCUSS AIR CONDITIONING

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers will hold a discussion of air conditioning at a meeting at the William Penn Hotel tomorrow evening.

Problems confronting engineers will be discussed by Charles D. Graham, air conditioning engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. "Air Conditioning — America's Next Great Industry" is the subject of a talk to be given by W. C. Goodwin, division engineer of air conditioning equipment for the Westinghouse company.

An exhibit of the latest types of air conditioning apparatus will feature the meeting. Models for commercial installation will be exhibited.

Invitations to attend the meeting have been extended to members of various local organizations, among them the Heating and Ventilating Association, the American Institute of Architects, the Building Owners' and Managers' Association and Pittsburgh Business Men's Association.

SCHOOL ADDS TO STAFF

Dr. Elbert R. Moses, director of Pittsburgh School of Speech, has added to his activities by becoming a member of Pittsburgh School of Accountancy's faculty.

Since associating himself with the accounting school, Dr. Moses has given several talks to high school assemblies. His favorite "speech" is entitled "Three Wise Fools." A vocational guidance discussion, it has received high praise from various educational leaders.

In its constant efforts to help high school students solve their problems of future careers, Pittsburgh School of Accountancy faculty members have addressed over 15,000 students in nearly 50 high schools since the first of the term.

CHAIN STORE SALES

Sales of the first 13 chain store and mail order companies to report for March were $93,129,699, a decline of 17.3 per cent from the comparable period of 1932.

Lane Bryan, Inc., March sales were $836,844 against $1,166,799 in March, 1932, and for three months total $2,311,435 against $2,985,646 in the like 1932 period.

Index of Volume Continues Climb

Ever since July 1932, when the low for the depression was reached, the trade volume index prepared by the Alexander Hamilton Institute has shown a steady upward trend. The current trade volume index is 76.9 as compared with 75.2 the previous month, 74.1 a year ago, and the low of 67.0 in July 1932.

PIG IRON, SCRAP BUYING GAINS

CLEVELAND, April 10.—(AP.)—Heavier purchasing of pig iron and scrap was reported by the magazine Steel in its weekly review of the iron and steel industry today.

In some instances these purchases covered the requirements of leaving consumers for the remainder of the year and were accompanied by a strengthening of the raw-material price structure.

The publication said:

"Not only is the volume of orders larger than recently when fears of price inflation started a moderate buying movement, but shipments also have been increased substantially.

"Lack of a surplus of iron and steel scrap in the Middle West and in the East, where there have been heavy drains for export, has led to large sales. . . .

"Following the American Radiator & Standard Sanitary Corporation's purchase of its pig iron requirements for this year, and the sale of 15,000 tons of gray forge iron to an Eastern Pennsylvania foundry, pig iron prices display a much firmer tone.

"Pittsburgh and valley furnaces are stabilizing prices with Bessemer up 50 cents a ton. Cleveland furnaces have raised their prices 50 cents for outside delivery. Scrap prices are up 50 cents to $1 at Pittsburgh."

Finished steel has participated in less spectacular manner, it was pointed out, but steel ingot production has lifted 2 points to 17½ per cent. More important gains were noted in the finishing mills in the Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Cleveland and Chicago districts. Tin plate production also is up 5 points to 45 per cent.

Reichsbank Repays Portion of Credit

BERLIN, April 10.—(AP.)—The Reichsbank today paid to the Bank of France its $17,500,000 share of the $100,000,000 rediscount credit advanced in July, 1931, in conjunction with the Bank of England, the Bank for International Settlements and the Federal Reserve Bank. The other banks will be repaid in the near future.

The gold discount bank's $45,000,000 balance of the original $50,000,000 advanced by American banks also is likely to be repaid on June 30, the date of expiration.

COPPER, ZINC PRICES FIRM

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Copper and zinc became steadier last week on reports of prospective curtailment of production in the former and actual reduction in mine output of the latter. Although no formal announcement of the shutdown of United States copper mines was made, trade rumors of closure for six months were accompanied by refusal of sellers to offer below 5¼ cents, an advance of ¼ cent. Moderate business developed at that level, while demand from abroad was fairly active at advancing prices.

Large zinc producers in the tri-state district have inaugurated a plan to operate two weeks and close two weeks for a period of five months. Production of ore in the entire district is expected to be reduced by 40 per cent. Sellers of metal withdrew, prices steadied and a moderately improved demand was reported. A March increase in surplus stocks was without apparent market influence.

The effect of zinc ore curtailment on reducing supplies of lead concentrates had a stabilizing effect in the lead market, causing sellers to become reserved.

Tin advanced steadily on firmness of London and Singapore as well as continued scarcity of nearby straits tin. Premiums asked for this metal have resulted in improved buying of English refined. A favorable view of March statistics, showing decreased visible supplies, and gains in the tin plate and automobile industries were sympathetic influences.

TEXAS COMPANY CUTS LOSS

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The Texas Corporation had a net loss in 1932 of $2,161,840 compared with net loss of $9,954,478 in 1931, it was disclosed in the annual report.

Current assets on December 31 amounted to $133,426,320, equivalent to $13.43 a share of the outstanding capital stock. Cash amounted to $26,402,446 compared with $21,109,142 at the close of 1931. Marketable securities totaled $10,779,113 against $10,724,587 a year ago. Current liabilities were $27,527,989 against $26,948,458. The company had no bank loans.

Commenting on conditions in the oil industry during the year, R. C. Holmes, president, said in part:

"The chief causes of the demoralization in the oil business are: First, the high gasoline taxes, the evasion and underselling by many, carrying down the market prices below costs of those who pay; second, disregard by a few crude oil producers of the conservation and probation authorities and their orders, particularly in the fields of East Texas, Pandle of Texas, and Oklahoma City."

Banking and Monetary Conditions Return To Normal State

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE RETURN of bank and monetary conditions to a normal state is taking place rapidly. The past week was marked by outstanding progress in this direction.

First of all, President Roosevelt's modification of the gold embargo was virtually equivalent to a restoration of the country to the gold standard.

Third, the reduction in the New York rediscount rate from 3½ per cent to 3 per cent reflected a general easing in the money market as funds withdrawn from the Federal Reserve System during the period of banking stress were returned.

Gold Standard Near To Full Restoration

THE UNITED STATES went off the gold standard on the day that President Roosevelt declared an embargo on gold exportations. A practically complete return took place last week when the President authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to license the export of gold for legitimate commercial purposes. This means that world commerce and foreign exchange transactions can be conducted in the usual manner. The only restriction is against withdrawals for hoarding or for the purpose of taking metal out of the country when no legitimate movement of commodities is taking place.

Complete restoration of the gold standard cannot be said to exist since there still are restrictions against the holding of the metal or of gold certificates by individuals. It appears quite probable, however, that the removal of the remaining restrictions will not be far distant.

* * *

New York Rate Cut By Federal Reserve

THE REDUCTION in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reflects the fact that abnormal strain has been removed from the banking structure. The rate was boosted from 2½ per cent to 3½ per cent on March 2 when the banking crisis started. The reduction to 3 per cent reflects the improving trend.

While one Federal Reserve district bank saw its ratio drop below 40 per cent during the crisis and several others were dangerously near that level, the ratios of all the banks now are comfortably above this point. The ratio for the system as a whole on April 5 was 59.7 per cent. This compared with 57.8 per cent a week earlier.

Since the reopening of banks, money rates have declined steadily. The rate for bankers' bills dropped to 1¼ per cent from 3⅝ per cent, for call money to 2 per cent from 5 per cent, for commercial paper to 3 per cent from 4½ per cent and for treasury bills to ¼ or ½ per cent from 4¼ per cent.

REFINERS USE NEW SALES METHODS

NEW YORK, April 10.—Substituting bootleg oil for the widely advertised brands of high grade motor oil will, it is expected, be eliminated by a new method of distributing and dispensing just developed by Continental Can Company, Inc., it was announced today by Thad G. Searle, general manager of sales for the company.

The method has already been adopted by several of the largest oil refiners who has seen the advantages of this new method of distributing oil to the motorist. These refiners are introducing the plan in various sections as rapidly as present facilities can be changed over and shortly expect to have it in operation in filling stations throughout the entire country.

The method involves packing the oil at the refinery in sealed, non-refillable, tamper-proof tin cans, filled and closed in exactly the same manner as those used for food products.

The oil is put into the customer's automobile by the use of a dispensing funnel, into which a sealed can of oil is placed and which has a device to cut the can open. Cans so opened cannot be used again.

The plan eliminates oil tanks, measures, pumps, drums and similar equipment in service stations and insures delivery to the customer of absolutely clean oil of the brand and grade he wants and is paying for, with no possibility of tampering, substitution, shrinkage, or adulteration. Service stations are enabled to carry, at a minimum cost, a complete stock of oils of different grades at considerable saving of expense and space. Furthermore the new method permits more accurate inventories and greater ease in handling the product.

WASHINGTON.—(INS.)—Per capita consumption of oranges in the United States has increased 25 per cent in the past five years, according to the Commerce Department. The average annual consumption from 1927 to 1931, inclusive, was 25 pounds. In the five preceding years, the average was 20 pounds.

Rancher Battles Cougar With Knife

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—Using a stick of wood and a pocket-knife, William Devaul, rancher near here, killed a 200-pound cougar. Devaul fired the last shell in his gun, striking the big cat in the jaw, only slightly wounding it. While his dogs worried the cougar, he managed to dispatch it with his knife after stunning it with a club.

STOCKS CLOSE STRONG, UP 1 TO 4

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The spring rally in the stock market developed signs of bull hilarity today, as prices registered their sharpest gains in more than three weeks. The turnover expanded to about 1,900,000 shares, and many issues pushed up 1 to more than 4 points.

Reports of quickened activity in the steel and automobile industries, the pre-Easter stimulous to retail trade, continued strength in commodity prices, notably wheat, copper and silver, combined with continued conjecture as to the prospect of controlled inflation, gave the new week in the securities markets a brisk sendoff. Prices were strongest at the opening and near the close, and final prices were around the best.

In view of the paralyzing effects of the banking holiday, a sharp contraction in United States Steel's unfilled business had been looked for, but tonnage on its books showed a decline of only 13,198 tons for March, which was much smaller than in the same month of last year. Furthermore, the advance late last week in steel scrap prices, together with today's estimate by Steel that ingot production in the past week had risen 2 points to 17½ per cent of capacity, all tended to add fuel to the speculative flare in this group, which started in the late dealings Saturday.

Washington news still remained the focal point of financial attention, although it was somewhat divided between the legislative program, and signs of real business improvement. The inflation bug still buzzed about speculative circles, but financial quarters were convinced that the government would restrict inflationary activity to credit expansion, and would so control it as to protect its own credit.

Thus, the bug was viewed in conservative banking quarters as less disturbing than some time ago. If public utility interests were still disturbed over the Tennessee River Valley project, on which President Roosevelt delivered a message to Congress today, the utility shares scarcely reflected it, for they were stronger than they have been in some time.

The cheapening of money rates proved fresh evidence of the passing of the troubles of last month, and made the outlook for government financing of its rehabilitation projects still better. Call money renewed at 1½ per cent, against a 2 per cent renewal rate on Friday, and outside money was available at 1 per cent.

COTTON HIGHER AT FINISH

NEW YORK, April 10.—Cotton advanced today in company with the wheat and grain markets. July sold up to 6.75 with active months showing net gains of 9 to 10 points during the morning and while volume tapered off at the advance, no selling pressure of consequence developed. The mid-afternoon market was quiet and steady at net gains of 6 to 7 points.

Futures closed steady, 3-5 higher. May, 6.54; July, 6.69-70; October, 6.91-92; December, 7.05-06; January, 7.12; March, 7.25. Spot quiet; middling 6.60.

LIVERPOOL, April 10.—Cotton, 200 bales, all American. Spot quiet; prices 3 points higher; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.06; good middling, 5.76; strict middling, 5.46; middling, 5.31; strict low middlings, 1.11; low middling, 4.96; strict good ordinary, 4.76; good ordinary, 4.46. Futures closed quiet and steady. May, 5.08; July, 5.08; October, 5.12; December, 5.15; January, 5.16; March, 5.20.

Steel Orders Drop To New Record Low

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation decreased 13,198 tons in March to a total of 1,841,002 tons, a new record low since publication of the figures was started. In February the backlog was 44,444 tons.

A decrease of much larger proportions had been generally expected in Wall street as a result of the slackening business that accompanied the March bank holidays. Operating ratios have since expanded considerably.

Continental Shares Stricken from Curb

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The New York Curb Exchange today announced the "removal from dealings" of Continental Shares, Inc., preferred series B and convertible preferred stocks and Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment Company prior preferred stock $6 dividend series, and preferred stock $7 dividend series.

No official explanation was given for elimination, but it was understood that their inactivity was a primary factor in the action taken by the exchange.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Raw sugar declined 5 points early today. Futures opened unchanged to 1 point lower under renewed liquidation and some selling through houses with trade and Cuban connections, influenced by the disappointing showing of London and the easier spot market. The market at midday showed net advances of 1 to 2 points.

Refined was unchanged. There were fair withdrawals against old contracts, but new business continued light. Refiners were listing at 4.20 for fine granulated, with second hands available at 5 points less.

Forbes

Majority of Developments Are Favorable

By B. C. FORBES

APRIL has brought a majority of encouraging developments.

CEREALS, led by wheat, have enjoyed a rebound averaging five cents a bushel. Cotton has done somewhat better, and is now above the level of a year ago. Price improvement was registered last week also by butter, eggs, raw sugar, rubber, gasoline, copper.

Mr. Forbes

RETAIL REPORTS record substantial quickening of Easter buying. In certain sections merchants are doing better than at this season either last year or the year before.

Various motor manufacturers announce gratifying buying since banks reopened. Latest railway freight figures also show gains. Commercial failures have declined notably.

I LEARN that the Federal Reserve contemplates renewing its "open market" policy on a pronounced scale. That is to say, the governmental banks plan to supply commercial banks with the means to increase loans on a large scale. One effect would be to bring about still easier rates in leading financial centers. By making it utterly unprofitable to lend money on call or time loans secured by stock market collateral, it is hoped that bankers will be induced to adopt a more liberal attitude towards other classes of borrowers.

NOTWITHSTANDING the avowed readiness of large city bankers to furnish warranted credit facilities, complaints still are very rife that the safeguards and security demanded are such as to keep down borrowing to insignificant volume.

THE FINANCIAL world is somewhat confused by the bewildering multiplicity of actual and recommended activities at Washington. Measure after measure of epochal importance is brought before Congress with breath-taking rapidity.

To form mature judgment on every phase of every new proposal is found impossible. Uncertainty over what will be done to regulate new security issues, what will be done in the way of insuring or guaranteeing bank deposits, what will be done tariffwise, what will be done to limit drastically the work-day and work-week, what will be done to revolutionize our national railway system, what will be done in the way of compelling consumers to pay bounties to food growers, what will be done to take over farm mortgages, what will be done in the utility field—these are some of the momentous matters which are engaging, not to say distracting, the minds of responsible men of affairs, responsible employers.

ALTHOUGH, fortunately a more hopeful attitude has spread since the nation-wide bank crisis, latest events at Washington are causing not a few executives to await further developments before launching aggressive programs for stimulating buying. "We prefer to wait and see just what Congress does before committing ourselves to substantial expenditures," say hesitant heads of corporations. They figure that the present hectic session of Congress will be over before very long, and that then it will be possible to formulate plans more intelligently, with less risk.

The financially-minded are anxious to see just how the administration will proceed to bring about reflation—or perchance, inflation, although fears of the latter are now less acute.

IF CONGRESS would take time to suspend or modify anti-trust laws leaders in various industries would be prompted to take steps to eradicate evils now bedeviling both earnings and employment.

There is growing demand, too, that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be empowered to extend its favors to industrial and other business organizations now outside the R. F. C. lending pale.

WINTER WHEAT CROP CUT

CHICAGO, April 10.—Notable strength developed in wheat values late today owing to reports of dust storms southwest and because of evening up for the government April report.

Prices advanced more than a cent a bushel for wheat, and hovered around the season's top quotations for September contracts. Little attention was paid to inflation talk, crop news being the dominant factor.

D. & R. G. WINS TUNNEL CASE

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The Moffat Tunnel League of Western Colorado and the Uintah Basin Railroad League of Eastern Utah lost their contention in the Supreme Court today that they had a right to sue in the Federal Courts to prevent the Denver and Rio Grande Western from acquiring stock control of the Denver and Salt Lake Railway.

The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the Denver and Rio Grande Western to make the purchase, thus giving it the use of the Moffat Tunnel in moving trains west from Denver, and also to build the Dotsero Cutoff connecting the two systems near Glenwood Springs.

Its action was based largely on the importance of solving traffic problems presented in crossing the Continental Divide which had been accomplished by the Denver & Rio Grande Western making a long loop south and west of Denver.

The two leagues represent communities and property owners.

LOCAL MARKET MOVEMENTS NARROW

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange were firm in the opening session of the new week but there was no general rise such as took place on the "big board." Small fractional changes on the up side marked the dealings here. In New York several of the leading industrials started the day higher and made further progress as the session lengthened. Volume was considerably above the rate of the past few sessions.

Lone Star Gas rallied in the local market but there was not enough activity in the stock to impress the traders. The brewings held around the levels prevailing at the end of last week. In this section, too, the trading was light. United Engineering fell back slightly as small offerings found no takers at the previous price. Pittsburgh Screw & Bolt was firm.

RAILWAY BONDS STAGE RALLY

NEW YORK, April 10.—(INS.)—Strength in speculative rails and domestic corporation loans featured the late bond market trading today with the market as a whole maintaining a generally firm tone through the close.

The proximity of the publication of the administration rail plan attracted active buying in second-grade carrier issues. Among the strong spots were the Northern Pacific 6s, New York Central 4½s, Pennsylvania 4½s of '70, Southern Pacific 4½s of '69, and Southern Railway general 4s.

United States Governments were dull but firm in tone, with gains of small fractions the rule in the majority of Treasury issues.

Among the domestic bonds to advance 2 and more points were American and Foreign Power 5s, Goodyear Rubber and Tire 5s, Pathe 7s and the various International Telephone issues.

German bonds were mixed in the foreign group, with a fractional gain in the International 5½s offset by a loss of more than a point in the External 7s.

A. T. & T. February Earnings Shrink

NEW YORK, April 10.—The American Telephone and Telegrap Company reports:

The above report covers operating activities only excluding non-operating income such as dividends, interest and other revenues received and non-operating charges such as interest and rents paid.

High Court to Hear Tobacco Bonus Suit

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Richard Reid Rogers, minority stockholder of the American Tobacco Company, was granted a Supreme Court review of his action to have declared invalid the bonuses paid the president and vice president of the company from 1926 to 1931.

CAPITAL NEWS ENCOURAGES MARKETS

By MERRYLE RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The financial markets were heartened toward the close of the week by indications from Washington that the administration was aware of the need of counteracting current deflationary influences.

Mr. Rukeyser

Part of the inevitable clean-up in banking and in government finances represented further deflation—the failure of banks with upwards of $4,000,000,000 in deposits to reopen and the drastic economies in the operating expenses of the federal government. Both represented an effort to establish a firm base for positive plans for an organized battle against the depression.

But for a time the street was confused by rumors that Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, and others, were bringing pressure to avoid future counter-deflationary measures.

STRESS BUYING POWER

Of course, President Roosevelt in his campaign addresses and in his message to Congress on unemployment has consistently emphasized the need of bolstering purchasing power.

He has been an ardent believer in the value of public works as a counter deflationary influence, and has committed himself to an accelerated program. He is eager to arrange their financing on a proper basis. His solicitude in this direction will heighten the value of the public works program when it is released.

The usefulness of such a program can be amplified if it is widely supported by public opinion. If such works represents a net increase to the total volume of business, it can be immensely constructive.

UP TO INVESTORS

On the other hand, if timid private investors and private business interests, frightened by unsound financing methods, withdraw to an equivalent extent from private activities, the public effort merely offsets the decline in private activities.

Among the reflationary plans under way are efforts quickly to reopen closed banks; a plan for raising agricultural prices, and the broad program for increasing employment through heightened public and semi-public works and possibly through federal bonuses and guarantees to private concerns.

As a practical matter, a continued deflationary drift toward lower prices for securities and commodities would weaken the position of institutions now solvent and would also unbalance the newly balanced budget by curtailing the national income, from which taxes must be drawn.

BEER SYMBOLIC

The return of beer was symbolic. It was equivalent to the opening of a new industry, and it gave the welcome spectacle of expanding activity. The actual dollars and cents spent on equipment was magnified in importance because the spending was concentrated within a short period of time.

In general, there are subsurface indications that executives are wondering whether the time may not be near at hand for laying plans to move forward. Those who felt despondent in February are beginning to recognize that new forces at work may establish a new equilibrium.

SILVER METAL IN DEMAND

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Heavy speculative buying appeared in the silver market here today and quotations jumped.

Unconfirmed reports from Washington that administration representatives had conferred with the British ambassador concerning means of raising the price of the metal helped to put an edge on speculative interest.

It was said that the discussion held so far covered such matters as a possible limitation of silver production combined with a limitation on sales by the Indian government; also the use of larger amounts of silver as token coins by the principal nations.

Visible Grain Supply.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The visible supply of American grain shows these changes in bushels: Wheat decreased 2,697,000; corn decreased 1,382,000; oats decreased 132,000; rye increased 70,000; barley decreased 61,000.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 10.—An atmosphere of restrained optimism apparently prevailed in the bond market today and prices in most categories were inclined to edge up moderately. United States government securities traveled over an extremely narrow path. The foreign section was moderately irregular.

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

STEEL TONNAGE DROP SMALL

NEW YORK, April 10.—(INS.)—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation showed a decrease of 12,198 tons during March, to a total of 1,841,002 tons on March 31, the monthly compilation disclosed today. This was a new low record for unfilled tonnage, but the decrease was much smaller that Wall street had anticipated, with recent estimates looking for a decrease of about 100,000 tons in the backlog of the corporation.

The showing confirmed recent reports of an upturn in steel orders in the latter part of March. The industry's operations have been rising also and are currently around 17½ per cent of capacity against low point of 12 per cent during the bank shutdown.

The unfilled orders at the end of the month compare with 1,854,200 tons on February 28, 1,898,644 tons on January 31 and 2,472,413 tons on March 31, 1932.

Better Week-End News Buoys Sentiment In Street

There is a distinctly better feeling around the Street. Brokers say that for the first time in a long while the week end news was fair to good instead of poor as it has been. Any encouragement, say brokers, would bring buying into the market from their clients. The Street likes the steel news—the improved auto sales and improvement in car loadings. Retail stores are reporting increasing sales from many centers and last but not least the financial district is pleased with the news from Washington relative to world economic discussions as well as tariffs.

Publication of the United States Steel Corporation's unfilled tonnage at noon, showing a decrease of only 13,198 tons during March, was construed as highly favorable in the financial district and led to buying of the Steel shares. Steel common went above 32, the best price today, and a gain of about 2 points compared with Saturday's final. Forecasts on the United States Steel tonnage report placed the decrease at at least 100,000 tons, with some guessing the drop would reach as much as 250,000 tons.

Plans for the reorganization of the affairs of the International Combustion Engineering Corporation, in receivership since December 19, 1929, were announced by Eugene W. Stetson, of the Guaranty Trust Company, chairman of the reorganization committee. The plans, set forth in a letter to creditors and stockholders, contemplate the formation of a new company to be known as International Comoustian, Inc., which will take over the business and assets of the companies in receivership. All the units of the present company, it was said, would be kept together. Stockholders will be entitled to subscribe for new prior securities carrying with them 80 per cent of the common stock of the company to the extent that creditors do not subscribe.

"The Trader," in Barron's Weekly, says in part: "One swallow does not make a summer so that excessive optimism at this juncture may prove premature. Nevertheless, in the relapse of money rates to levels prevailing before the bank holiday, in the enforced return of hoarded gold to the Federal Reserve system by May 1, in the rise of commodity prices, in the continued drive of the administration against the entire economic front, and especially in the outspoken attack upon 'economic nationalism,' accompanying the call of Secretary Hull for the meeting this month preliminary to the later world economic conference, are some of the essentials of revival. It is at least time to begin to think hopefully. The March bank holiday may prove to have been the nearest approach to the 'chaos' long predicted."

The initial half hour was characterized by dealings on a heavier scale than had been witnessed for some weeks. Bunching of such orders for execution made for the appearance of very substantial transactions in many issues, the initial trade in Montgomery Ward involving 4,500 shares, and the first deal in General Motors a block of 6,000 shares. Allied Chemical, American Can, Pennsylvania and a number of other active favorites opened higher on initial trades involving blocks of 1,000 to 2,000 shares.

Data on the outstanding short account made public after the closing on Saturday, confirmed the belief expressed at the time, that the spirited rise on March 3, the day prior to the bank holiday, was occasioned in no small measure by a hasty retreat on the part of big shorts. Between the opening on February 27 and the opening March 3 the short account was steadily decreased, contracting by 190,158. Taking the figure at the beginning of business on March 14., however, which would be equivalent to the close of business on March 3, it is shown the short interest was cut by some 120,000 shares additional, making its low point at that time. Since then the short interest has expanded about 87,000 shares and stood on March 27 at 1,430,349 shares.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 10.—Higher prices were the rule in today's curb market. Trading was fairly active and interest again centered largely in industrial and specialty shares, with utilities neglected.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Philadelphia Company and subsidiaries report for 12 months ended January 31, 1933, net income of $8,733,473 after all charges, against $13,512,808 in previous 12 months.

Duquesne Light Company report for 12 months ended January 31, 1933, shows net income of $11,595,521 after all charges, compared with $13,924,541 in 12 months to January 31, 1932.

Standard Gas and Electric Company, parent company only, for 1932 shows net profit of $9,126,716 after taxes and interest, amortization, etc., equal after preferred dividend to $1.27 a share on 2,162,607 oustanding shares of common, compared with $11,775,245 or $2.41 a common share in 1931.

Long Island Road Decision Upheld

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court today upheld an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission requiring continued operation of the Long Island Railroad over Pennsylvania tunnel tracks into Pennsylvania Station and approving a rental agreement.

The Transit Commission of New York appealed the case alleging that excessive rental was being charged with the Long Island, which in turn, was reflected in the road's application to increase commuters' fares.

The rental rose to $2,835,000 in 1928 and was defended by Pennsylvania interests on the ground that the Long Island has profited by the use of the Pennsylvania tunnel and station.

Soft Coal Output Higher Last Week

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania shared in the slight decline in bituminous coal production the week ended March 25.

The state turned out 1,305,000 tons as compared with 1,370,000 tons the previous week and 1,546,000 tons the corresponding week last year.

National production, however, increased slightly the following week. The Bureau of Mines today estimated the output of the nation at 5,168,000 tons as compared with 5,106,000 tons, the week ended March 25.

Shoe Production Up in February

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—American factories produced 26,261,876 pairs of boots and shoes in February, the largest monthly output since October, the Commerce Department announced today.

SMALL RALLY, NO SUSTAINED RISE SEEN

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Last week, comprehensive market averages gained one or two points, mostly on Thursday. Rail stocks and utilities did little, but miscellaneous "industrial" stocks were bid up considerably. The market turned dull and made little headway on Friday and Saturday.

The activity was widely diffused, a notably small percentage of the total trading being concentrated. Case, General Motors and Aviation of Delaware were among the most active.

There was an apparent tendency to shift from one group to anothers, rails, motors, oils, gold mining shares and steels all being given little whirls.

SMALL TRADERS BUSY

At the present stage, this probably indicates that efforts are being made to develop a rally by appealing to the public. I would say that there has been considerable scattered buying of low priced issues by small traders. The average man is afraid of money, and is open to the appeal of the inflation psychology, with its urge to go short of money and long of some property.

Moreover, the hard-boiled traders are inclined to "copper" the public's bet, and for a time their short selling may prove a source of technical strength.

In my opinion, the wisest traders are hoping that prices will be marked up four or five points so they can sell the market, but few of them are willing to buy anything unless for small trading turns.

CRITICAL LEVEL

The market seems to be at a critical level, and should show what can be done in a very few days. It has backed away from the high made on Thursday, which was right at the line of trend which was held since last August.

So that level should be watched closely. If the majority of stocks continue to rise, on moderate activity, and the averages penetrate Thursday's high, this bulge could easily go three or four points higher—say to the high of March 23.

A slight reaction Monday or Tuesday, with no considerable volume, would not be bearish. Dullness on such a reaction would increase the prospect of further recovery.

CONTRAST TO 1921

Some observers are seeing similarities to the spring of 1921, and there are some superficial resemblances, but the background then was very different. At that time, the industrials ran up to a high in May, and then fell to a new low in August. There was only a point or two of difference in the lows touched in each month through May, however, and the long-pull investor should not have bought until August.

To my mind, there is too much "psychology" in the present market. We have no inflation now except a large amount of the frozen results of past inflation. Yet, under the mellowing influence of 3.2 beer, talk about "a little inflation" is widespread, ideas are being inflated. This sort of thing is subject to sentimental reaction.

I am betting (figuratively speaking) against all dollar devaluation schemes. Not only are they futile and dangerous, but—note this: More and more people cannot and do not want their money and incomes reduced in purchasing power.

The thrifty, solvent people of the country, may not get as much publicity as the others, but when it comes to a showdown they will be heard from.

Steel Prices.

NEW YORK, April 10.—Steel prices per 100 pounds f. o. b. Pittsburgh: Blue annealed sheets, hot rolled, $1.50. Galvaized sheets, $2.60. Black sheets, hot rolled, $2.00. Steel bars, $1.60.

The Flapper's Daughter

By BEATRICE BURTON

For a week Sharlie thought of nothing but the Gerow Business School and the things she was learning in it.

She found out that she liked shorthand and typewriting. She liked hurrying out at noon for a bite of lunch and hurrying back again to the school.

She enjoyed the quiet evenings at her grandmother's house, playing parchesi with grandmother and funny old Miss Gordon, who chirped like a sparrow when she won a game.

Synopsis

Pretty Sharlie Dunn is forced by her mother to marry Eddie Wallis, young ne'er-do-well, after Sharlie had spent the night in his car, which had run out of gas. Although Sharlie enjoys Eddie's company, she is not in love with him. After the ceremony, Eddie takes Sharlie to live in his untidy apartment. That night Eddie is killed by an automobile. Sharlie returns to her mother's home. Mrs. Dunn and her friend, Maud Hanaberry, plan a party while their husbands are away. Sharlie is sent to her grandmother's. Finding her grandmother out, Sharlie goes to a dance hall. She meets a young man named Percy who insists on taking her home. Frightened, she phones Jim Barnum, a neighbor's son, who takes her to his home. Peeking in a window, she sees her mother and Maud Hanaberry with two men. Next morning Grandmother Dunn calls and reprimands Dodie. Sharlie goes to live with her grandmother for awhile.

Now Go On

She slept on sheets that were scented with lavender and ate supper on the vine-covered back porch. Grandmother was one of those energetic people who get up at 6 in the morning and actually like it.

Sharlie would hear her talking to her cat, Barnaby, and to the chickens when she went to feed them. She would hear the sound of water as grandmother went around the house sprinkling the lawn with a hose that was so old it was bandaged in four places with adhesive tape.

"I love this place," she said to her and to Miss Gordon on Saturday night. "I could stay here forever."

Sharlie was getting out of bed the next morning when the telephone rang. She heard grandmother hurry through the house to answer it.

"Your mother wants you to come home," she said. "She says she's sick and you're to hurry."

DISTURBING NEWS

Sharlie found her mother in bed. She did not look at all ill. Her color was good and her eyes were bright.

"Sit down, Sharlie. I want to talk to you," she said.

"Not there. It makes me nervous to have you sitting there almost on my feet," said her mother.

"Now then," her mother began, "we can talk . . . Sharlie, you know I've never been happy with your father, don't you?"

Sharlie did not say a word. She just sat and looked at her with big troubled eyes.

"You know he's never given me the things that other women have," Dodie went on. "Furs and decent clothes and nice furniture. Not even a piano have I had in all these years . . . All I've had is a roof over my head and a few cheap clothes."

"What are you trying to tell me, Dodie?" she asked. "Are you getting ready to leave Dad?"

Her mother nodded her blonde head.

"That's what I'm getting ready to do, Sharlie," she answered. "I've planned to do it for years. I kept telling myself that I would do it as soon as you were old enough to take care of yourself and keep house for your father. That's why I didn't want you to go to business college or get a job. I knew you'd be needed here."

She paused. "Edna had to butt in, of course," she said bitterly, "and give you the money for Gerow's school. But it's money thrown away, because you'll have to give up all thought of business college and keep house for your father and Edna."

Sharlie shook her head. "I'm not going to give it up," she said firmly. "I can go there and keep this flat in order, too."

She wondered as she spoke if this were really happening. Was she really sitting here in her mother's room listening to her break the news that she was going to leave her father? Or was it just a dreadful dream?

"And now I want you to promise that you won't say a word to your father about those people who were here last Saturday night," Dodie's voice ran on. "I don't want him to know anything about me that he shouldn't know, Sharlie. You see, I'll have to ask for alimony—"

Alimony! Divorce! They were terrible words to Sharlie. Why they meant that the flat would be home no longer. It meant that there would be no more loud talk and laughter in it at night when the Hanaberrys and the Schultzes and the Doolittles dropped in. It meant that there would be no more long conversations over the Sunday morning breakfast table while her mother smoked cigarets and dropped the stubs into her empty cup.

All at once it seemed to Sharlie that her home had always been a delightful place—with her mother helping to make it that way.

"Oh, Dodie, this is going to spoil everything for everybody," she wailed.

EDNA DISAPPROVES

"For everybody but me," her mother corrected her. "It's not going to spoil anything for me—except that it will be hard to give you up. But I've made up my mind that I'm going to think of my own happiness for a change. As Maud says, I have only one life to live."

At noon Maud came across the street, curled and powdered and painted within a inch of her life.

"She always comes just as we're sitting down to a meal," murmured Edna, who saw her coming from the front windows. "I'm so tired of seeing her around this flat, morning, noon and night!"

But this time Maud had not come for a meal. She had come to take Dodie back to her own flat for lunch.

"We'll just have some sandwiches and coffee," she said. "That's all we'll want if we're going out for dinner tonight."

Edna shook her head as she watched them disappear into the apartment house on the other side of the street.

"Your mother must be losing her mind, Sharlie. She and Maud Hanaberry have been running around with two men all this week! . . . They think I don't know about it, but I do!"

Sharlie nodded.

"She must be crazy!" There was disgust in Edna's clear voice. "She'll never find anybody else who'll stand for her laziness and her extravagance the way he has.

UNEXPECTED RETURN

"My mother wouldn't do a thing like that if it weren't for Maud Hanaberry," answered Sharley loyally. "It's all Maud's fault!"

"It's your father's fault," said Edna flatly. "He's always made a fool of Dodie. Never letting her do her own ironing or very much cooking! Always telling her to take things easy and enjoy herself . . . Why, Sharlie, you and I have done most of the cooking and cleaning in this place for the last three years! If Dodie had to hustle around the house more she wouldn't have so much time for Maud Hanaberry and her men friends."

That afternoon at 5 o'clock the men friends came driving down the street in the cream-colored roadster.

Sharlie and Edna, who were sitting beside the open windows of the living room, saw them stop in front of the red brick apartment house across the street and disappear into it.

"That's what Maud meant when she said that she and Dodie were going out for dinner tonight. Those men are taking them," said Edna. "Sharlie, your mother must have lost all sense of decency. She must know that the neighbors all see her drive out in that car three or four times a week!"

As she spoke another car came down the street and stopped just behind the cream-colored roadster.

It was an open car. The back seat was filled with leather suitcases and sleeping bags made of mattress ticking and rolls of blankets.

"They weren't expected home until tomorrow!" cried Sharlie when she could get her breath. "Oh, Edna they're going up to Maud's flat. They'll find those two men there."

Carl and her father were lifting Carl's bags, his fishing tackle and sleeping bag from the car. Laden with these things they vanished, a half minute later, into the apartment house.

"We've got to go over there," Sharlie gasped out, "and pretend that we were in on Maud's party, too. Come along, Edna!"

THE IRISH FAMINE: STARVING PEASANTS AT A WORKHOUSE (POORHOUSE) GATE

The rent-racked Ireland suffered (1846 to 1848), a terrible famine due to the failure of the potato crop. £10,000,000 sterling was voted by Parliament for relief. Vast numbers of people emigrated, especially to America. (World's History.)

POOL IN THE ROCK GARDEN

Stones, plants and a little water in artistic combination make a rock garden, the most intimate and intriguing of all the gardens. A small place adjoining the house, a strip of ground beneath a wall may serve the purpose. (Rockwell: Rock Gardens.) (Gardening.)

MANUFACTURE OF CHLORINE AND CAUSTIC SODA BY ELECTROLYSIS

The Nelson cell is a steel tank containing graphite anodes (positive electrodes) and steel plate cathodes (negative electrodes) separated by an asbestos diaphragm. Saturated sodium chloride (Na Cl) solution is introduced through the brine supply pipe into the anode compartment, where chlorine is liberated by the effect of electricity and collected in the slate gas dome. In the cathode compartment hydrogen is discharged, leaving the hydroxide-ion along with the sodium-ion; a solution of caustic soda (Na OH) being obtained. By evaporation at a high temperature pure caustic soda can be extracted to be cast into sticks. (Left) Cross section of the Nelson cell; (right) side view. (Foster: Elements of Chemistry.)

MAKING OF EARTHENWARE AND CHINA

The bisque ware is dipped into the glaze, which will be fused to it by a second "glost" firing. The glaze is made from pulverized flint, clay and boracic acid fused together, ground and then placed into a ball mill (left) together with spar, whiting, zinc oxide and clay. After mixing it with water and grinding in the ball mill, the milky liquid is passed under a magnet to remove iron, then screened, allowed to settle and the excess water drawn off. The ware is then dipped into this "slip" (center), dried, put in saggers and fired in the "glost" kiln for about a week, a similar operation to that of the biscuit kiln. The invention of the continuous fire tunnel kiln (right) is gradually replacing the other kilns as being more economical and more controllable. It is a long tunnel of firebrick swept by heated air through which the ware passes slowly on trucks. (Science.)

The Vegetation Was Dense

We confess we are not so active or wholesale as the happy suburbanite who combines commuting with weed bending.

We haven't any rakes or spades to slap the terrace around the terrain. When spring arrives the commuter is a patriot who believes he should do something drastic to the country.

We also admit freely, and under no compulsion, that we don't achieve remarkable crops with our roots, seeds, bulbs and jiggers.

But we buy the packages of seeds happily because the printed flowers on the packages are so pretty. You can always throw the seeds away and frame the color lithographs.

There was a time during the world conflict when a war garden was a national duty. Beans, corn and potatoes would feed the Army and the Navy provided the boys heard the first dinner gong.

We did very well in 1917. Turned out a big crop of violets that had got into the bean package by mistake. Folks, gardening in those days was a warlike habit.

B

We're still militant about window boxes. We pour seeds into them by the hatful. We moisten those seeds with the finest of dew from a silver tankard and aim the sun directly at them.

But the only thing that ever comes up is a sparrow or two from the lower balcony.

Some day we will get hold of a seed or bulb that looks like its passport photograph in the florist's window. We had a good start once on a tulip that got one ear above the ground and then stayed that way for the rest of the summer. We fanned that one sprout with our hat, rubbed it with saddle soap and dusted it with pollen from butterflies' wings.

In September it pulled in its chin and decided that horticulture wasn't worth the struggle. But it lasted long enough to fill us with the exaltation of Balboa or somebody on a peak in Darien. We guess we got that right. Anyway, that was the last mailing address he left with us in grammar school, sixth grade, foot of the class.

Start Public Works Now

The Path Is Cleared for Many Projects by the Act of Assembly on Self-Liquidating Jobs.

The Legislature has passed and Gov. Gifford Pinchot has approved Senator John J. McClure's bill permitting counties, cities, boroughs and townships to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for self-liquidating projects. The procedure outlined in the measure is for the municipalities to issue bonds which will be sold at par to the R. F. C.

There are many projects which could thus be financed, and now that the path is cleared it is to be hoped Pittsburgh and Allegheny County and the other cities, boroughs and townships in this district will avail themselves of this opportunity to construct public works.

Public works are required to provide jobs for the unemployed. The municipalities must help the federal government in this undertaking.

Allegheny County has two self-liquidating projects in the plans for toll bridges over the Monongahela at Homestead and the Allegheny at Aspinwall.

Former Congressman Harry A. Estep suggested that wharf improvements contemplated by the city could be made self-liquidating by providing parking space for automobiles, for which a charge would be made.

Former Councilman John M. Phillips was talking the other day of the panic of 1893, in which relief was given by putting jobless men to work in the city parks at wages of $1 a day. He mentioned a man now prominent and wealthy who was one of the dollar-a-day men in that depression and quoted him as saying the men enjoyed the work and were glad to get the wages, low as they were.

It is Mr. Phillips' opinion that many of the idle workmen in Pittsburgh today would be happy to work for low wages rather than be dependent on a dole from the Welfare Fund.

Priming the Pump

Roosevelt's Courageous Economies Have Paved the Way for a Successful Prosperity Loan.

By his forthright and courageous economies which are bringing the operating budget of the federal government into balance, President Roosevelt has intelligently prepared the setting for the successful flotation of a Prosperity Loan.

Investors will have greater confidence in the funded obligations of a government which has skilfully demonstrated its capacity to reduce operating expenditures. The new approach to a balanced budget gives the needed assurance that interest and amortization on loans for useful public projects can be provided.

Accordingly, the federal government is in better position than before to create jobs and economic activity until private business is ready to function normally.

By reversing the adverse economic trends, the federal government, in financing and carrying forward public works and semi-public projects, such as housing developments, will provide genuine relief by building up the gross volume of business in the United States.

As the national production again rises, the period of recovery will in reality be self-liquidating because of the rise in taxable corporate and personal incomes.

In seeking to ascertain the amount of governmental spending needed to start the climb upward, James Harvey Rogers, Yale monetary authority, suggestively points out:

"During the early months of the war, through an average expenditure of approximately $700,000,000 a month, tremendous business activity was stimulated. Soldiers' clothing, munitions, foods and a thousand other articles were bought and consumed in large quantities. Soon the country's economic machine was working almost at capacity.

"Similar activity could certainly be accomplished by like government expenditures.

" . . To the extent that other (private) capital flotations should mount, the expenditures of the government could be safely reduced. Indeed, it should be an integral part of the plan that just so fast as private spending increased, that of the government would be curtailed."

The President has indicated his awareness of this necessary course of action, and should be encouraged to proceed as expeditiously as feasible.

The Censorship Bill

The Public Is Entitled to Know What It Means Before The Senate Acts On It.

Promise is given that the "official secrets" bill which was rushed through the House of Representatives last Monday will be so deleted in the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate as to prevent its operating against the constitutional rights of a free press.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, said the bill would be amended in such a way that the publication of news and public information would not be impaired.

Undersecretary of State Phillips reiterated that no press censorship was intended, and that any language imposing such a censorship should be removed from the bill.

It happens, however, that amendments of this nature might leave very little of the original bill intact.

Its second section would inflict extreme penalties on whosoever should "wilfully publish or furnish to another any matter obtained without authorization of competent authority from any officer or employe of the United States."

This language could, plainly, be stretched to include publication of anything that the government happened not to want published.

Sponsors of the bill have said its only object was to protect "diplomatic secrets." The report of the House committee said:

"The legislation is by its nature very properly auxiliary to the emergency legislation enacted and to be enacted by Congress at the present session."

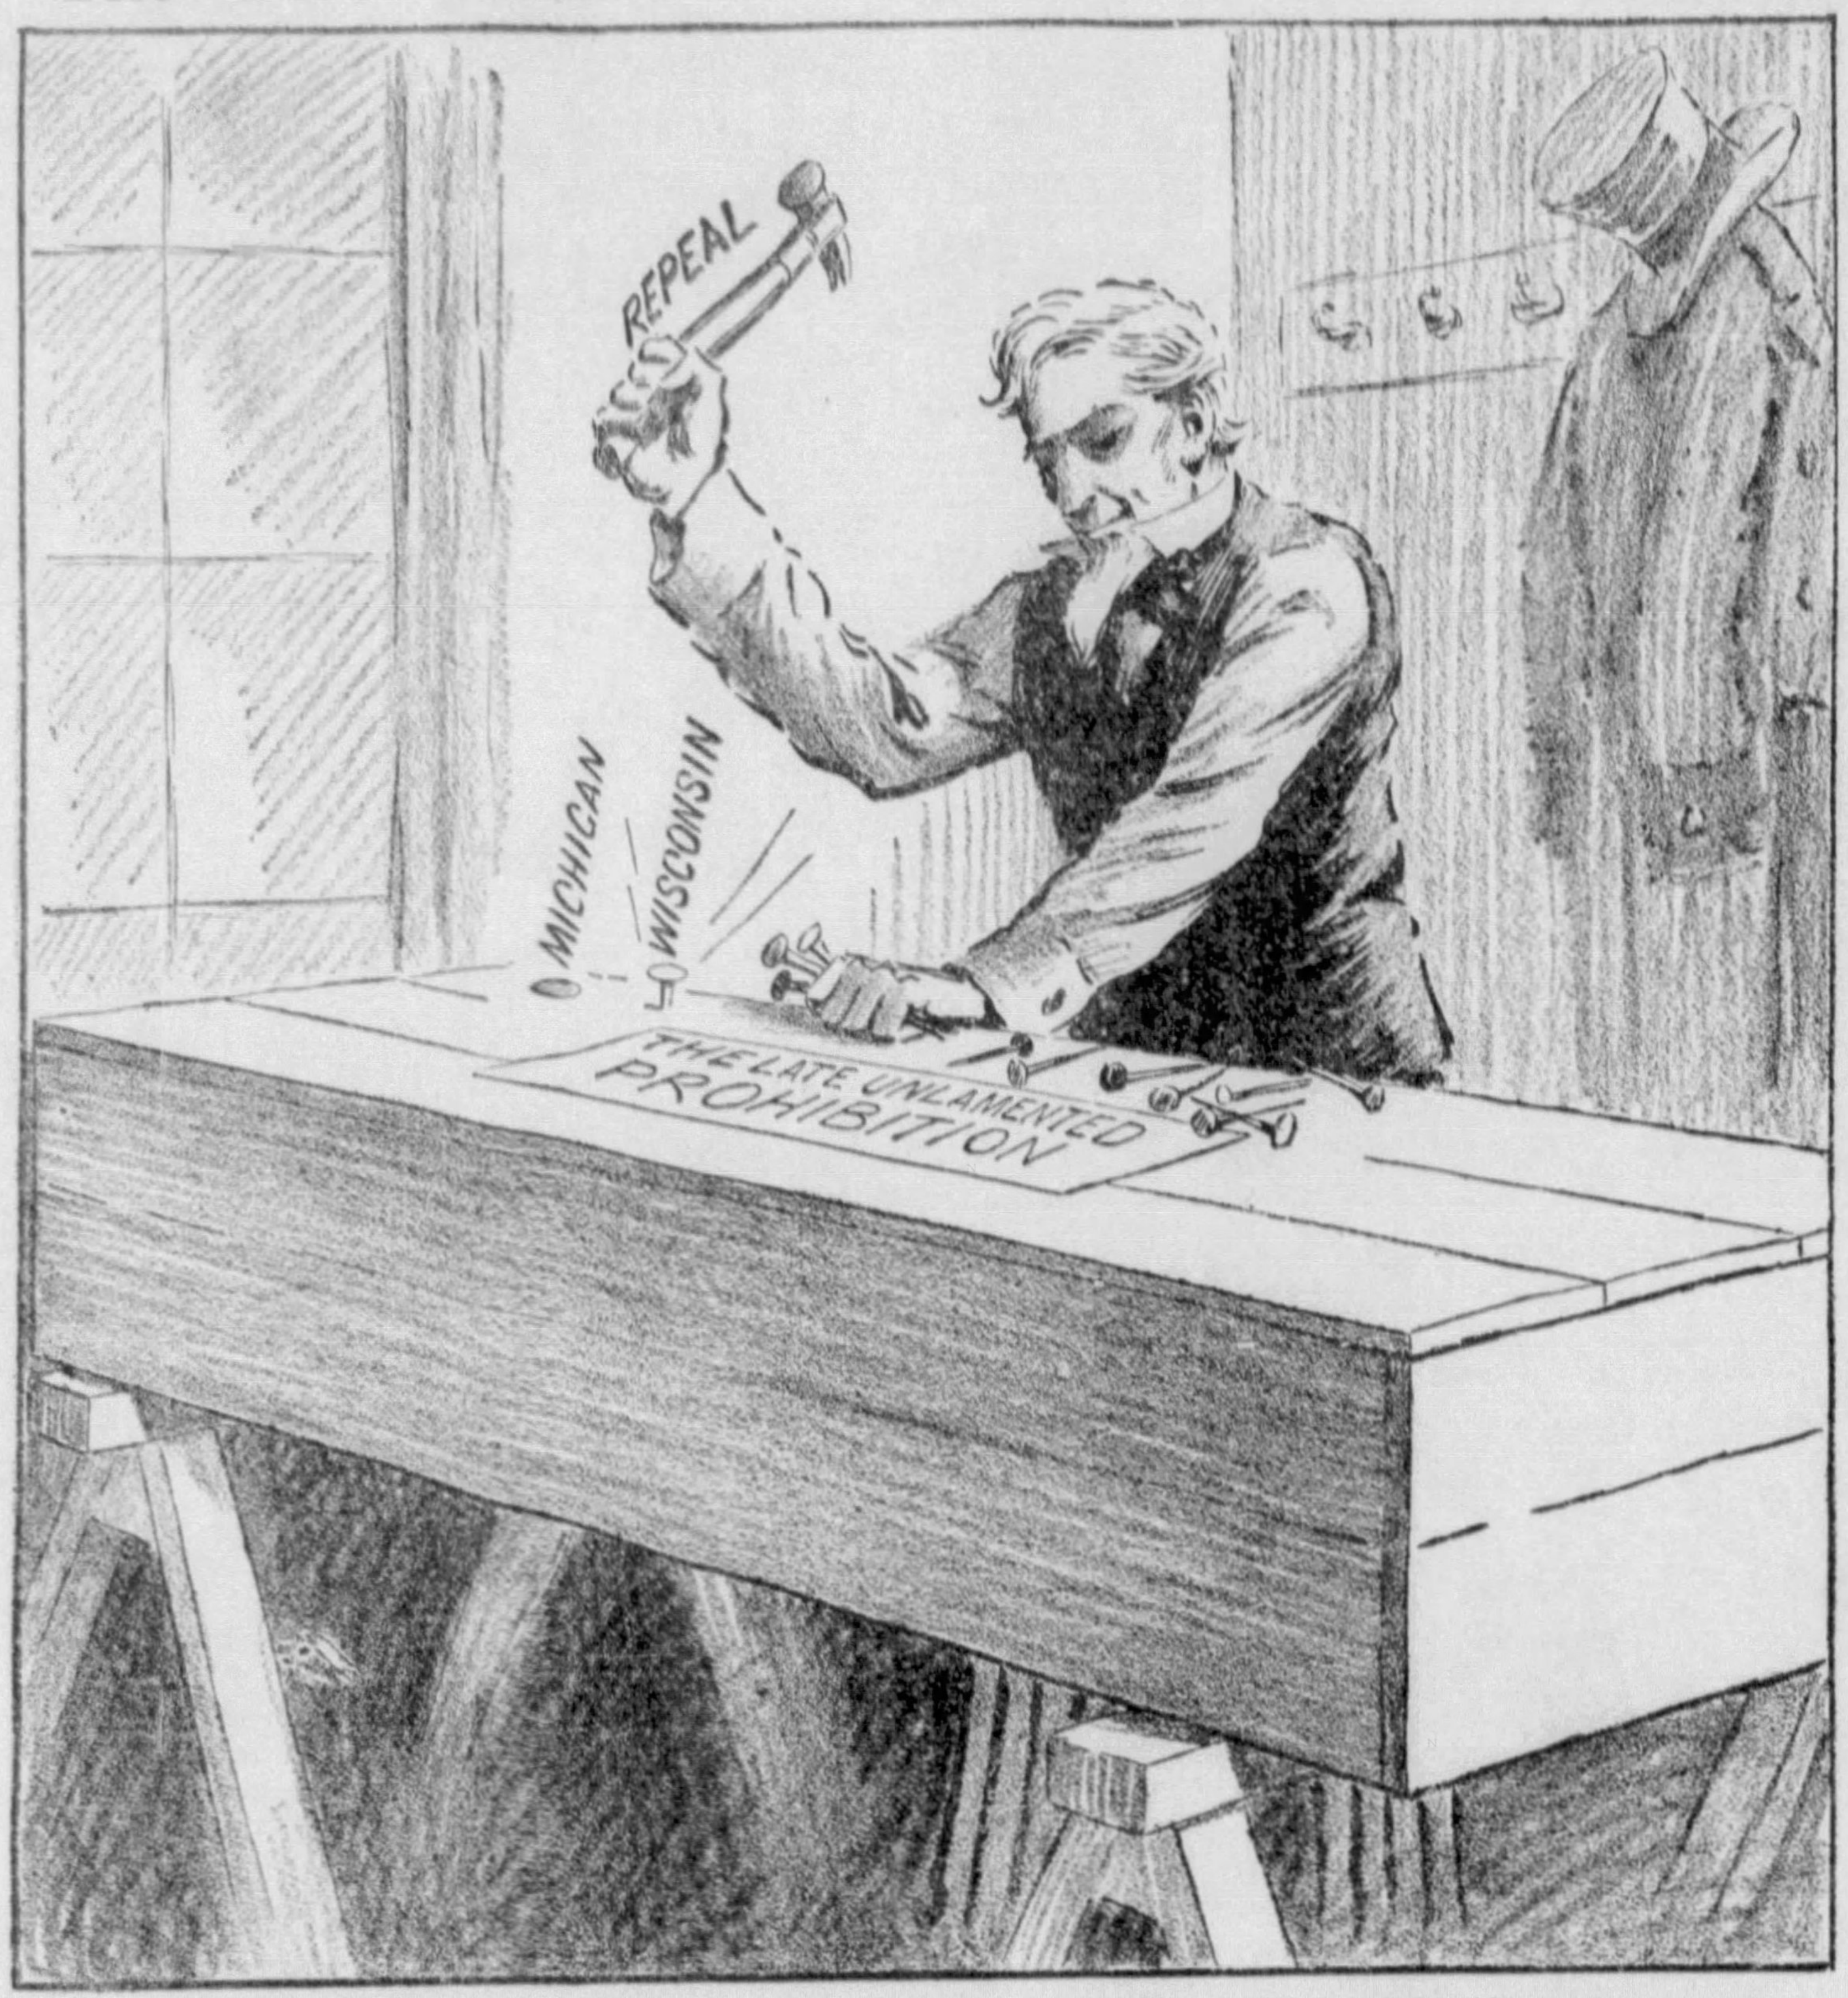
The First Nails

By Nelson Harding



The hammer held by Uncle Sam
Goes bam! And once again goes bam!
He sheds no tears, he wails no wails,
As he drives in those coffin nails.

To those two nails he'll add some more.
He now needs only thirty-four
To properly complete a job
We contemplate without a sob.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 10.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up at my petty whip-whams and cheered by a rousing letter from Bob Davis, the pamphleteer. And Ryley Cooper came with imitations of a storekeeper he met in the Arctic Circle and of his yipping fox terrier, Fanny, as hilarious as ever I heard.

So abroad, falling in with an aged and angry neighbor stamping to a dentist, saying: "Listen my new teeth click when I walk." And they did. Then to the Robert Rubins and talked to Rosamond Pinchot, Ona Munson, Vincent Youmans, Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett and James Forbes.

In the evening a buffet at Sadie Murray's to welcome Gloria Swanson and Michael Farmer. Among others came the Harry Tierneys, Antonio Scotti, Mary Lewis, Marilyn Miller, Paul Frawley, Eddie Foy, Jr., and Clifton Webb. So home, reading "Cities of Many Men," by H. C. Chatfield-Taylor, until near dawn.

* * *

At the Actors' Dinner Club, the Rialto's most appealing charity, the other night, the hostess for the evening was Christie MacDonald, as lovely and charming as in the days when she starred in "Spring Maid" and "Miss Hook of Holland" at the Globe. Among so many stage "garlands that fell forgot," Miss MacDonald appeared in wondrous bloom. She retired at the peak of her career, the most loved actress of her time, to travel and devote her life to an equally attractive daughter.

Among reasons for Damon Runyon so ably skirting the dazzle of the White Way to imprison in his fiction is his nearness to the effulgence. Jerome Kern, by the way, sold his enormous collection of first editions, for which he paid $250,000, for $1,000,000 during the closing days of the boom. Today it is not likely a buyer could be found for $50,000. Mr. Kern wanted to provide an income that would establish him securely for life. One wonders how he came out. So many who sold at top market to invest in "gilt edge" securities fared little better than the rest of us.

Fred Stone's youngest daughter, Carol, has shown no inclination to follow in the illustrious footsteps of her father or sisters, Dorothy and Paula. While studying music, languages and dramatic art, she is doing so solely as a student. She has not the slightest interest in the stage as a career or entertainment. Fred Stone drops in at the Lambs daily and one of his daughters meets him out front later to motor home to Forest Hills. Few theatrical families have clung to the delightful intimacies that mark the home life of the Stones.

I watched a Juliet await her Romeo on the library corner today. A beauty with laughing eyes, one wondered what she could see in him with a tie riding his collar and cow-like docility in his eyes. Yet she slipped her arm in his and swung off with an apparently glowing desire to link their fate with a furniture installment house, a few steps over Forty-second street. Or might it have been a variant of the Old Army Game?

Strangers are usually baffled by bewildering New York menues, duded up with French, in higher priced cafes. But they are not more confusing than the bill of fare rattled off by waitresses in small town hotels. In my father's inn waitresses were imported all the way from Kansas City—and were they glamorous! I took the last dish called. It was the only one I could remember.

Once Overs

—By J. J. Mundy—

You are not above a little mild flirtation, and you let it be known.

Of course not in so many words but your actions indicate it.

Even though you are married and so are your associates, you say you can not see any harm in flirting as a passing amusement.

To you it may be a fleeting incident with just enough sense of danger to provide a little excitement.

On the other hand it may spell disaster for the other one involved, either in destroying home peace or in creating a scandal, perhaps without truth as a foundation.

You think that you are privileged to carry on as you please.

You say it is nobody's business if you want to have a little fun.

But it is true that it takes very little to cause a matrimonial craft to founder.

It makes you feel sort of "devilish" and snappy.

If it makes you feel that way, how many of your friends who look on your childish desire for excitement are laughing behind hands.

But if they are maliciously inclined they may turn your little amusement into a life-long hurt for somebody.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

That little Kansas City robin who fought a one-bird war with his own reflection for 17 days—

Stranger, you don't know the half!

Is anyone picking on me?

Not so's you'd notice.

Has anyone robbed me of any friends or fortune and turned me out into the pitiless streets without a crust?

Nope. Nobody has.

To be really honest with you—nobody has done a daggoned thing to me that should bother a half-wit.

But in spite of all that, you ought to see me carry on!

Why, when it comes to shadow boxing with an imaginary nothing-at-all, I make the Kansas City robin seem a mere amateur.

For days and days 'n' DAYS I go completely haywire with gloom. I neglect my work. I refuse to answer phone calls. I won't even sweep the crumbs under the parlor rug.

And all for what?

All because I'm sorry for myself—

And mad at everyone else because they won't make a big enough fuss over me.

Here I've spent all my life being Perfectly Lovely to everyone . . . giving up all my own fun 'n' convenience for others—

And has anyone ever appreciated me? Has anyone even been decently grateful?

No—no one has.

Well, I'll show 'em! I'll make them wish they hadn't!

Maybe, some day, when they find me lying cold and still, with a Sad, Sweet Smile on my face—then, perhaps, they'll be sorry they weren't good to me.

Yes, I certainly put up a grand battle with myself when I start on a bout of self-pity. And that's just the start.

You ought to hear me, when I decide to be Worried! Tunney, at his fightingest, never put on a more Red Hot Run-Around than I do—without a particle of excuse.

And the funny part of it all is—I've seen Real Trouble—known Real Grief. You'd think that, between rounds, I'd like to enjoy myself and forget my miseries. That, of course, is what any sane person should do. But not Elsie!

No, M'am—me and that little robin—if there isn't a hell handy, we make one!

So on and on we go—

Banging our silly heads—breaking our foolish hearts over some make-believe trouble in the warped looking glass of our minds—

YOU—AND ME—AND THE LITTLE RED ROBIN—

WHAT A FUSS WE DO KICK UP, OVER NOTHING AT ALL!

Text for Today

His Lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.—Matthew, xxv:21.

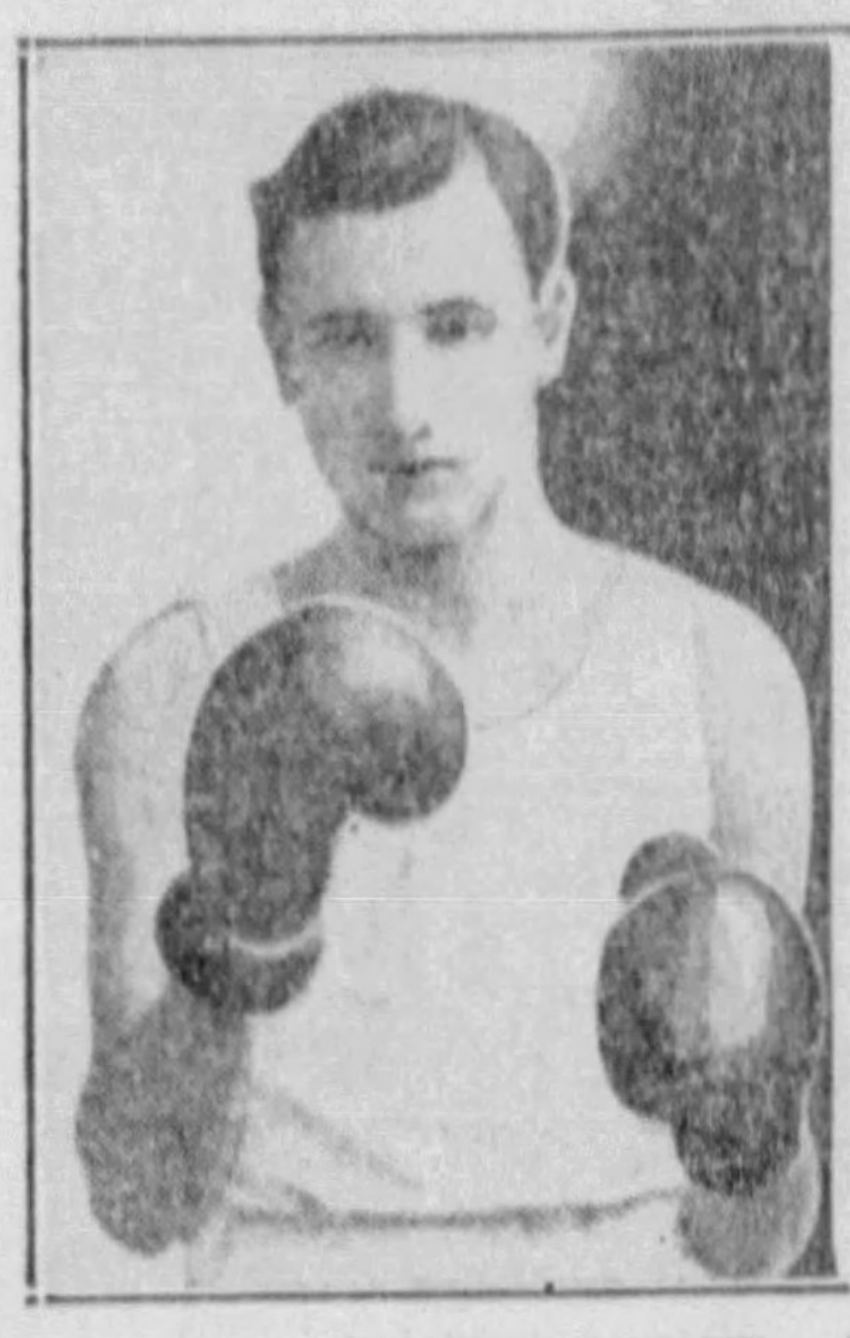
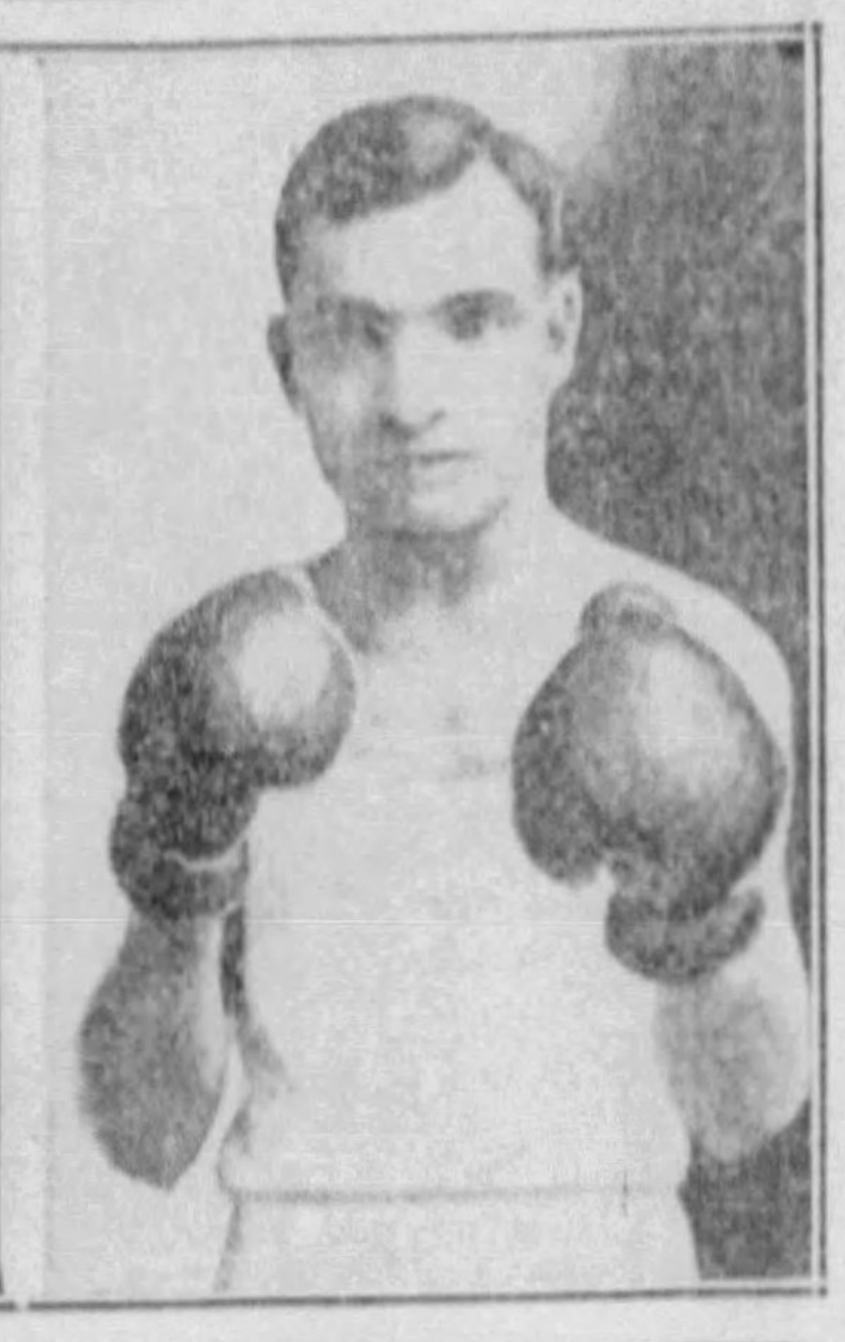
Where Were the Nordics?

Why Can't They Box?



P. J. OPPENHEIM. HE WON



F. W. OBEYESEKERE. HE ALSO WON

The proud Nordic, who imagines himself an individual of PURELY Northern blood—Germanic, Saxon, Celtic, or "what have you"—is so proud of himself and conceited about himself that it is worth while occasionally to ask him a question.

Let him, for instance, look at the four boys' pictures printed here. There were seven young men of the British University of Cambridge that competed in the Inter-University boxing contests. All but two were defeated by Oxford men. The two that won were named P. J. Oppenheim and F. W. Obeyesekere, not exactly what you would call "NORDIC names."

The five boys that lost, of whom two samples are printed, were nice-looking young Nordics. But apparently they couldn't fight as well as Mr. Oppenheim or Mr. Obeyesekere. This does not mean that the Nordic isn't a good fighter. He is a VERY good fighter, but he should get rid of the idea that nobody ELSE can fight, or think, govern or do anything to improve civilization.

J. W. LEE. HE LOST

N. W. BIRBA. HE LOST

Non-Nordics, like the Romans and the French, for instance, were building up civilization, as were the Greeks before them, while British gentlemen and other Nordics were wandering around the swamps of the North, their stomachs painted blue with woad.

The three greatest fighters that ever lived, Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, were not exactly Nordics. And Wellington, the Nordic, had to wait until Napoleon was a sick man, tired out, before he could beat him, with the help of Blucher.

Before we decide, any of us, Nordics Latins, Hebrews, Mongolians, that we are the Lord's chosen the only ones that He really cares about, and to whom He gave superior qualities, let us look around and see what good we can find in those of other races, like, for instance, Mr. Oppenheim or Mr. Obeyesekere, presented here.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

1. Who wrote "Auld Lang Syne"?
2. Where did the surrender of Gen. Lee take place in the Civil War?
3. What keeps food from entering the larynx?
5. What city did Roger Williams found.
6. What American poet worked as a nurse during the Civil War?
7. In what country is Armagh?
8. To what country does Madagascar belong?
9. What is the outflow of the Delaware River?
10. Who is given the credit of inventing the sewing machine?

11. "Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it."	Tennyson
12. "The harp that once through Tara's halls The soul of music shed"	Bible
13. "Nature abhors a vacuum"	Shakespeare
14. "What's in a name? that which we call a rose By any other name would smell as sweet"	Moore
15. "Better not to be at all Than not be noble"	Rabelais

1. Robert Burns. 2. Appomattox, April 9, 1865. 3. Epiglottis. 4. Caffeine. 5. Providence, Rhode Island. 6. Walt Whiteman. 7. Ireland. 8. France. 9. Delaware Bay. 10. Elias Howe. 11. Bible. 12. Moore, "The Harp That Once." 13. Rabelais, "Gargantua." 14. Shakespeare, "Romeo and Juliet." 15. Tennyson, "The Princess."
